FOREWORD

HALF A CENTURY has passed leaving our beloved Alma Mater none the less fair, nor less dignified, more stately perhaps, with this Golden halo about her.

To the Jubilee came representatives from all, save two, of the classes graduated since 1875, when our famous school made her début in the capital city of the nation.

Eager voices rang high in reminiscence as classmates and contemporaries met. Lovingly we entwined, as it were, a huge garland to lay in honor at her feet; "Pansy for thought; rosemary for remembrance;" rue for repentance, and grass for submission. Very tenderly, in and out, we wove the cypress, thinking of the long line of noble M.V.S. women gone before. Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley, beloved by all, Miss Scull, Miss Easton and others of the Faculty, and many sister Alumnae—we could almost see them—"faces long loved and lost awhile." The laurel, bright emblem of immortality and victory we blended with the cypress, softening and hallowing the happiness of the Golden Reunion.

M. V. S. graduate daughters scattered over the United States and across the waters are living witnesses to her wonderful nurture and training. There is constant testimony that those unchanging standards "Vincit qui se vincit" and "Noblesse oblige" are indelibly impressed upon their lives. Oh, our Alma Mater is a miracle of development in every way. I think of her as "A tree planted by the rivers of water, bringing forth her fruit."

She has grown from her modest beginning in her first home on F Street to 1100 M Street, and then to the present building. From the first we have been proud of her. I know for I was there, in her first home, and having been a resident of Washington ever since, I have missed very few reunions.

The succeeding Golden Jubilee records will detail the festivities and revels, and the ceremonies of the semi-centennial celebration. Most impressive of all, of course, was the realization of the new Memorial Chapel, so colonially chaste and beautiful—the enthusiastic dream of the past few years. How glad we were when the last remaining dollars were gathered in, making up the full amount required.

The only shadow of the Jubilee was the absence of our beloved Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley.

Dear Miss Cole, the present head mistress, upon whom the mantle of honor has so worthily fallen—seemed to be everywhere at once, directing the celebration. To her we all gladly swore allegiance and loyalty, with bright hopes for the future.

Oh, wonderful Mount Vernon,
Thy worthy praise we've sung,
And hail thee and thy children
Perennially young.

ADALYN S. HOLDEN, '79.

REJOICE

They stand, the two who have left us,
As yet scarce used to the light,
With their dear eyes straining earthward
For a loved, familiar sight—

The sight of this host rejoicing
In spite of sorrow and pain,
Rejoicing over a heritage
That cannot pass or wane.

Our tears would but grieve their spirits—
Time is too precious for tears,
They found so brief for their purpose
The days, the months and the years.

Our tribute lies not in lamenting
But in counting, with jealous care,
The gifts of their lavish giving
And the fruit that each gift should bear.

Our ears they attuned to the music
Of word and rhythm and sound—
Our eyes they unveiled to the beauty
Of a world that seemed new-found.

Our minds they enriched with knowledge
That awaited life's quickening hour,
To mellow it into wisdom
Or deepen it into power.

Our hearts they freed from the trammels
Of self, and made us aware
How foolish is pride of possession
For aught save the power to share.

Be this then our Jubilee tribute,
To lift one exultant voice
And vow that no ground shall lie fallow.
No field but in growth shall rejoice.

Rejoice that with infinite patience
They taught us the way to live!
Rejoice that by splendid example
They showed us the way to give!

Their gaze they turn now serenely
To the glory that dims the sun,
For they've caught this faint far echo
Of the Master's words, "Well Done."

By MARY E. COLGAN.

MISS JEAN DEAN COLE

S "TEACHER, counsellor, and friend," we admire, respect and love Miss Cole.

She has all those qualities of leadership; courage, magnanimity, unbounded enthusiasm, great strength of will and mind which make her admired and respected as a teacher and educator, plus that indefinable something which makes her loved as a woman.

Years of study mellowed by consecrated thought have brought to her a richness of wisdom of which she gives consciously as a teacher, and unconsciously as a friend to all those privileged to know her.

One of the loveliest things I have ever heard said of Miss Cole is, "She always has a minute to give." Somehow in her busy day she can find time to help each one with problems great or small.

Miss Cole has a way of expressing herself not only beautifully but so that long years afterwards what she says is remembered.

I can hear her now in class saying, "Do the duty which lies nearest thee, which thou knowest to be a duty. Then in the hour of crisis, you will be ready. You do not set the stage or pull the curtains for the big events of life, but if you play each day's part well, you will be prepared for whatever may come."

She lives what she teaches for it is patent to all of us that Miss Cole was ready when the critical hour came. The mantle fell upon her shoulders and "she was not found wanting."

She is the true builder of character. The dreams of architects and engineers are realized in stone and steel, those of Miss Cole are realized in the lives of M. V. S. girls—lives ennobled and enriched by her precept and example.

Each life is as a pendulum that swings between Sorrow and Happiness. Some describe only small arcs, knowing little grief and little joy, but Miss Cole's life describes a great arc. By her power of forcefulness she was able to carry the whole school from deepest sorrow to the great joy of our Golden Jubilee.

To Miss Cole we pledge our support in keeping this school "a sacred trust to cherish its standards and traditions."

JUBILEE

What brought you to the threshold with your arms all filled with flowers
And the dew upon your slender feet, the sunshine in your hair?

I heard a golden bell that rang a charm to bring me hither

For it cast a spell upon me while I yet was unaware.

What brought you to the threshold with your baby on your shoulder,

With the little lad and lassie clinging to you as you came?
I saw a golden light that led me from out the lowland shadows

And I followed in the glory and the shining of its flame.

What brought you to the threshold with your book and brush and pencil,

With endeavor and achievement upon your brow writ high?

I thirsted for the golden cup, the cup you held before me,

With its sweeter drink than ever came from where the vineyards lie.

What brought you to the threshold with your hair of frosted silver

And the ken of love and sorrow lying deep within your eyes?

I found a little pathway, a winding little footway,
That led me back to golden years ere I was sad and wise.

And was the bell a true one, or a cruel faery ringing?
And was the golden shaft of light a signal or a snare?

And was the drink a draught of sweet or of a bitter brewing?

And did the little footway really lead you back to there?

Oh, it drew us and it lighted us, it quenched our thirst and fever,

And it led us like a lover to his loved one's open door,

And in the years before us, whatever lies beyond us,

The day of our Returning we will bless forevermore.

FAITH BRADFORD, 1900.

MINUTES

The meeting of the Fiftieth Annual Reunion of the Alumnae Association of Mount Vernon Seminary was held in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel, May 23, 1925, at 10 o'clock in the morning. There were present over 200 Alumnae. Miss Edith Dennison Cook, the President of the Association, presided in her usual gracious manner.

Immediately after the meeting was called to order, Miss Harriet Belle Walker introduced the graduating class of 1925—the new members of the Alumnae—to the Association, thirty-one in number. The President extended a very cordial welcome to the new members and the president of the Class, Miss Strachan, responded in true M. V. S. fashion.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read, corrected as to the official entrance to the Elizabeth Somers—1104 instead of 1100 M. Street, and approved.

The report of the Treasurer, Miss Grace Willis, was read and approved.

Miss Rachel Coffin moved that: "If any back dues can be collected that they be devoted to the Elizabeth Somers Chapel." The motion was seconded and carried.

Miss Skillman moved that: "Notices be sent to those who are in arrears and who do not pay them today." This motion was carried.

The treasurer of the Chapel Committee, Miss Cornelia Irby Morgan, then gave her report. There being a balance of $8,000 yet to be raised, it was suggested by some one of the Alumnae that: "all those who can, let them give a small gold piece—because it is the Golden Jubilee—toward meeting the $8,000 yet to be raised. This motion was carried after some discussion.

Owing to the fact that Miss Ames had had serious trouble with her eyes, the week before the meeting, Miss Walker gave the report of the Chapel Committee. Before reading this report, Miss Walker asked Miss Ames to come to the platform, which she did and received a rousing ovation. The president of the Class of 1881—Miss Ames' class—asked that a rising vote of thanks be given to Miss Ames. This was granted.

After the reading of this wonderful report, Miss Klotz asked if she might make an announcement. This was granted and she proceeded to tell the Alumnae present that a group of Miss Ames' friends from all classes and years were going to present a bell for the Chapel in honor of Miss Ames. She stated that the makers of the Chimes on the Metropolitan Tower in New York City—the Meneely Bell Company—had already been interviewed and that it was hoped that the bell would be presented probably on November 5th, 1925. This announcement was received with much enthusiasm and prolonged applause.

Miss Ames then stated that there was just a little more to her report, namely the giving of the key to the Chapel into the hands of Miss Cole. She then presented the Headmistress with the key, who in turn accepted it with most appropriate remarks.

At the conclusion of this ceremony, Miss Cole called attention once more to the deficit, whereupon several classes stated their intentions of going "over the top," memorial pews were obtained, and a number of individual gifts presented.

Under the head of new business, a speaker for the Alumnae at the commencement on Wednesday, May 27, had to be selected. It was therefore moved and seconded that Mrs. Robert Lansing be chosen to represent the Alumnae on Wednesday. The motion carried.

The following committee was appointed by Miss Cook to audit the accounts of the Association: Mrs. True, Mrs. Hynson and Mrs. Mohun.

Miss Cole then called attention to the fact that for many years it had been the custom of Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley to call the roll of each class, until the list had grown so long that it was impossible in later years to do this, but on this occasion—the Golden Jubilee—she had decided to call the name of every graduate.

As the roll of each class was called, an M. V. S. girl of 1924-25, in school costume of yellow and white, appeared bearing the banner of the class. Gradually the long line of fifty banner bearers circled about the platform making an impressive and inspiring sight.

A series of pictures of M. V. S., from earliest days up to the present, had been very carefully collected and prepared by a committee, Alice E. Edwards, '93, Chairman, and Florence Grandin, '96, but owing to the length of the program this was postponed until after the class banquet in the evening. The introductory "living pictures", however, were given in the morning—Grace Janney, '00, and Helen Myers, '09, appeared for a few moments on the platform, wearing their original graduating gowns. Miss Janney's had a train, and many ruffles, and both had high-boned collars and stiff tight girdles.

The Fiftieth meeting of the Alumnae Association then adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN K. MYERS,
Recording Secretary.

INTERIOR OF THE ELIZABETH SOMERS CHAPEL

REPORT OF THE ELIZABETH SOMERS CHAPEL COMMITTEE, INC.

May 23, 1925.

Exactly a year ago, we broke ground for the Elizabeth Somers Chapel. Our Treasurer reported our entire holdings as $39,600.00. Our financial goal was $55,600.00 of which sum we lacked $16,000.00. We had only one more year to raise what we then considered a staggering amount. We expected to receive the final drawings of the building in early June, and if entirely satisfactory, to proceed at once—as far as our money lasted. The exquisite plans did indeed come, but alas, they were the only unalloyed joy of this hectic, anxious, stupendous year in the history of the Chapel Committee! One dark, never to be forgotten morning in July, the blow came, in the form of a telegram signed by Architect and Contractor, saying, in effect, that on account of present labor conditions and the high cost of building materials our chapel could not be erected short of $26,000.00 more than the original estimate. But we lacked $16,000.00 of that, so to secure the $81,600.00 now necessary, we had to raise $42,000.00 between July and May. Do you know how much the Chapel Committee has actually raised in those ten months—through the magnificent help of you all? $34,000.00!

We come before you with a total of money and pledges raised of $73,600.00, and we ask you with all the earnestness of our souls to either give outright or pledge this day or during this Jubilee the remaining $8,000.00.

The chapel will not be fully completed, but because without you, half the joy of Dedication will be gone, we are to have the beautiful Memorial and Dedicatory service tomorrow night.

Mrs. Somers, Mrs. Hensley and our Alma Mater are worthy of all our love and loyalty. Do you wish to honor them with an incomplete offering? Can we not between today and tomorrow lay even so costly a gift as $8,000.00 on the altar of our Fiftieth Anniversary?

But this report cannot end, until you all know some outstanding facts—

First, as to the Chapel Committee, itself. For financial reasons, in October, it was incorporated under the regular laws of the District of Columbia. With few changes its members have served faithfully for more than five years. In all that time, so carefully have we guarded and invested your money that not a penny has gone into any overhead expense. The necessary charges for the various drives have all been met by our investments, and the investments themselves have increased our Treasury so that literally every cent of your gift has been added to the Fund. Do you know of any fund approaching a sum of $73,600.00 that has not had office charges? Indeed we have not expended $10.00 in typewriting.

Second, I want to speak of our four beautiful entrance columns representing $20,000.00. Each one represents a gift of $5,000.00. The first and the last are gifts of non-graduates. The column near the drive is the splendid gift of Marjorie Post Hutton—who has given nearly $7,500.00. We have no more loyal lover of M. V. S. The column nearest the school represents the joint gift of Sallie Huston Rowe and her daughter, Eleanor Huston Rowe. Eleanor is in the present school. Mrs. Rowe was a pupil at M. V. S. in her girlhood and in loving memory of Mrs. Somers, mother and daughter give this wonderful gift of $5,000.00. The Portal Columns are the superb gifts of $10,000.00 raised by the present school and the present faculty. One, marked "Faculty and Senior Class of 1925," the other, "the Junior Class, White Class, and the Yellow Class of 1925."

From Miss Cole, who has been a flaming evangel, down to the smallest girl in the school, the enthusiasm, the loyalty alty, the sacrifice and the constant giving has been beyond ever telling. From morning until evening they have worked with one thought—"Our Chapel." So the four columns will be marked forever on the stone pedestal in honor of our splendid donors.

Third, I want to call the proud Honor Roll of 13 life Benefactors—ten of them Alumnae, three non-graduates, who have given $1,000.00 each, a total of $13,000.00. Mr. Bessell has designed a small but exquisite bronze tablet that will be placed in the vestibule wall—no later than November 5th—on which will be cut the names of both Founders and Life Benefactors.

Fourth, I cannot close any report without speaking in warmest terms of the magnificent work of the Senior Class of 1925, a class of 31 members. The quota for the class pew was $1,550.00. Every single girl has worked. One member has given $1,000.00. The total contribution of that one class is $2,972.15, almost 200 per cent.

Nor has any of the four classes of 1925 failed to do simply superb work.

Fifth, No report however could be adequate without a glowing tribute to our loyal, generous, splendid non-graduates, without whom there would have been no chapel. As Chairman of the Chapel Committee, I voice the appreciation and the loving gratitude of our entire Committee for their untiring cooperation and their munificent open-handed giving.

Sixth, We have also had wonderful gifts known and deeply appreciated by us all. Most widely have the generous gifts come. In many cases the smaller contributions have represented equal loyalty and love. To dear Miss Cole, we of the Chapel Committee, stand for us all. We love this Chapel. Into it has been put not alone our material giving but that finer spiritual offering wrought, in our beloved Alma Mater, by the inspiration of Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley whom we reverently honor this day. Not until we have raised every dollar will we formally present to you our chapel.

But in a deeper sense we now have the supreme joy of giving to you, in behalf of Alumnae and non-graduates, the Elizabeth Somers Chapel.

"The Hallelujah Chorus."

The Alumnae and the Non-graduate meeting of May 23rd was record breaking! We lacked $8,000.00 of our goal of $81,600.00. Also in our assets, we had included $2,800.00 in pledges, so that in actual hard cash we were still short of $10,800.00. The entire $8,000.00 was pledged, while by date of June 15, in the fore-mentioned hard cash $4,168.98 have come in so that we lack now only $6,631.02 all fully covered by pledges.

In our beautiful Memorial service for Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley when we dedicated our gem of a chapel every penny was raised by money or pledges.

In making this final report my heart wells up with deep and abiding gratitude to you all. Looking over these six years of intensive labor, a verse comes to my mind from the Book of books "and he served seven years and it seemed unto him but a few days for the love he had for her." In closing nothing seems more fitting than a page from that old love pastoral to characterize the pleasant, happy days when as a committee we have worked with you for our wonderful finished chapel.

THE ELIZABETH SOMERS

CHAPEL COMMITTEE,

CORNELIA I. MORGAN, Treasurer,

June 15, 1925.

ATTENTION

Generous Pledgers.

During the Jubilee every penny was subscribed for the Chapel, but there remains the sum of $6,632.00 in pledges. The Architect, Mr. Bessell, said, the last of May, that the Chapel would not be finished in entirety for possibly two months, after which the law allows sixty days for full payment. In other words, the last of September, the committee will be confronted with a tidy bill of $6,632.00 with nothing in the Treasury to meet it, unless before that time all pledges are redeemed.

Will not every girl do her very best to save the Committee from the harrowing anxiety of such a situation. Send all checks to The Elizabeth Somers Chapel Committee, Inc. Miss Cornelia I. Morgan, Treasurer, The Mendota, Washington, D. C.

THE SCREEN

One of the most beautiful features of our exquisite Chapel will be the Colonial Screen, which will lead from the marble vestibule to the interior. In grateful appreciation of the splendid whole-hearted cooperation of the non-graduates, this screen is to be dedicated to them.

THE CHAPEL GUILD

Since the Jubilee, several letters have come to the Chairman of the Chapel Committee regretting the fact that the fund was so quickly pledged, as they, too, would like to contribute.

Of course, we still have a little more than $6,500.00 in outstanding pledges, but when the entire sum is absolutely paid there still remain certain very appealing needs. For instance we must have, sooner or later, cushions for the pews that will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000.00. Also we should have more side lights; while we would greatly appreciate a flower endowment.

To meet future benevolences, the Chairman has the audacity to propose a permanent Guild to be known as "The Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh Guild." It is very new in nomenclature but very old in tradition for it harks back to none other than the three wise men, "For they brought unto Him gifts, gold, frankincense, and myrrh."

If at any time you wish to make our beautiful Chapel even more lovely, our new Guild will gratefully receive your gift.

ANNE SEYMOUR AMES.

THE BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE*

One of the rarest and most beautiful gifts presented to the Chapel is the "Book of Remembrance." It was given by Helen Kingsbury Myers of the Class of 1907, and represents splendid generosity and never failing loyalty. As the exquisite illumination of the inner cover reads, the book is dedicated "To the Glory of God and in loving memory of Elizabeth J. Somers." The title page, as lovely in color as a page from a mediaeval missal, gives the dates of birth and deaths, and the degrees of both Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley, and the wonderful "Requiem", written by Faith Bradford, of 1900.

Eventually the book will contain the names of the Incorporators of M. V. S.; the Chapel Committee, Incorporated; all memorial gifts; all gifts of any kind, and the name, not the amount, of every single contributor to the Elizabeth Somers Chapel.

The book is being made under the supervision of Miss Marion Lane, who is illuminating it beautifully. The cover was made from a skin of leather left from an exclusive order for the Queen of Great Britain. All her books, we understand, are bound in a lovely shade of blue called Queen Mary's blue, merging from Alice Blue to soft gray. The leather is most durable having been made of goat skin and every preparation of curing and dyeing used.

Miss Marion Lane, who is an English woman, does the most artistic bookbinding and illuminating in Washington. During the sojourn of the King and Queen of Belgium, in Washington, the Belgian embassy wished to have some beautiful monograph to commemorate the visit, and it was Miss Marion Lane who was given the order.

She was trained by her two brothers, one was the bookbinder of Queen Mary, the other the best illuminator in Great Britain. Miss Lane returned to England last summer and her former instructor in bookbinding gave her this one very precious skin left from the order we have described. It took some persuasion to induce Miss Lane to give up this leather, but fortunately Helen Myers won, and the result is the beautiful Book of Remembrance.

We are sure you will bear us out that there is none quite like it in all this country.

If any gifts have been omitted, or any classes, please write at once to Anne Seymour Ames. "It is not our intention to exclude one single benevolent giver. We have a long list of many girls who have pledged themselves in various classes without completing the triumphant 'over the top'—and each donor will be credited to the honor of her class."

APPRECIATION OF BELL

June 10, 1925.

To the Dear Girls of the Bell Committee,

Ever since the Jubilee I have been conserving my eyesight in order to express to you, and to the larger body of all M. V. S. girls, my deep gratitude for that wonderful bell. That it was a surprise you can testify; that I would rather be associated with a bell than with any other part of the outside gifts, I can assure you from my heart. That it is a gift of love from you, dear girls, no words can tell how deeply I appreciate your graciousness and your thoughtful kindness.

I certainly am glad that it is not a memorial. I am perfectly sure under the trying circumstances of death, I would have promptly risen at the sound of that sonorous bell!

Dear, Girls, how like you to give me that supreme pleasure! My whole heart goes out to you, and to all of my dear girls who have thus crowned these years with "loving kindness and tender mercies." To you all,—Miss Klotz, the committee, the whole body of splendid M. V. S. girls, I send my deepest appreciation and love.

Gratefully,

ANNE SEYMOUR AMES.

P. S. Perhaps I can wait until November fifth to hear my bell, but I doubt it!!

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

Commencement week, this year, held the added attraction of our Golden Jubilee. The house was brimming over at all times with girls of other years most of whom were seeing for the first time the beautiful buildings of our Greater M. V. S. The capacities of the school were stretched to the uttermost to receive as many house guests as possible, and among these were Mrs. Eddy and her daughter, Elizabeth, (Mrs. Samuel Rowe), Miss Ashley, Miss Klotz, Miss Kurtz, Mrs. Rice (Miss Plummer), and the members of last year's graduating class.

Fortunately, we were blessed with good weather, with the one exception of Sunday, May 24th, when showers and threatening skies kept many away from the crowning ceremony of the Jubilee, the dedication of the Chapel.

On Friday morning, May 22nd the first of the closing events of the year, School day Exercises, took place in the gymnasium. An interesting program was presented by the students showing accomplishments of the year's study in various classes, and including some excellent musical numbers. School records for the year and honors awarded were read. At the conclusion of the program, luncheon was served at which the classes sat together and sang their class songs.

On Friday evening, May 22d, an unusually fine program was presented by the music pupils, in which several of the Senior Class gave excellent numbers. Among these were songs by Harriet Snider, Berenice Maxwell, Gwendolyn Atwood, and Ruth Atwater, and piano selections by Sarah Banks, Rosemary Ames and Dorothy Fulton.

Saturday, May 23rd, was the fullest day of the week, with the Alumnae Reunion in the morning at the Mayflower followed by luncheon at the school, the Jubilee Fete, in the afternoon, and in the evening the Class Suppers at the Mayflower Hotel. Unfortunately the yellow balloon, making a wonderfully colorful picture, as the procession marched up to where Mrs. Carey sat on a throne decked with evergreen, with Miss Cole standing near smiling at the motley array and enjoying to the full the group of Faculty folk dressed in black and yellow with Dunce's caps on their noble heads!

It was a sight which had to be seen to be appreciated for no words can do justice to the animation and beauty of the scene.

There were those present who had taken part in many a College lark who said, never had they seen anything so effective and lovely as this Jubilee Fete of M. V. S.

Several classes had stunts, one giving an Intelligence Test, and several others coming forward with clever and original ideas.

Just before the picture was taken of this most animated scene, all the hundreds of yellow balloons were released, and made a pretty sight as they floated away, the happy faces of the girls looking after them, expressing what a good time they had been having.

THE JUBILEE BANQUET AT THE MAYFLOWER HOTEL

When we assembled at the Mayflower Hotel on the morning of May 23, 1925, we were so busy meeting old friends and answering questions as to the Jubilee, that at the end of that most inspiring day, we were glad to gather around the banquet table and get together as Classes, to talk over old times, to listen to the toasts and to see the pictures Miss Edwards had so carefully collected to throw on a screen.

The banquet room was an attractive sight as three hundred and fifty women were seated at small tables, bearing the class numeral, and alight with yellow candles placed around bowls of daisies as centerpieces; the decorations being the handiwork of Mrs. Susie Plain Martin, '91, while the daisy place cards and candles were ordered from the Toy Shop of Rachel Coffin, '88.

The long guest table at which sat the Headmistress, the Faculty, the Toastmistress and a few especial guests, was on a platform running the length of the room, while the Class of 1900 was honored by a table directly in front of the guest table.

As soon as all were seated, a flashlight picture was taken and before the third course was served, the finished picture was shown.

After an attractive menu over which there was much buzzing of tongues, Miss Edith D. Cook, President of the Alumnae Association, called upon Miss Harriet Belle Walker to act as Toastmistress.

Miss Walker spoke as follows:

"My friends, Madam Headmistress, members of the Faculty and Daughters of Mt. Vernon Seminary, naturally our first thought tonight as we meet to celebrate our Golden Jubilee is of those who have preceded us on the Great Adventure—of our comrades—of our Faculty and particularly of Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley. I ask you to stand and pay to their memory a tribute of silence.

Miss Colgan has ever combined spiritual vision with the gift of expression—here let her speak while we perforce keep silence. In her memorial poem she strikes no minor chord, but bids us rejoice.

"Our program as a whole is a shelf of time—the separate toasts are books—books of memory. The idea and its definite arrangement originated in the active brain of my classmate—Anne Seymour Ames—my humble part is to execute it and yet not be its executioner. It is "bad luck" to toast in water, so our toasts will be of the spirit and of the understanding—

"The first of our toasts is 'Looking Backward' to our earliest home, 204 F Street. I take pleasure in presenting to you Mary Stewart Carey, of Indianapolis, who is pre-eminently qualified to tell you all about it—as she was the first boarding pupil in that school.”

Mrs. Carey spoke in part as follows—

“The School was Mrs. Somers’! She was highly intellectual, cultured, brilliant, wise, witty, deeply religious, and with it all had wonderful mother instinct.” Mrs. Carey recounted days at the school showing the close personal touch of Mrs. Somers. She was, for the time being, their mother. To her they repeated their Bible verses at breakfast and gave some current event which they had found interesting. With her they walked in the Smithsonian grounds and brought back arms full of daisies which were soon voted the school flower with the color, gold and white.”

Mrs. Carey spoke of the school pew in the Metropolitan Methodist Church on 4½ Street. It was directly back of the pew occupied by General and Mrs. Grant, he being then President. Mrs. Grant was a personal friend of Mrs. Somers and used to invite her to bring the girls for a call at the White House. Mrs. Carey said, with a very expressive gesture, “And we were not urged along and told to move quickly, or to step lively, but were asked to sit down and visit with Mrs. Grant who would presently invite us into the garden and gather us each a bouquet of flowers!”

Mrs. Carey’s toast was full of such witty reminiscences and was constantly applauded by girls, old and young.

Toastmistress—“When M. V. S. was five years old, it outgrew its first quarters and advanced to 1100 M Street. Let us have a few pages from “Kidd’s Evolution” interpreted by an authority—Miss Anne Seymour Ames, and read by no less an authority than Miss Cornelia I. Morgan.”

This toast also showed the close personal touch of those early days, and gave a laughable incident of Mrs. Somers’ unexpected appearance at a little midnight feast!

Toastmistress—“Grace Wright Capen has no rival for the M. V. S. of her own particular vintage. We will toast with her the 'Days before Yesterday,' when M. V. S. was in its prime."

Mrs. Capen gave a clever turn to her toast by telling of the satisfaction there was in having days to fall back on, as it were, in not being of the bright and shining present, but having a poise that only comes with time! She then referred to the M. V. S. of her day as giving all that was best and worthwhile to the girls of that period and of what a joy it was to be under the guidance of Mrs. Hensley who in a few years thereafter took up the task that Mrs. Somers' years compelled her to lay down.

Toastmistress—"Now clear the track, for "The Twentieth Century Limited" is in view—the Class of 1900—Grace Janney. This Toast of the Quarter Century of M. V. S. took a somewhat more serious turn as it looked back on what the plan had been, and then forward, on all that had been accomplished towards growth and character building, as well as what was still going on towards even greater things.

Then came a very pleasant intermission in the form of a group of songs by Miss Lois Mayer of the Class of 1916.

Toastmistress—"I slip another book from the shelf—It bears the title—'Widening Circles,' its theme is, 'The Greater M. V. S.' and it will be reviewed by Miss Dorothy Schmidt of the class of 1921. Dorothy spoke of the Ideals Mrs. Somers had for her school as exemplified in her girls and how they had been upheld by her successor, Mrs. Hensley, who had in these latter times passed them on to our present Headmistress, Miss Cole, and how proud and glad we were that they had touched our lives and made them 'more abundant.'"

Toastmistress—"M. V. S. to many virtues is adding breadth of view. More and more does she realize the value of the large number of her girls who have devotion entirely apart from that gained in a Senior year: fidelity cannot be bestowed by a diploma—it is a gift of the spirit and born within, and so tonight, we gratefully toast ‘Our loyal non-graduates,’ and say with Burns—‘Shall brithers be for a’ that and a’ that.’”—

This was responded to in a most happy manner by Jessie Olmstead Drummond who wittily remarked that they were not Non-Graduates because they could not pass the exams, but because they in many instances had already graduated from some other school, and wished to continue special subjects which interested them, as well as to have the privilege of a year or two in Washington, which was in itself, an education.

Toastmistress—“M. V. S. has had a happy year. We have had two consuming thoughts, the Chapel and the Golden Jubilee! In both, Miss Cole has been an inspiration—tireless, gracious, considerate, self-forgetful, she has regarded the leadership of Mt. Vernon Seminary as a sacred trust—‘To Have and to Hold.’ A toast to Miss Cole, the Conservator of our Traditions and a Blazer of New Trails.”

Miss Ashley, who had come on from her own school “Roycemore”, in Evanston, Illinois, to be present at our Jubilee, said that she and Miss Cole had entered M. V. S. as Teachers at the same time and so had come to know each other better for that reason. She then spoke of Miss Cole’s qualities as a teacher and her development as a woman and how much these had meant to the school. Miss Cole was so happily carrying on the traditions of the school—the air of refinement, the simplicity, and above all, the personal relationship which was the keynote of both Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley.

This ended the responses to Toasts and Miss Walker as a fitting climax to our Banquet, in a few gracious words asked Miss Cole to speak what was in her heart to her girls.

Miss Cole spoke of the Greater M. V. S. saying it could not stand for what it is without the helpful co-operation of the girls and women all over the world, who look back upon it as their school home. She mentioned the new policies inaugurated by Mrs. Hensley—pensions, Sabbatical years granted teachers after faithful service, and of the school corporation, by which all moneys, over and above expenses go back into further school development.

Miss Cole mentioned her trip to the western coast during the Christmas holidays and her pleasure in meeting in every stopping place girls who were so loyal to M. V. S.

In closing Miss Cole said: "I have known and loved Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley for years, and their spirit which made this school what it is to-day, must not die. I have worked with Mrs. Hensley for over twenty years, and I regard the leadership of Mt. Vernon Seminary as a sacred trust from her. I pledge fidelity to the traditions of M. V. S."

Miss Cole then presented a Silver Loving Cup to the Class of 1888, all of whose members were present at this Golden Jubilee! The gift was acknowledged by Miss Rachel J. Coffin who was the first member of that class to attend Mt. Vernon Seminary.

Chairs were then turned towards the stage, where school pictures were shown by Miss Elsie Edwards, pictures which dated back to the beginning of things and elicited much laughter.

Mary Bradford Stone, '88.

On Sunday afternoon, May 24th, at 4 o'clock, in the Chapel, the Baccalaureate service was held, and after the service parents and friends of the graduating class remained for supper, and later heard the singing of the Class Songs in Great Hall.

The music of the Baccalaureate Service was beautifully rendered by the school choir under the direction of Mrs. Payne, with Mrs. Rickett at the piano. Singing as a processional hymn—"Ancient of Days", the choir came for the first time into the choir seats in the chancel of the new Chapel. After the invocation by Miss Cole, the choir chanted the Lord's Prayer. Miss Cole then read the thirteenth Chapter of First Corinthians, which was followed by an anthem by the choir, "Praise ye the Father", by Gounod.

The Baccalaureate Sermon was delivered by Dr. William Mather Lewis, President of George Washington University. It was a brief and forceful address upon a text taken from the twenty-seventh Psalm, "One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the House of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to enquire in His temple." Dr. Lewis' address was mainly a plea for a place of beauty with its quieting and inspirational effect, in an age when schools and colleges are in danger of becoming slaves to the machinery of education, and save no time to "behold the beauty of the Lord, and to enquire in His temple." Greatness of heart, stillness of soul, may be our continual possessions, if we but allow ourselves the opportunity to seek after and comprehend the beauty of our surroundings. The exceptional beauty of the Elizabeth Somers Chapel can not fail to be a saving influence in the lives of the students to be connected with our school; a place set apart whose quiet beauty will enter as an inspiration into the lives of those who are willing to save some time from the rush of modern student life, to come often to this lovely place, not only for the enjoyment and comfort of its services, but for quiet thought alone seeking to know and understand the spirit of this beautiful temple, and to feel that "in the shadows standeth God." At the close of the address the choir sang an anthem by Mendelssohn, "O Come Let Us Worship", which was followed by the "Prayer Perfect" arranged for quartette. After one verse of the evening hymn, "Lord Keep Us Safe this Night", the service concluded with the recessional hymn, "Jerusalem, the Golden."

DEDICATION OF THE ELIZABETH SOMERS CHAPEL

Sunday, May 24, 1925, at eight o'clock

With loving memories the daughters of M. V. S. gathered in the Elizabeth Somers Chapel, their Memorial to her whose great heart had made so many things possible. From far and near they had come full of love and faith.

The Chapel was lovelier than their expectations in its simplicity, purity and strength, with its doors open wide like the arms of the loving mother Mrs. Somers was to her girls. It was beautifully decorated with rose and white peonies, and pale lavender iris, and ferns.

There they gathered, and waited—while soft music rendered the Prelude L'Arlesienne by Bizet—and the program followed:

Processional Hymn—God of Our Fathers.....Warren
Invocation.....DR. ULYSSES G. B. PIERCE
Prayers in unison:

Almighty and everlasting God, we bless Thy Holy Name for Thy Servants departed this life in Thy faith and fear, beseeching Thee to give us grace so to follow their good examples that with them we may be partakers of Thy heavenly Kingdom. Grant this, O Father, for Jesus Christ's sake our only Mediator and Advocate. Amen.

Blessed be Thy Name, O Lord God, for that it hath blessed Thee to have Thy habitation among the sons of men and to dwell in the midst of Thy children upon the earth. Grant, we beseech Thee, that in this place set apart to Thy service, Thy Holy Name may be worshipped in truth and purity, throughout all years to come, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Thou, O Spirit, that dost prefer

Before all temples the upright heart and pure,

What in us is dark illumine,

What is low raise and support.

That with clean hands and a pure heart we may offer unto Thee this temple reared with hands.

For except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it.

Oh Lord, establish Thou the work of our hands, Yea, the work of our hands, establish Thou it.

The Lord is in His holy temple.

Let all the earth keep silence before Him.

Know ye not that ye are the temple of the living God?

Be still, and know that I am God.

God is a spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth.

To Thee, O God, we dedicate this Chapel that we may worship Thee

Who art Spirit in spirit and in truth.

To whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report,

Our Father, we dedicate this chapel.

That here we may learn to love Thee who art Truth with all our strength, with all our mind, and with all our soul.

We dedicate this chapel.

That here we may learn to love our neighbors as ourselves.

We dedicate this chapel.

In loving memory of Elizabeth J. Somers who founded this school and gave to its service the best years of her life; whose life has been a lamp unto our feet and light unto our path.

We her grateful daughters reverently dedicate this chapel.

In the hope, that as some rare perfume in a vase of clay pervades it with a fragrance not its own, so the love of beauty that actuated the life of Elizabeth Somers may be as an abiding benediction among us.

We dedicate this chapel.

That our lives may be true to the teaching of those noble women upon whose work rests the foundation of our beloved school,

We humbly pray

That their spirits may not die,

We dedicate these memorials

That the spirit of Him who came not to be ministered unto but to minister, may continue to inspire the daughters of this school as it inspired those whose lives tonight we honor,

We, heirs of this high spiritual inheritance, reverently dedicate this chapel.

Hymn of Dedication.

Founded on Thee, our only Lord,
On Thee, the everlasting Rock
Thy church shall stand as stands Thy word,
Nor fear the storm, nor dread the shock.

For Thee our waiting spirits yearn,
For Thee this house of praise we rear,
To Thee with longing hearts we turn;
Come fix Thy Glorious presence here.

Come with Thy spirit and Thy power,
The Conqueror, once the Crucified;
Our God, our Strength, our King, our Tower,
Here plant Thy throne, and here abide.

Accept the work our hands have wrought,
Accept, O God, this earthly shrine;
Be Thou our Rock, our Life, our Thought,
And we, as living temples, Thine.

All who attended this service were deeply impressed with the beautiful ritual of the dedication and the exquisite music. The organ was not ready, but is being completed during the summer months, and will be dedicated on November fifth.

On Monday morning, May 25th, a meeting of Regents of the M. V. S. Society and Class Presidents took place at the Mayflower, Miss Cook, as President of the Alumnae Association, presiding.

At three o'clock in the afternoon came the visit to the old school at 1100 M Street, now the home of Y. W. C. A., known as "The Elizabeth Somers." To see the old familiar rooms still occupied by girls, though no longer M. V. S. girls, seemed a fitting end for 1100 M. It quieted uneasy feelings in many hearts to stand once more in the loved Music room, still so unchanged and receive such a cordial welcome from the House Committee of "The Elizabeth Somers", and the girls of the Y. W. C. A. who now call it "home". It is interesting to know that several former M. V. S. girls are connected with the Y. W. C. A. work in Washington; Eleanor Foster Lansing, as President, Naomi Naylor Hunt, as Secretary, Mary Bradford Stone, Frances Chickering, and Alice E. Edwards serving on various Committees, the latter being a member of the Elizabeth Somers House Committee.

The suggestion came more than a year ago, when an M. V. S. girl went back to the old home at 1100 M Street and told the Y. W. C. A. girls living there, of Mrs. Somers, her love for, and interest in all girls, and her wonderful personality.

Then we realized that there was no picture of Mrs. Somers in all that place; so the M. V. S. Society voted at its next meeting to have a large photograph taken of the beautiful Irving Wiles portrait, and present it to "The Elizabeth Somers".

No more fitting time could be found for this ceremony, than during the Jubilee week: so accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Towles, the photographers, Elsie Edwards and Mary Bradford Stone went to "The Elizabeth Somers" and selected the wall space in the Music Room, on the left of the door opening into the school building and asked Mr. Towles to make a picture of suitable size and frame to fit that space. So many times in other years Mrs. Somers used to sit in that very spot calling her girls to her, one by one, for a few words of greeting.

On Monday, May 25th, the Board of the Y. W. C. A. invited all the Jubilee guests to an afternoon reception at 1100 M St., the guest of honor and chief spokesman being Mrs. Carey, who fitted so wonderfully into all our Jubilee ceremonies.

The day chosen for the ceremony very happily combined a visit by all the girls who had lived and gone to school in that place, and the unveiling of the picture, before which stood a great bowl of white peonies from the Class of 1900.

M. V. S. was welcomed back to its old home by Mrs. Pulsifer, chairman of the House Committee of the Y. W. C. A., and a warm personal friend of Mrs. Somers. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. R. Sizoo of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, after which the picture was unveiled and presented by the Regent of the M. V. S. Society, Helen K. Myers. The gift was accepted by Miss Hettie B. Anderson, General Secretary of the Y. W. C. A., after which the M. V. S. girls sang their school song, "Alma Mater", and a verse of the song to their beloved Mrs. Somers, sung to the tune of "Mother Machree." The Y. W. C. A. girls then sang some of their favorite songs.

Mrs. Carey was presented, and made a few informal remarks, taking for her text the verse in Genesis—"And there arose a people who knew not Joseph", saying that it seemed strange that there, in her old home, there could be living, girls who had never before seen even a picture of her, through whose wonderful generosity, they had become heirs of all the beautiful, familiar things with which the house was furnished.

Mrs. Carey then asked the M. V. S. girls to speak aloud the names of the teachers they remembered when they went to school at 1100 M., and many memories were stirred as the names were called.

After a group of songs and several piano selections, by resident girls of marked ability, the guests were invited by Miss Ennis, the House-Mother, to go over the buildings and note especially the white and gold dining room.

This visit home was full of sad-sweet memories, but the Jubilee would not have been complete without it.

MARY BRADFORD STONE, '88.

The school play scheduled for Monday evening, had to be postponed on account of unfavorable weather until Tuesday evening. The Recital of the Choral Club, to have been given on that date, took place on Monday evening, at eight-thirty. They gave a delightful program conducted by Mrs. Payne, with Miss Chickering at the piano. The recital was followed by a reception in the Great Hall. One of the pleasant features of the evening was a group of songs by Bessie O'Connell Smith. She has a beautiful soprano voice and sings most artistically. Her solos at the Dedication Service were beautifully rendered; "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth", by Mendelssohn, and "Morning Hymn", by Henschel.

On Tuesday morning, May 26th, the Seniors held their Class Day exercises in the gymnasium. This is always an occasion with fun in evidence, but with an undercurrent of seriousness. School days are really over, and Senior seats must be abdicated in favor of the succeeding class, and no number of gay songs and speeches can conceal the underlying sadness. The "Last Will and Testament", "Class History", and "Statistics", however witty, fail to disguise the facts that school days have grown dear now that they are over, and classmates may never meet again.

This year's class had as president one who leaves behind her a record of six years at M. V. S. well spent, and an influence so strongly felt, that it surely should continue to keep the class of 1925 together and bring them back again for at least one reunion with unbroken ranks next year. The "Class Statistics" compiled by another of the valued members of the Class, Elizabeth Burgoyne, record Mary Strachan the "most representative" girl of her class; Rosemary Ames, Vice-President, another whose personality will be greatly missed after three years at the school, was voted the "dramatic star" of the class; Mary Morton, Secretary, was commended as the "literary light", and to Helen Young, Treasurer, was accorded the honor of being the most competent member of her class. It is impossible to find space to mention all of the thirty-one members of this class. It must suffice to say that it is a banner class, and each has left behind a record well worth while, and as a class it has led the school throughout the year, collectively and individually. We are going to miss the Class of 1925, and wish we could have them back again.

At eight-thirty, Tuesday evening the School Play was given in the quadrangle. This had been transformed into a beautiful setting for "As You Like It", the stage being at the upper end of the Terrace, the audience seated below and in the cloisters. The play was produced under the able direction of Miss Maude Frances, and was most enjoyable. The cast is printed below—the members of the Class of 1925 are starred:

On Wednesday morning, May 27th, at ten o'clock, Commencement Exercises took place for the first time in the Elizabeth Somers Memorial Chapel. It was a beautiful day, our usual M. V. S. Commencement weather. A procession was formed, beginning at the doorway of the Entrance Hall, passing down the drive and out of the north gate. It was headed by Miss Cole and Dr. Woolley, followed by Dr. Lucius Clark, Rev. Dr. Abernethy, Mrs. David F. Wing, Mrs. Robert Lansing, and Miss Constance Churchyard. Then came Mrs. Mary Stewart Carey, the Alumnae Presidents, M. V. S. Society Regents, and the Faculty. After the faculty came the girls of the school, a rainbow of lovely color in their dresses of soft shades of yellow, blue and pink—the graduates came last in cap and gown, and ushered by two of last year's class, Natalie Smith and Virginia Davison.

After passing through the North Gate, the procession continued to the South Gate, where they paused to hang two beautiful wreaths of yellow and white roses, on the pillars, in memory of Mrs. Hensley. They, then, moved on to the Chapel, pausing again at the entrance to place two lovely wreaths each side of the doorway in memory of Mrs. Somers.

After this they passed through the wide portal into the Chapel. Miss Cole and the speakers of the morning, with the Alumnae Presidents and M. V. S. Regents were seated in the Chancel, the Faculty and the school, in the main part of the Chapel with the audience, who had followed the procession. The usual Commencement program was somewhat changed and lengthened in honor of the Jubilee and the first Commencement in the Chapel, the program being as follows:

Dedicated to Mount Vernon Seminary

Miss Cole's History of the School was a most interesting review of the fifty years of work and steady growth, and included tributes to many members of the Faculty whose devoted service to the school for many years had added greatly to its success. It, also, gave tribute to several faithful servants who had been with the school since its early days and were identified with it through their loyal service. These were Henry Handy, Walker Robinson, Martha Pollard, and Alfred Pollard—they were all seated in the chancel with the exception of Alfred, who was too ill to attend.

After Miss Cole's History, there followed "Greetings" which were given in person with the exception of Dr. Samuel P. Capen's, which was read by Miss Cole. We regret that limited space prevents the printing of all of these greetings, for each was individual and would be of great interest to those who were not present to hear them, and all who did hear would like to refresh their memories by seeing them in print.

The address by Dr. Woolley, with "Where are you going?" as her theme was inspiring. It seemed especially fitting that Dr. Woolley should be with us on this jubilee year as Mrs. Hensley and Miss Cole were both graduates of Mt. Holyoke.

The music of the program was beautifully rendered by the Washington National String Quartette, with Mrs. Rickett at the piano—until the closing number when Miss Ball took her place, playing her Golden Jubilee March composed for the Jubilee and Dedicated to M. V. S.

When Dr. Woolley said in her address, "What a refreshment physical beauty is" we looked at our chapel and were doubly conscious of its refreshing powers, the great chancel window is so happily placed it seemed as if an artist's hand had grouped within its frame the arrangement of lofty trees and blue sky beyond. On the window sills were masses of yellow daisies and white peonies against the green of ferns and palms. Nothing anywhere could have been lovelier, nothing could have been more perfect than this memorial to the two we love and honor. Surely they are a part of its beauty, now, as they have been the inspiration of its building. The memory of them is living in every stone and will continue there, and in the hearts of every M. V. S. girl, past, present, and to come.

DR. WOOLLEY'S ADDRESS

(In Brief)

"WHITHER?"

My subject this morning belongs in this group of suggestion. "Where are you going?" In a very real sense, all those graduates, the thousands of them, are going to enter one of two groups, the group of the "workers", or the group of the "slackers".

To qualify for the honorable fellowship of the workers, involves certain definite steps. The first, almost axiomatic, is, the best possible preparation, and the best possible preparation is something more inclusive than the knowledge of one's particular job, important as that is.

A second step, is to give the best of oneself to one's work. Last June I read a characterization of Vice-President Dawes: "General Dawes, a one hundred percenter," the modern expression of "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." That remark brings one face to face with some startling questions: "What is my one hundred percent? Is it what I have given people the right to think it is, or is my real one hundred percent far in excess of that? What is my one hundred percent possibility in the physical line and am I attaining it?" What about your one hundred percent mentality? There is an old fashioned saying "Food for thought," variously interpreted. I should like to take as an interpretation the fact that the mind needs nourishment as truly as the body.

There are two sides to this realization of the one hundred percent of a life. "The beautiful is as useful as the useful", said Victor Hugo. "I have seen manners that make a similar impression with personal beauty", said Emerson. "But they must be marked by fine perception—they must always show self-control—they must be inspired by the good heart." What about the one hundred percent of character, after all the greatest need of our day, without which its problems will never be solved. Are we, each one of us, "setting the noblest free," our best impulses, our most earnest purpose, our highest ideals, realizing that the art of living, with its supreme revelation of the life of Jesus Christ, is the greatest achievement of the human spirit?

"Whither"—We have been talking as if this question applied only to the individual. We are proud of belonging to the greatest Democracy in the world. What it shall be, depends upon you and thousands like you. Once more this searching word forces itself upon our attention. Supreme among the problems of the century is that of world relationships.

How is humanity to live in the days to come? Are we, as a nation, going to be a worker for the world, or a slacker? Whither?

In a recent article, William Lyon Phelps wrote: "The work of the world is being carried on by men and women in the dust and heat, and they know that life is an opportunity." Is that the way in which you are going to look upon life? Will it mean to you an opportunity to prove yourself "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed," a citizen of the United States of America who will help to justify this great experiment of Democracy; a citizen of the world, having a part in realizing the brighter day when the world neighborhood will become a brotherhood? Whither?

"GREETING" FROM MISS CHURCHYARD

After listening to all the generous words of congratulation and good will paid you and the school this morning, it seems to me, Miss Cole, that there is now not one fresh phrase of praise left to offer you. Yet, what I say must to you, at least, have a different accent, another emphasis for I speak in the name of your own faculty.

Shall I tell you for them that there is no good wish for your personal happiness and the welfare of the school that is not in the heart of each of us today. Such an expression from us to you were superfluous for you know these things already just as you know that of all the people here today we are the best judges of the reality of your achievement.

We live with you intimately; we work with you daily, and from us you can conceal no weakness and no strength. What others say of your character and ability, we know not, but the testimony that each of us can bear to your magnanimity, your courage, your quick response to new ideas, your sure cooperation, and unflagging industry, is proof indeed, that these qualities are yours.

For twenty years you have given of them freely to this school, but you have given far more than that—you have given of your life. This is not a sentence of applause. It is a statement of fact the full significance of which is revealed only to us. But in this respect you do not stand alone for there is something about Mt. Vernon Seminary that evokes more than service from those connected with it, it evokes devotion. We all give to it of our best as we believe in the school. We believe in its sincerity, its gentleness of bearing, its highmindedness, the emphasis it puts upon the great invisible things of life. We are glad of its past and confident of its future. But in one respect what you render it—sets you apart from us all for in your hands rests the undivided authority of the school and upon your shoulders rests the whole weight of its responsibility.

John Milton might have said of your position as he once said of a certain aspect of decoration—"this is not a bow for every man to shoot who counts himself a teacher but doth require sinews almost equal to those which Homer gave Ulysses." How true these words are—again I say only we can know, but because we work with you and you with us we know that your strength is equal to its bending. Conscious of this, we shall follow where you lead, and as you walk ahead you carry with you always our loyal and affectionate regard.

EVENTS OF THE SCHOOL YEAR

On October 1st at the opening Chapel service, Dr. Pierce inspired us with enthusiasm for the year's endeavors with his words of encouragement, saying in conclusion: "No brilliance can cast out of our minds the shadows of former days, but I should think it a poor compliment to Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley, who have put their lives into this school, for us to stop where they left off. They laid a glorious foundation. We shall best honor them by not unduly allowing any shadow across our pathway, but by following on the path which they have blazed. The moment of thought for them looks not toward the past, but toward the future."

With these words as our inspiration we began our difficult year and all its events have been touched by this spirit of special endeavor for the honor of our beloved Alma Mater in her Golden Jubilee!

In looking back over the year, one feels somewhat as though she were gazing through the larger end of a field glass marked "Golden Jubilee"—happenings usually of absorbing interest are almost lost to view. We did have our Hallowe'en Party, our Thanksgiving Day Game, our Valentine Party, our class plays, our club activities, but what we were really thinking about most of the time throughout the year was our Golden Jubilee, and above all, our Chapel. The girls of 1924-1925, headed by the Class of 1925, worked nobly for the Chapel Fund, and accomplished wonders, as the accounts of the Chapel Committee show.

The Seniors began their career as the Class of 1925 with "Fag Week" Exercises for the Juniors. This was pleasantly followed by the Senior House Warming on Oct. 11th, when Senior Rooms and Corridor were thrown open to the Faculty and School, including the Juniors, "unfagged", and clothed once more in their right minds, and garments. This occasion is always a happy one, helping on the better acquaintance of old and new girls. Indeed the term "new girls", after the Senior House Warming, and the Hallowe'en Party, quite loses its meaning and is heard no more.

On October 25th, the Seniors presented some original one act plays, by three of their talented members: "The Dark Entry", by Elizabeth Burgoyne; "A Bag of Dreams", by Virginia Roediger, and "A Night in Rome", by Rosemary Ames. These plays were produced most successfully by their authors, entirely unaided in the scenery and costumes. Admission was charged, the money being devoted, needless to say, to the Chapel. This set the example and was the first of numerous entertainments throughout the year by various classes and groups of girls for the benefit of the Chapel.

The Hallowe'en Party on October 31st was a great success, the honors for original entertainment seem this year to have gone to the Faculty for their movie, "The Light Went Out" in which Miss Churchyard, Miss Craig, and Miss Stuart were star performers, while Miss Frances read the lines with telling effect.

The great event of the first half of the school year is "Founders" or "M. V. S Day" on November 5th, devoted to the usual business meeting and reunion of all M. V. S. girls, graduate and non-graduate.

To the usual program this year was added a ceremony of thrilling interest, namely the laying of the corner stone of our Elizabeth Somers Chapel. This followed the M. V. S. Society business meeting, and was conducted by three of our loved friends and pastors; Bishop MacDowell, Dr. Pierce and Dr. Wood. Miss Cole, The Faculty, the girls of the school, the old girls, a few guests and the faithful servants of M. V. S. took part in the beautiful service. Bishop MacDowell gave the Dedictory address, Dr. Wood offered the prayers, and Dr. Pierce pronounced the Benediction. Handel's "Largo" was beautifully played by Professor Josef Kaspar and three of his violin pupils. We give only this brief notice of this service as a full and beautiful account was given in the Roll Call.

November 5th, was Mrs. Somers' birthday, but she would not consent to the day being known as anything but the school's birthday, and, as all know, the crowning feature of the occasion was a great white birthday cake with yellow candles. It was a unique and lovely sight always, as the smiling white-clad baker, Zimmer, brought it and placed it on the beautifully appointed table for Mrs. Somers to cut the first slice—with what charming grace and wit, we all remember well! This has been perhaps our sweetest and dearest ceremony, but without Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley we dared not even think of having it again. Miss Cole rose to this occasion as she has done so wonderfully to all the difficult tasks that have come to her. She planned an entirely different setting where sad memories would not so easily overcome us. A round table was placed in the great dining room, and on it in the midst of yellow and white chrysanthemums was the wonderful "three storied" white cake with fifty yellow candles about it. Miss Cole asked fifty out of the many old girls who were present each to light one of the candles so the torch was passed from one to another, until the fifty candles sparkled bright to number the fifty Golden years of M. V. S. Many sweet tributes were spoken by the various girls as they lighted their candles and Miss Cole, herself, said just the right words to keep the balance between smiles and tears.

After the candles were lighted, a flash light picture was taken, and then Zimmer, the baker, came in and after Miss Cole had cut the first slice, he quickly and skillfully carved the cake. It was served with ice-cream and coffee during the happy social hour that closed the day's program.

On December 6th, the Senior Class presented Barrie's charming play, "Quality Street". The class was fortunate in having many talented members, and the play was one of the most successful given of late. Rosemary Ames as "Phoebe", and Virginia Roediger, as "Susan", gave excellent interpretations of the sisters; Helen Curtis made a gallant "Captain Brown", and Mary Strachan, as the recruiting Sergeant and Patricia Healy as "Patty" were most entertaining. As the two gossips, the Misses Willoughby, Berenice Maxwell and Frances Heckert were very amusing, as were also the seven children of the School—Hortense Coyle, Maxine Jenkins, Beulah Gibbons, Helen Young, Ruth Martin, Elizabeth Burdell, and Grace Poole. Three guests at the ball were—Gwendolyn Atwood, Howard Vrooman, and Elizabeth Burgoyne, whose acting in their silent parts was excellent.

A pleasant room in the home of the Misses Susan and Phoebe Throssel in Quality Street. (The Misses Willoughby from across the street are making an afternoon call, and—the curtains rises.)

ACT 2

Ten years later when the Misses Throssel have opened a school.

Late in the afternoon of a certain day.

ACT 3

Evening of the same day—at the Ball.

ACT 4

A few days later—same room as Act 1.

Other plays during the year have been excellent, but "Quality Street" was the best in our opinion.

On February 23rd, the Juniors gave "Pygmalion and Galatea," by W. S. Gilbert, and followed it a few days later by a clever burlesque on their own performance, the proceeds being devoted to the Chapel Fund.

On March 14th, the White and Yellow Classes combined their efforts in one program, each presenting a one-act play; "Hearts" was given by the Yellow Class, and "The Heart of a Clown" by the White Class. In addition to these, several clever and amusing original playlets and entertainments have taken place as the result of Junior-Senior and Yellow-White ingenuity contests.

From the athletic standpoint the year has been an unusually interesting one. Enthusiasm has run high and honors have been won after hard contests. It seems to be the usual fate of the Senior Class to fall behind in athletic honors, perhaps because so much is expected mentally from the Senior Class, that the physical has to take a second place in their ambitions.

In the Thanksgiving game, Seniors versus Yellows, the score was 34-21 in favor of the Yellow Class. Some individual honors were won by class members during the year, but as a class the Seniors were not leaders.

One event of especial interest in athletics this year was our first inter-school basket-ball game, on February 19th, a picked M. V. S. team played the Sidwell School in the Epiphany Parish Gymnasium. The score was 41-19 in favor of M. V. S., and we have added to our athletic trophies a dark blue banner with "Friend's School" inscribed on it in gray letters. The highest athletic honors, the Athletic Medal which was instituted for the first time last year, and is awarded for the highest number of gold stars on the Athletic Chart, was won this year by Virginia Watts, a member of the Yellow Class, and President of the Athletic Association. The Banner Honor was won this year by the Yellow Class.

However, behindhand with Athletic honors, the Seniors distinguished themselves in the Junior-Senior Ingenuity contests by winning two out of the three contests, given in January. They have also been conspicuous in the various school clubs, all of them having Seniors among their officers. Marian Gaffney was Vice-President of the Athletic Association; among the officers of Optima were Elizabeth Paxton, President; Harriet Snider, Treasurer;

Rosemary Ames, Secretary, and eleven others were members of the club.

In the French Club, Seniors held all offices; Harriet Snider, President; Rosemary Ames, Vice-President; Mary Morton, Secretary, and Hortense Coyle, Treasurer. Four other Seniors were members of the Club, which numbered sixteen. They were Gwendolyn Atwood, Frances Heckert, Patricia Healy, and Elizabeth Paxton.

In the walking club, Patricia Healy was President, and nine other seniors were among the twenty-five members.

In the Choral Club again, all offices were held by Seniors; Gwendolyn Atwood, President; Ruth Martin, Vice-president and Berenice Maxwell, Secretary-Treasurer. There were seven other Seniors in the club.

On Senior Day, April 24th, class work was suspended and the Faculty and students met in the gymnasium to hear the reading of the Senior Essays. The general topic this year was "The Education of Women," and six papers were read, the seventh, "Women in the Law," though listed in the program, was not read until School Day, May 22nd:

The program was as follows:

"The Educational Work of Emma Willard"—Elizabeth Paxton.

"Health Education of the Modern Girl"—Berenice Maxwell.

"The Life of Alice Freeman Palmer"—Helen Curtis.

"Mary Loyon"—Harriet Snider.

"Women in the Law"—Mary Strachan.

On April 30th, the Junior Class entertained the Seniors at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. This is always a delightful event distinguished by a delicious repast and an equally pleasing "menu" of clever toasts and tuneful songs. Unfortunately, no reporters are allowed on the scene, so we are unable to give a full account of this festivity. We only know it was beautiful to look at and satisfying in every way. The banquet is the forerunner of those crowding events of Commencement week which fill the last hours of the Senior Class with mingled pleasure and regret, making them realize that they are no longer "Seniors", but the Class of 1925.

NEWS OF OUR FACULTY

Several new members were added to the Faculty this year. They were—Miss Wilfrida Messenger to take Miss Cole's place as Academic Head of the School; Miss Eleanor B. Craig, who has been teaching English III and has also been Senior "Class Mother"; Miss Mildred Hanna, who has had charge of the Latin department; Mme. Desprez, who returned to the Faculty to assist in the French department. Miss Margaret Slawson has had the classes in Spanish; Miss Maude Frances succeeded Miss Plummer (now Mrs. Robert H. Rice) in the department of Expression and Dramatic Art. Miss Florence Peters has had charge of the department of Home Economics during Miss Trippett's year's leave of absence; Miss Aillene Stuart has been assisting Miss Davis in the Athletic department, and Elizabeth Mann has been assisting in the Secretarial work. Elizabeth, as one of our own Alumnae, is especially welcome as a member of the Faculty. She finished just before coming to us, a two years' course of special training at the Katherine Gibbs' school in Boston.

We were heartily glad to have Miss Hempstead with us for a few weeks in the fall when she came on to Edit the Roll Call, and again in the Spring to substitute for Miss Froeligh during her illness. Miss Hempstead is to be congratulated on the excellent Jubilee number of the Roll Call published last November. In addition to the usual full accounts of school activities at M. V. S. and in all chapters of the M. V. S. Society, a detailed report of the Chapel Committee up to date and several pages of interesting personals, it contained the outline of our Golden Jubilee celebration with many valuable suggestions for the various features of the program. Also it published as usual the complete list of all members of the M. V. S. Society with their addresses.

THE CUPOLA

The Cupola this year is an unusually attractive volume, dedicated as a Jubilee Book to Mount Vernon Seminary, the old and the new, to the Alumnae who have given the school its traditions, and to Mary Strachan, President of the Senior Class, whose unconscious influence has for six years helped to make for honor and integrity and school spirit in the finest sense.

The Faculty advisors on the Editorial Staff of the Cupola were Miss Barber and Miss Churchyard, and there were Six Seniors among the twelve editors.

FAREWELL, MISS COOK

Last year's annual recorded the engagement of a member of the Faculty, Miss Jane Plummer, whose wedding took place during the summer to Mr. Robert Huntington Rice. She seems to have established a custom, as we have to record this year the wedding of Miss Edith Denison Cook to Mr. Henry Calvin Durand, and our next annual will probably record the marriage of Miss Helen Treyz, whose engagement to Mr. Harold F. Smith, of Geneva, New York, has been recently announced.

Miss Cook has been a member of the Faculty since 1913 having rendered expert service in the business department, first as assistant, and later as head of that work. But, this is only a small part of her valued services in our school life. As "Mother" of the White Class she was most helpful and inspiring! Her artistic touches in decoration and the ordering of our various entertainments will be sadly missed. Her personality has been felt in many ways which only her absence will serve to reveal. We have been conscious of her influence without realizing how far it has reached. As a graduate of the school and a devoted follower of its ideals, her interest in its continued welfare has been unflinching. As three times President of the Alumnae Association, and as a member of the Chapel Committee, as well as many other committees for school interests, her services were cheerfully rendered, and her work always successful. No wonder that we are reluctant to let her go, in spite of our best hopes and good wishes for the happiness before her. We are not begrudging her this, but are regretting the empty place she has left at M. V. S. in the hearts of faculty and girls.

The Editorial Committee wishes to express its sincere appreciation to Miss Anne Seymour Ames, Mrs. George Winchester Stone, Mrs. A. R. Holden, Miss Helen Kingsbury Myers, Miss Faith Bradford, and all who have aided the Committee this year.

IN MEMORIAM

JAMES H. HENSLEY

Died Jan. 27, 1925

"I am going to California," he said; "I can't stand another winter here."

The little dog stood on the doorstep beside him, back of him lay the house, her house, their house, now so empty and so silent.

And so to California he went.

In January they brought him back—not to the empty house and the eager little dog but to lie beside her, of whom he had so lately been bereft.

James H. Hensley, husband of Adelia Gates Hensley, died suddenly January 27, 1925. Mr. Hensley was a native of Tennessee but had lived in Washington for nearly forty years. He married Adelia Gates in 1886 and survived her but fourteen months. He was in earlier years a pension law expert but had retired from business life some time before his death. To those who knew him only as Mrs. Hensley's husband he was a figure of utter devotion to her. On November Fifth, last, as he watched the lighting of the fifty golden candles on the Birthday cake he said to one standing near him, "She would have liked this." Always it was what she would have liked that counted.

Love it is that shares our sorrows,
Love that gives our joys increase,
You who shared and gave and loved her,
Rest beside her then, in peace.

FAITH BRADFORD, 1900.

DR. JULIA E. SMITH

(Died February 11, 1925)

Another date has been added to our school "calendar of reverent memory" by the death of Dr. Julia E. Smith, identified for so many years with the school at 1100 M Street. She came to us in 1885 as resident physician, holding that position until her increasing deafness made it impossible for her to continue in her beloved profession. This was the tragedy of her life but she met it bravely and cheerfully. However she remained in the school for many years directing the domestic department, where her marked executive ability resulted in the well-ordered house and comfortable home life so well remembered at 1100 M.

Her quiet personality made itself felt, combining with strength and devotion to duty, an outward sweet attractiveness that soon won for her the affectionate name of "Little Doctor," by which she will always be remembered.

She was devoted to the school and its interests, and it was a great sorrow to her when failing strength made it necessary for her to give up her work. We are glad to remember that she paid several happy visits to the new school home. This makes it possible for some of the later members of M. V. S. to have memories of her to add to the many dear memories that come to the minds of all who knew her in the old days at 1100 M.

It is sad that the last few years of her life, spent at her home near Tyngham, Mass., were marred by illness and suffering. We are glad to know that in these troubled months the memory of M. V. S. was dear to her and we hope that she was comforted by the love and sympathy of her school friends.

A memorial pew in the Chapel is the gift of two of these friends, Miss Brouse and Miss Trippett, and it will stand through the coming years to recall the name, and keep alive the memory of Julia E. Smith, our well-loved "Little Doctor."

HANNAH CALDER THACHER

Died, July 7, 1925.

It is with the profoundest sorrow and with a sense of personal loss that the Class of 1900 announces the death of Hannah Calder Thacher.

It is so short a time since she was with us rejoicing in our reunion at the Golden Jubilee, so loyal and so loving that we can never forget how much she meant to us.

It comforts us to think that our last memories of her are such happy ones, that she thoroughly enjoyed those days of being a girl at school again, that as she loved and welcomed us, so indeed, we loved and welcomed her.

We extend to her bereaved husband the deep sympathy of the Class and of the School.

PERSONALS

MISS COOK'S WEDDING

Miss Cole, Miss Brouse, Miss Guard, and Miss Edwards attended the wedding of Edith Denison Cook, '90, to Mr. Henry Calvin Durand, on the 24th of June. The wedding took place at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles MacKinney in Providence, Rhode Island, at four o'clock in the afternoon, Rev. Frederick E. Penfold, of Providence, performing the ceremony. The guests included the relatives of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends, among the latter being three M. V. S. girls: Marjorie Ray Potter, Bonney Barry Brown, and Louise Aldrich. Among the relatives of the groom was his sister, Mrs. William Mather Lewis, of Washington, D. C.

The lovely home of Mrs. MacKinney was decorated with palms and ferns, and very beautiful arrangements of delphinium, pink roses, and pale pink spirea. The bride's costume was of pale larkspur-blue chiffon trimmed in silver, with a large hat of the same blue, and she carried a bouquet of delphinium and pale pink roses. She had no attendants and was given away by her brother, Mr. Benjamin Cook, of Providence. The ceremony was followed by a reception, after which Mr. and Mrs. Durand left for a motor trip of several days ending at Mr. Durand's country home in Dorset, Vermont, where they will spend the summer. After the first of November they will be at home at 305 College Rd., Lake Forest, Ill.

Another very delightful event in honor of the bride and groom was a supper given the evening of June 23rd by the bride's sister, Mrs. Howard Greene, at her beautiful home in Providence, at which about thirty guests were present, including Mrs. Lewis, of Washington, and the four members of the Faculty, guests from the school. Mrs. Greene's house was of especial interest to the visitors, as it is an old house dating back to revolutionary times and has been remodelled in perfect taste, in the same period as our new school and "Gatesley". Some of the landscape-paper originally in the house has been so perfectly restored that it possesses all its original charming color—and the other papers are reproductions of old designs. The woodwork of interesting paneling is white with quaint cupboards built in, and charming window and door frames with the original locks and hinges. The furniture, too, is old and most interesting. The visiting faculty wished they might have had the pleasure of showing Mrs. Greene's house to Mr. Bessell, who has made a study of many such quaint old houses, and has embodied the results of his study so successfully in our school buildings.

Miss Edwards was the guest of a cousin of the bride, Mrs. William Moss, whose house is another very interesting one of the same period as Mrs. Greene's. Both houses are on a hill in the oldest part of Providence, and not far from the museum which contains one of the rarest collections of antique furniture in this country.

Mrs. Rickett spent part of June and July with Miss Alice Edwards at her apartment in Washington. Mrs. Rickett's daughter, Peggy, was with them for a few weeks. She graduated this year from the University of Wisconsin at Madison. She has been honored with a scholarship and will remain next winter for special work in English at the University.

Mrs. McAllister is in Europe traveling with her brother, Mr. Will Guard.

Miss Martin has gone to Clifton, New Brunswick, for the summer. Mrs. Murphy was with her for a few weeks in July.

Grace Willis, '87, is spending the summer in California with her sister.

Miss Brouse and Miss Trippett spent the winter in New York, where they had an attractive apartment near Central Park. Miss Trippett will resume her Domestic Science work at school next year.

On the sixteenth of September, 1924, Miss Minnie Brouse, a member of the Faculty from 1910 to 1915, was married to Prof. Josef Kaspar, a member of the Musical Faculty from 1884 to 1923.

Another marriage of interest took place in New York on June 25th when Miss Marguerite McAllister, daughter of Mrs. McAllister and niece of Miss Guard, married Dr. G. Lane Taneyhill. Her address will be 405 N. Charles St., Baltimore, Md.

This year was saddened by the long illness, followed by the death, in June, of Alfred Pollard, one of the old and valued servants of the school. Many will remember him as our efficient head-waiter, and also as the husband of Martha, Mrs. Somers' personal maid for many years. Alfred's illness began soon after the opening of school, and his condition became so serious that he was obliged to give up his work. He was one of the four servants given part in the Dedication Service of the Chapel, but his illness prevented his being present.

He was cared for devotedly throughout his illness by Martha, but even her skillful nursing failed, and he died on June third, soon after his removal to Emergency Hospital.

Alfred's service to the school and to Mrs. Somers covered a period of twenty-seven years, which, from Alfred, meant twenty-seven years of unfailingly cheerful, competent service of one who seemed always to put real enjoyment of his work into its accomplishment.

The end of such a faithful and devoted life leaves us saddened, for such a spirit, with its unconscious influence, will be greatly missed.

No guests were more gladly welcomed at the Golden Jubilee than Mrs. Clara H. Eddy, and her daughter, Elizabeth (Mrs. Samuel Rowe). Mrs. Eddy's visits to the school seemed far too few of late, and it was a joy to see her again one of our household, and entering into all our festivities with the same enthusiasm we remember in other years. It seemed quite natural, too, to see Elizabeth and Katherine Meyer Rice once more together in the same good fellowship of their school years.

Mrs. A. R. Holden (Adalyn Smith) is spending the month of August in the mountains of Tennessee with her son Randall, who is a Civil Engineer with the Southern R.R. He is in charge of extensive constructive work. Mrs. Holden is proud and happy in the possession of five beautiful grandchildren. She is still writing music and poetry.

Mrs. Henry A. Williams (Martha Amelia Soper), aunt of Blanche Polkinhorn, was among the first pupils to attend M. V. S. when it was located at 204 F. Street, during the years 1876-78. She lived in Baltimore after her marriage and died there December, 1900. Her two children, Dr. Lawrence Soper Williams, and her daughter, Martha, have shown great interest in the new M. V. S. and in the development of the Memorial chapel during its erection.

The class of 1881 was well represented at the Golden Jubilee with five out of seven members present. They were: Anne Seymour Ames, Cornelia Morgan, Mrs. W. F. Walker (Frances Adelaide Tune) and Harriet Belle Walker. Miss Walker is spending the summer abroad, as she did last year.

1888

Among the gifts to the school during the Jubilee was an interesting reminder of the Nautilus Club, in the shape of two pictures, one of J. G. Whittier and other of Oliver Wendell Holmes with autograph notes from each of them expressing interest in the work of the Club and in its study of our American Poets. Dr. Holmes copied the verse from his poem "The Chambered Nautilus" beginning—

"Build thee more stately mansions, oh my soul", while Whittier seems to have composed a verse especially for the Club, as it cannot be found in any collection of his poems.

Both photographs and letters were mounted and framed and presented to the school by Mrs. Addie Burr Clark, '88, who was Secretary of the Nautilus Club at that time.

Rachel Coffin is running a most attractive Toy Shop on Seventeenth Street, in Washington.

Phila Calder Nye sailed in January for Europe. She spent a short time in Paris with Gertrude Shriver, who was located there all winter. Later, Mrs. Nye took a motor trip through northern Africa, visiting some recent excavations of especial interest to her in connection with her archeological work at Princeton University. Afterward she visited several places in Italy, returning to America early in July. She is spending several weeks with her aunt, Mrs. William Calder, in Wilmington, North Carolina, after which she will return to Princeton.

Mrs. Boyd Taylor (Marian Lilley) entertained charmingly at an informal tea for the members of her class and a few others, during Jubilee week.

Mrs. Elsa Durant Mower was present. Elsa's daughter, Margaret, is very successful in professional stage work in New York City.

Mrs. Martin (Susie Plain) has a Florist's shop in Washington and is a Floral Designer and Decorator. The Alumnae Association each year is delighted to order flowers from Mrs. Martin's establishment.

Anna Hasselman, 1892, sailed for Europe early in February to enjoy the Mediterranean trip with some Indianapolis friends. Later she visited Mrs. Myra Wilson Little, of Evanston, Illinois, at her villa at Cannes, where Mrs. Little has spent the past year. Anna will return to Indianapolis in August to resume her work at the John Herron Art Institute.

Elsie Edwards and Mrs. John H. Sothoron (Betty Dare), both of the class of 1893, shared a table with the class of 1894 at the Mayflower supper during Jubilee Week. Mrs. H. B. Mirick (Blanche Swope) could not attend the festivities as she was seeing her sons off to Europe.

1894

Mrs. Charles W. Fairfax (Lillie May Bowen) was in California during Jubilee Week, but her intense loyalty to M. V. S and her vivid class spirit prompted her to entertain her class at a lovely luncheon at the Arts Club. Mrs. Samuel Capen (Grace Wright) acted as hostess, assisted by Elsie Edwards. The girls were delighted to have Mrs. B. F. Harris and her charming young daughter-in-law, present. Lillie wrote that "Daughters were also invited" but unfortunately Elizabeth Sawtelle, daughter of Major and Mrs. Sawtelle (Marion Trimble) was recovering from an attack of appendicitis at Walter Reed, and Marguerite Mesny, daughter of Mrs. A. B. LeP. Mesny (Mazie Brown), was busy with her exams at George Washington University. The Fairfaxes have disposed of their handsome home in Washington and hereafter will travel extensively. They returned here in July accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Chandler, wife of Lieut.-Com. Theodore Chandler, U. S. N.

Mrs. Carl F. Gottfried (Hedwig Brand) is President of the Board of Illinois Training School for Nurses. Hedwig was in North Carolina at the time of the Jubilee, but expected up to the last moment to be present, and her classmates and many friends at M. V. S. were much disappointed at her absence from all the events.

Mrs. Samuel Capen (Grace Wright) was a welcome guest during Jubilee Week. Dr. Capen, Chancellor of the University of Buffalo, was unable to accompany his wife, much to everyone's regret. Grace and her little daughter, Mary, later visited Miss Colgan and Miss Fletcher at Saranac, before going to the Capen's summer home at South Brookville, Maine.

Mrs. Wm. Seton Belt (Ella Dare) was another out-of-town girl that the class of 1894 thought themselves lucky to have present on Alumnae day.

Owing to the illness of her father, Admiral Hemphill, Ora Joe was unable to be present at M. V. S. during Jubilee Week. Ora Joe and her father returned from California last fall and have spent the winter and spring at the Highlands.

Mrs. Barry Mohun (Nora Michener) was most gracious in looking after the comfort of her class on Alumnae day. Her daughter Elizabeth, has just graduated from Miss Spence's School, New York City, and expects to enter Vassar this fall. Nora and her husband will spend most of the summer enjoying their beautiful new home on Massachusetts Avenue, but later will go to California by way of the Panama Canal.

Mrs. Philip Sidney Morgan (Caroline McCabe) came over from Annapolis to attend Alumnae day festivities. Her son attends the Naval Academy and she also has a charming daughter, whom she describes as "an old-fashioned flapper."

Mrs. Edward G. Kendall (Grace Weymouth) writes from St. Paul's School, N. H., that her husband has been very ill and that they will go to Italy while he recuperates.

Mrs. Richard H. Cox (Lillian Plant) was present on Alumnae day and was as sparkling and full of enthusiasm as of yore. Several extended trips have fallen to her lot during the past few years and this coming January she will personally direct a party, largely her personal friends, on a Cook tour of the world. All good luck to her on this undertaking.

Blanche Polkinhorn was active chairman of her class during Jubilee week as the president of the class, Mrs. Gros (Nora Patton) lives in Paris. Blanche and Miss Walker, sailed on June 6th, to spend three months abroad. Blanche plans to spend six weeks in Paris, living with Mlle. Viardot-Garcia, who is a great neice of the famous teacher Viardot and also related to the renowned Emmanuel Garcia, of Italy, with whom Blanche will do some coaching in songs. Later, she will join the Musical Travel Club of America, under the personal guidance of Howard Brockway, and with them attend the Wagner Festival in Bayreuth in August.

Mrs. John E. Shaw (Ethel Bogan) rented her bungalow at Santa Barbara, Cal., for the season to Mrs. Victor Mapes (Anna Hoeke), 1893.

Mrs. Charles E. Hood (Martha Jarvis) entertained the members of her class at a beautiful luncheon during Jubilee Week. In addition to the local girls she was delighted to have with her, Mrs. Louis Schriber (Floretta Elmore) and Mrs. W. L. Andrus (Helen Palmer).

Miss May Libbey entertained at tea at the Chevy Chase Club for the members of her class during Jubilee Week.

1902

Mrs. Paul A. Blair (Ruth Brown) sails with her husband and small son to Europe in August, returning the latter part of September. She will visit England, Scotland, Belgium and Switzerland. She hopes to catch a glimpse of Mrs. Bainbridge Crist (Florence Libbey) while in Switzerland, as Florence is spending the summer there.

1907

Mrs. Agnes Balloch Bready is with the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. A. doing foreign commerce work. This includes research work and translation.

Mrs. Roland H. Ballau (Janet Milne) returned for the Jubilee and was most enthusiastic about everything.

Mrs. Hugh U. Cunningham 1908 (Dorothy Beall), does journalistic work and also writes poetry. A book of her poems has just been published. "The Bridge" is the title of one of the most noteworthy.

Are you using Jean Barkalow's Candles in your home? At her shop, 1450 Grant St., Denver, Colo., she is specializing in Monogram Candles; your monogram hand-carved on an oval shield and painted in any two contrasting colors. She says they are furnished only in white or pale yellow—by that sign alone, one would know she had graduated at M. V. S.

Mrs. Charles Hamilton Maddox (Isabel Ramage) is in South America.

Elsie Foerderer has been making an extended stay abroad.

Mrs. Charles Barr Field (Annie Dugan) was unable to attend the Jubilee because of an attack of pneumonia.

It is interesting to note that of the four girls of the class of 1909 returning for the Jubilee, three of them have married Doctors of Medicine. They are Mrs. Henry H. Hobbs (Helen Andrus), Mrs. James J. Waring (Ruth Porter) and Mrs. Raymond G. Willse (Roberta Rouse).

Naomi Hoffman called at the school in April and greatly regretted that she was unable to attend the Golden Jubilee. She has been studying operatic singing in New York this past winter, and accompanied her teacher, in May, to San Francisco, where he conducts a summer school of music.

Mrs. John W. Henderson (Elizabeth Brown) who makes her home at Hollywood, Calif., visited her old home in Salt Lake City this Spring.

Mrs. Henry E. Cherry (Virginia Houston) spent five or six very enjoyable weeks with Mary Louise Allen, remaining over for the Jubilee. This was her first visit in Washington since her graduation.

Mary Louise Allen, although busy teaching in the public schools, rendered invaluable work during the Jubilee preparations at M. V. S., especially with the Questionnaires. Mary Louise says that the Class of 1919 was the first Junior class in the present suburban school, although a few of the members of the class had studied at the old M. V. S. at 1100 M Street.

Mildred Williamson graduated from Barnard College, Columbia University, this last June, receiving an A. B. degree. M. V. S. is quite proud and happy over the fact that Mildred made Phi Beta Kappa. She is, at present, principal of a Daily Vacation Bible School under the auspices of Foundry M. E. Church and the Church of the Covenant of this city.

Norma Daniels, who graduated from Columbia School of Journalism, is working for a Master's degree in History at Columbia.

ica. Mary Lillian tells hair-raising tales about a trip into the interior.

Mrs. W. Burr Gregg (Dorothy Kilbourne) entertained this spring at a delightful luncheon at her home in Maywood, New Jersey, for the following girls: Mildred Williamson, '21, Helen Fryberger Moore, '20, Elizabeth Davidson Cooper, '21, and Mary Lillian Kransz, '21. Of course, M. V. S. was the principal topic of conversation!

Martha Ormerod had Jane Campbell, '21, as a guest at her home this past winter, and expects to visit Jane this summer. Martha announced her engagement, on June 9th, to Mr. Myron Turner Moore, of Youngstown, Ohio.

Mrs. Robert Stenson (Vera Anderson) spent April at White Sulphur Springs and also at Asheville and with her husband visited the school on her way north.

Sally Hawkes spent the winter in Florida, but came to Washington to attend the D. A. R. Convention in April. She also attended the Jubilee.

Mrs. Alonzo Boardman (Elizabeth Fleming) dropped in with her husband in May at M. V. S. en route to Europe and telephoned us on her way home just two days after the Jubilee was over. It was such a disappointment not to have her with us at that time.

Elizabeth Mann is secretary at M. V. S. and had charge of the Golden Jubilee work.

Grace Jeremy came east in the fall to attend the wedding of Katherine McKinnon, 1923, as a bridesmaid, but has been spending the winter at her home in Salt Lake City.

Christine Schonblom completed a course at the Old Colony Secretarial School in Boston and is working in the Bradford National Bank this summer.

year, but Addison left in February to visit friends in California.

CHAPEL ENTRANCE ON COMMENCEMENT MORNING, 1926.

TO THE M. V. S. ALUMNAE

PHILOSOPHER recently said, "Our civilization must die because life has become so complex that it cannot solve its own problems." The possibility of the correctness of this prophecy is all too obvious for debate. Its probability we are not yet so willing to grant. The steadily increasing complexity of life is truly appalling; the apparent insolubility of its myriad problems high overwhelming. But this is not the time for mere speculation. If this impending fate is to be avoided, there is but one means possible—solving of the problems.

The current of life is very swift. Thousands of helpless souls are being cast up on the shore unable to adapt themselves to its velocity. It takes a keen pilot very sure of his goal to guide his bark successfully. This is no time for passive religion, for negative doctrine, for haphazard, hand-to-mouth philosophy. One must accept the challenge of life today and fight with vigor and purpose, or be thrown on the scrap heap of humanity. One cannot be tossed about by every wind of fashionable doctrine. Life is short as well as swift.

If we are to solve our own problems, we must first believe in ourselves. An impersonal view of ourselves alone can inspire this. We are not so insignificant as we appear from a strictly personal view for we are the inheritors of the ages—of the race—of all the great who have lived. On their strength we can rely; in their strength we can solve the problems that confront us. In the dignity thus imparted to us lies our power. In our recognition of our power lies the hope of the future.

How is M. V. S. helping to solve these problems? You, daughters of M. V. S., are the answer. Inasmuch as you individually are consciously at work upon these problems, M. V. S. is serving the world. She strove through the inspiring leadership of Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley and through the long line of faithful women who have shared their work, to make you conscious of your responsibility—to life, to send you forth challenged to extend to others the great joy of living that was yours. How has she succeeded?

In a recent novel of H. G. Wells, we read this startling sentence, "I shall begin to have a political life. A man who has no political life is like a rat which lives in a ship rather than like a man who navigates it." The trouble with our Ship of State is that it is overrun with "rats." We deplore our irreverence for law; we condemn our political leaders; we bemoan our corruption; we say democracy has not yet proved itself and look becomingly wise and sad. But what are we individually doing to aid in the navigation of this ship? What is your political life? Are you willing to abandon this beloved country of ours to the ignorant and the unprincipled? Whether you like the responsibility or not, the duties of citizenship are yours. Women, the best women, must recognize the demands of political life upon them, or this great experiment in democracy will fail.

There are 800 living graduates and more than 2,000 who, while not having completed the course of study, have the privilege of being an M.V.S. daughter. Be not content to share the privilege. Live up to the responsibility. What is there in our social fabric that distresses you? There is the place for you to begin. Gather all the knowledge and ideas you can about it. Ponder it well. Devote yourself to its solution. The fact that it has sought you out, that it has caught your attention, that it has engaged your sympathy, makes it a wrong for you to right—a problem of our civilization for you to solve. Don't wait for something more definite. Find in it your life work.

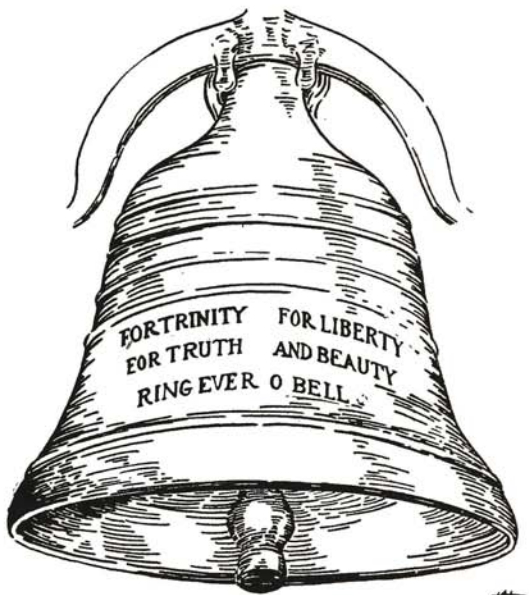

Work! Nothing else satisfies in life. Happy alone she who has found it! Herein alone lies our salvation and the saving of our civilization. I quote again from the same novel, "Christina Alberta's Father," "Our work, our part, is the first thing in our lives. To that, pride must bow now and passion and romance. We have to slam and lock and bar the door against all personal passions that might wreck our work. Bar it and put it out of your mind as a secondary thing. Work. Give the greater things a chance to keep you."

A devoted faculty is carrying on the M. V. S. tradition valiantly. We are raising our academic standards, yes—but we are placing first, as always, character development. We are endeavoring to make our girls conscious of their great opportunity for leadership; their responsibility to humanity. We are conscious of an increasingly fine school citizenship. But all the seeming success counts as nothing unless our girls are really taking their place in the greater citizenship—unless they are solving the problems of civilization. Through this letter your Alma Mater would rouse memories of the past when gathered on a Sunday evening in the old Music Room or later in the Great Hall, you touched the high spots of life and resolved to live not unto yourselves alone. Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley live in just the measure, you, her daughters, are giving to the world your best.

Faithfully yours,

JEAN DEAN COLE

THE ANNE SEYMOUR AMES BELL
DEDICATED NOVEMBER 5, 1926

AN APPRECIATION TO ANNE SEYMOUR AMES

The dream of the artist comes true on canvas,
The architect's vision is wrought in stone—
No triumph without a dream behind it,
Works do not stand without faith, alone.

Anne Seymour Ames is both dreamer and doer, and in that excellent combination has wrought to such purpose that today there is no brick in our beautiful Chapel, no piece of wood, no block of stone, no article of metal that does not cry aloud her name. As Jacob toiled seven years for Rachel, so has she labored for her love of M. V. S. How great an undertaking it has been none of us can fully realize. We see the triumphant accomplishment, but hidden in her heart are dark hours of discouragement, weary, weary hours of physical and mental fatigue, a great responsibility borne, strange and difficult problems solved, delays, misunderstandings.

It is no easy task for us to put in words our appreciation for what she has done for all M. V. S., past, present and to come. The Chapel is already a holy place of memories too beautiful and ennobling to be wholly sad, a place of present strength, of future aspiration. It is with the most heartfelt gratitude that we can express to Anne Seymour Ames herself some part of our thankfulness, some hint of our admiration, some humble appreciation of the beautiful accomplishment of her dream and deed. To her own radiant face we say it, seeing there the "outward and visible sign of the inward and spiritual grace" that has brought our "Straightaway Anne," steadily through all difficulties to the glorious accomplishment.

To God be given praise,
Wondrous are His ways,
Our weakness He doth bless
Unto full usefulness.

FAITH BRADFORD.

THE ELIZABETH SOMERS CHAPEL

This year the Chapel has had lights and shadows. Many lights, in fact a whole constellation, but a few dark shadows too, such as unredeemed pledges and an amiable contention with the contractors and architect as to the guaranteed cost and extras.

In the meantime the exterior of the building is still guiltless of necessary and decorative shutters and has the appearance of an eye without lashes, while the contention would be greatly relieved should the pledges be speedily forthcoming. But the Chairman of the Chapel Committee does not like to dwell on shadows, therefore presto! let there be light.

The question is often asked: "Is the Chapel a spiritual asset?" I think it can be said truthfully that it is not an adjunct, but the very center and heart of M. V. S.

Every school day is started with reverent and beautiful morning prayers. Every Sunday afternoon there is a complete church service, stately with the best music and the most able preaching. It is impossible to estimate the deep impress of these quiet Sunday afternoons on young girls in their formative years. After the benediction there is always an organ recital of fifteen minutes, the Sunday organist being Professor Torovsky of Epiphany Church. The Adelia Gates Hensley memorial organ is not only a very fine and costly one but the tone is of rare beauty and depth. Perhaps there is a sunset glow through the wonderful chancel window. The music, now vibrant, now tremulous, seems a living soul. Then like an evening sacrifice, from our Chapel ascend influences, from the dear past to the potent future, simply incalculable.

Many of the girls who attended the Golden Jubilee will be anxious to hear what additions have been made during the year. First, the organ was installed in September, the very pride of our hearts.

In November the bell was finished, and there was a joint dedication of organ and bell. I can vouch for one person who is thrilled from center to circumference whenever that bell is rung. Then one of the most beautiful parts of the Chapel is the impressive Colonial screen, separating the vestibule from the assembly proper and inscribed in honor of the non-graduates. The Chancel has had many changes. The Pulpit, hand made and of pure colonial type, with a canopy, and with a delightful little staircase ascending to it, is just to the left of the transept aisle, and is marked in memory of Mrs. Hensley, by the Adelia Gates Hensley Chapter.

In the winter, the three wonderful pieces of chancel furniture came, hand wrought, the table and two chairs all very beautifully carved. Also more chancel lights were added.

There is a peculiar tenderness about this memorial Chancel, when one realizes that the great gift Mr. Hensley planned in memory of Mrs. Hensley, came after his own death.

In the entrance of the outside door is the bronze tablet with the names of Founders and Life Benefactors, while the art treasure—the Book of Remembrance, is now finished with every name there enrolled. The two hymnal boards, the gift of Mrs. Payne and Mary Elizabeth Payne Chance, face each other on the right and left of the side walls, while the four colonial collection boxes given by Isabelle Lammers in memory of her sister Gertrude Hinman Garrison are in constant use.

The last gifts of all are the useful and beautiful side lights presented by Elizabeth Paxton of the Class of 1925. There are many other special gifts, but the ones mentioned have been added since our last reunion. Like Stevenson's "Road of the Loving Hearts," the Chapel glows with memorials and class gifts.

There are now fifteen memorial pews; three individual pews and twenty-six class pews in perpetuity. Four classes have gone over the top since the Golden Jubilee, the Silver Class of 1900, the Class of 1891, the Class of 1921 and the present Class of 1926. There are five other classes who pledge to complete their quota and are reducing the sums necessary, so rapidly now that they may wish to know exactly how the latest class budget stands. These classes lack only the following sums to go "over the top." Class of 1910, $186.00; Class of 1911, $39.00; Class of 1913, $53.00; Class of 1915, $107.72, and the Class of 1917, $41.00. Also the Sara Amelia Scull Chapter, who pledged to give a memorial pew costing $500.00 in memory of Sara A. Scull, have sent, to date, $380.00 and lack only $120.00 for completion.

Many unexpected gifts have come during this fiscal year. The largest contribution represents the voluntary wishes of the Alumnae to pay all "back dues" from graduation, and to turn over such surplus to the Chapel fund. The result was the tidy sum of $841.00. Then the party of April 17, under the chairmanship of Nora Michener Mohun, held at the school, through the kindness of Miss Cole, cleared $513.71. There was a successful bazaar, by the school, with the joyful result of $450.00. Dorothy Krueger Burghardt most generously sent $400.00 toward the class pew of 1915, while the present classes of the school gave entertainments and realized amazing sums. At the Reunion, the chairman asked for $103.72 in order to leave in the bank a desired sum and it was promptly and graciously given by Helen Blodgett Erwin. From the Library, the Domestic Science Department and the business office, came gifts.

During the year Miss Cole gave hospitality to Mlle. Toureille's small dog, "Jerry." Now all dogs are not deeply grateful, but Jerry was, and wagged his doggy appreciation in a five dollar bill to which was attached this direction: "To be used for the Chapel fund." The Chairman of the Chapel Committee pondered on the rich vein struck in this gold ore. From the beginning of M. V. S., pets have been an integral part of this school. Who could forget the stately "Tarquinius Superbus" or the lovable but lowly "Gyp" or "Coke" of blessed memory or a score of non-forgettable friends? Said the Chairman, "Of course the suitable time must be during the 'Dog days' of August, but why not a Kennel roll of dog star honor?" Miss Cornelia I. Morgan, the Chapel Treasurer, says she will be at "The Muncie," Chautauqua, N. Y., during the whole month of August and any $5.00 contributions will be suitably acknowledged. But little Jerry Toureille has taken the Chairman far afield and yet what a gripping thing is this Chapel of ours, into which everything, the deepest and the most personal, goes!

Remember above all, that this Chapel is yours. The class tie loosens with the years; perhaps not even a familiar face may greet you as the months slip on, one after another, yet always it is your Chapel and my Chapel. You helped to build it, your name is forever inscribed on the pages of the Book of Remembrance, the ones you loved influence you still and the very atmosphere inspires you to better living.

I have left for a finishing record our last contribution, because like the circle of eternity it has no real beginning or ending, although it goes back from our first graduate to our latest gift.

We have not started our "Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh Guild" yet, because we still have in outstanding pledges more than $1,300.00 which is a very serious anxiety to our Chapel Committee, but we confidently believe that every single pledge will represent 100 per cent of integrity, therefore we hope that in the fall we can start with every obligation met. We have a gift of $100.00 for the beginning of that Guild sent by Elizabeth Swartzell Davis of the Class of 1911 in memory of her mother, our first graduate, and because the whole spirit of the Chapel is epitomized in the simple statement of the three wise men, we close this report with the beautiful words of St. Matthew's Gospel, "And they brought unto Him gifts, gold, frankincense and myrrh."

ANNE SEYMOUR AMES,
Chairman.

MINUTES

The Annual Reunion of the Alumnae Association of Mount Vernon Seminary was held at the school on May 22, 1926. The business meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock by the President, Mrs. Helen Blodgett Erwin.

The members of the Class of 1926 were then presented to the Association by Miss Guard and welcomed as Alumnae by Mrs. Erwin in a short but gracious address. She called particular attention to the fact that this class was "one hundred per cent" in every particular. The President of the Class responded, pledging the loyalty of each member to Mount Vernon Seminary and to the Alumnae Association.

Miss Cole preceded the calling of the roll by classes, by some very pertinent remarks. She stated that it meant a great deal to the school to have the former students and graduates come back for a visit, and urged that those who were present at the meeting relate to the girls, just graduating, the many loving memories, they had of the school in by-gone days, especially of the influence of Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley. At the close of her remarks, Miss Cole called to the attention of the Alumnae their future responsibility to the school, and the intention of ultimately appointing a member of the Alumnae Association on the Board of Directors.

She urged that this matter be given very serious thought so that when the request for nominees be sent, the members would be able to select as their representative one especially interested in the welfare of the school.

At the conclusion of the roll-call, Miss Cole brought before the Association, the notice of the death of Mr. Carey, husband of Mary Stuart Carey, and moved that a message of condolence be sent to Mrs. Carey and her daughter. This motion was carried.

It was announced that Mrs. Bertha Ellis Palmer was ill at Garfield Hospital. Mrs. Mary Bradford Stone moved, and it was seconded, that flowers be sent to Mrs. Palmer. It was so ordered.

Four telegrams of greetings from M. V. S. Society Chapters were read.

Miss Cole expressed her wish that another year the President of the Association would write to each one of the M. V. S. Chapters, urging that they send a representative to each reunion. Miss Walker stated that in her opinion such representation was peculiarly the privilege of the M. V. S. Society at its annual meeting on Founder's Day.

The minutes of the previous meeting were then read, and after correction, regarding the motion appropriating the money for the Alumnae luncheon so that it should read "not to exceed $150," they were approved.

Miss Willis, the treasurer, gave the following report:

Miss Ames, Chairman of the Chapel Committee, gave an oral report calling attention to many interesting contributions that had been received since the Golden Jubilee.

In the meantime, Miss Walker, treasurer of the M. V. S. Society, having reconsidered Miss Cole's desire for M. V. S. Society representation at the Alumnae Reunion, made a motion that "in April of the coming year, the secretary of the Alumnae Association be asked to notify the secretary of every M. V. S. Chapter, that the Alumnae Association would be delighted to have a representative at their May meeting." The motion was carried.

Miss Walker gave the following report:

Three Chapters, Chicago, Rhode Island and Omaha have paid up memberships—no member in arrears. No report of 1926 dues from Harriet Belle Walker, Adelia Gates Hensley and Rebecca Sherman Ashley Chapters.

Respectfully submitted,

H. B. WALKER,
Treasurer.

Under new business, the secretary read letters of resignation from Mrs. Helen Blodgett Erwin, president of the Association, and Gertrude Lutz, corresponding secretary of the Association. These resignations were accepted with regret.

The president, then appointed the following nominating committee, Mrs. Fairfax, Mrs. Stone, and Miss Edwards, to present a slate for the election of a president and a corresponding secretary.

While waiting for this committee to make its report, Miss Willis called attention to the fact that she had been called upon to bring before this meeting the matter of sending out due-bills and invitations for reunions. She moved that the Executive Committee be empowered to decide whether or not invitations should be sent to members in arrears for several years. She also stated that about seventy-eight members have never paid dues since graduating.

The nominating committee then made the following report:

President for the ensuing year—Mary Stewart Labat.

First Vice-President—May Mellish Harris.

Corresponding Secretary—Grace Edwards.

The secretary was instructed to cast the ballot; the ballot was cast and the above named officers were declared elected.

In accordance with instructions of the previous meeting, the retiring president appointed Mrs. Howard Hodgkins as the new member on the Editorial Committee.

There being no further business before the Association, Miss Walker moved, and it was seconded, that the meeting be adjourned. It was so ordered and the members present spent a most enjoyable afternoon at M. V. S.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN K. MYERS,

Recording Secretary.

EVENTS OF THE SCHOOL YEAR

The events of the school year have been so well recorded in The Roll Call that it seems necessary to note here only the few which have not been so fully given, and those that are especially concerned with the class life of the Seniors.

Our new Chapel and its beautiful Skinner organ have brought about a change in the music of our Sunday afternoon service. Mr. Adolf Torovsky, organist and choir-master of the Church of the Epiphany, has had entire charge of the music for these services, and for special services throughout the year. He has organized and directed an excellent choir of twenty-six voices which has accomplished quite wonderful results with one weekly rehearsal. The afternoon service has been beautiful and devotional, and it is hoped that all resident old pupils and friends of the school will come often to enjoy these services on Sunday afternoons at half past four o'clock.

Many of the well-known clergymen of Washington have given addresses at these services, among them are: Dr. Pierce, of All Souls Unitarian Church; Dr. Abernethy, of Calvary, Baptist; Dr. Harris, of Foundry, Methodist; Dr. Wood, of the Church of the Covenant; Dr. Sizoo, of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church; Dr. Johnston, of St. John's, and Dr. C. Ernest Smith, of St. Thomas. Addresses were, also, given by Bishop McDowell, of the Methodist Church, and by Deaconess Phelps.

Many enjoyable and instructive lectures have been heard, among them—"The School for Scandal," by Walter Pritchard Eaton, "Modern Art," by Katherine Dreir, "Near East Colleges," by Mrs. Gertrude Knox Wells, "Stars," by Professor B. F. Baumgardt.

Delightful musical programs have been given by the music department, both teachers and pupils, and several concerts by Washington artists have been especially enjoyed. The National String Quartette, which for several years has added so much to the beauty of our Commencement programs gave a beautiful recital in January, and later in the same month, Isaac Minovitch, the talented boy-pupil of Mr. Josef Kaspar, gave a delightful program of violin music. Dr. William Hammond has come twice from Mt. Holyoke to give us recitals on the new organ, and Frances Nash, one of our own girls, now a professional pianist of note, came in February and gave a wonderfully fine recital. Frances, while in school, played so delightfully that we have never forgotten, and since she has perfected her art, her playing is satisfying and delightful, with a brilliant technique, and unusual beauty of interpretation that places her among the foremost concert players. In spite of her successful career, we were glad to find Frances unchanged in her devotion to her school, and the friends of her school days, both teachers and fellow-students, and she has promised to play for us soon again.

Many interesting plays have been given throughout the year. The Senior Class began the season, on December 6, with Barrie's charming "Alice Sit by the Fire." This they presented with great success, the cast being as follows:

Persons in the Play

Amy	ELIZABETH BENNETT
Cosmo	CAROLINE SWEENEY
Genevra	FLORENCE BIRCH
Nurse	ELEANOR HAYDEN
Maid	BLANCHE DAGGETT
Col. Gray	ANNE YOUNG
Alice Gray	RENATE ZIMMERS
Stephen Rollo	ALICE CAMPBELL
Maid	ELIZABETH DAVISON

ACT I. Living Room of Amy's Home, afternoon.

ACT II. Stephen Rollo's Apartment, evening of the same day.

ACT III. Same as Act I, midnight.

The Christmas play, on December 15, was a musical setting of the Story of the Nativity. It was given in the Chapel—there was no stage setting except the beautiful chancel with its Christmas wreaths and garlands, and outside through the great window could be seen a great electric star glowing through the branches of the trees. The characters of the play, Joseph and Mary, the Keeper of the Inn, Shepherds, and Children of the village came and went through the entrances at either side of the chancel. A chorus of angels, standing beneath the great window, made an exquisite picture in the deep beautiful coloring of the Fra Angelico paintings. The three Wise Men with their attendants came from the front entrance, walking down the middle aisle through the audience.

The story of the play was given from the pulpit by a reader clad in a monk's robes and cowl, and his story was taken up from time to time by solo voices, and the angel chorus. The music was beautifully rendered under the direction of Mrs. Payne with Mrs. Rickett at the organ. The play was followed by the usual distribution of gifts from the beautiful Christmas tree under the personal direction of Santa Claus, himself, greatly to the delight of the many children present, all of them belonging to various members of the household staff of servants.

On March 6, the White Class presented two one-act plays, "The Beau of Bath," by Courtney Mackay, and "Joint Owners in Spain," by Alice Brown.

On March 13, two amusing little French plays were given by the pupils of Mlle. Toureille, "Maitre Pathelin," and "La Farce de Cuvier."

On March 20, the Yellow Class presented, "Where but in America," by Oscar Wolff, and "The Slave with Two Faces," by Mary Davies.

Many other entertainments were given during the year—The Hallowe'en party, the Valentine Fancy Dress Dance, and the usual Ingenuity Contests, between the Seniors and Juniors, in which the Seniors were successful. There were also several benefit performances for the Chapel Fund, the largest of these being the Card Party given by the Alumnae Association, at the school, on April 10.

Founder's Day was celebrated on November 5. It began as usual with the business meeting of the M. V. S. Society, Helen Myers in the chair.

At its conclusion, Miss Cole presided at the presentation of the Anne Seymour Ames Bell and Dedication of the Adelia Gates Hensley Organ. The bell, a gift from Miss Ames' many personal friends, was presented by Miss Ann Saunders Klotz, and the dedication of the organ was offered by Dr. Pierce. This was followed by the singing of the Dedication Hymn, and an organ recital by Dr. William Churchill Hammond, of Mt. Holyoke.

At the conclusion of this program, everyone repaired to the dining hall where on a table decked with yellow and white chrysanthemums, and ringed about with fifty-one candles, in three tiers of marvelous white and yellow icing in alluring, decorative designs, stood Mount Vernon's Birthday Cake. After the ceremony of the candles, the beautiful cake was soon demolished under the skillful carving of Zimmer, who had baked and decorated it.

The School Clubs have had a fine record for the year—Optima has numbered twenty-three members, twelve of whom were Seniors including all officers: President, Elizabeth Davison; Vice-President, Florence Birch; Secretary, Elizabeth Bennett, and Treasurer, Renate Zimmers.

The French Club had sixteen members, three of whom were Seniors, two of them holding office, Florence Birch, as President, and Eleanore Haigh, Vice-President.

The Choral Club, known this year as "The Treble Cleff Club," had thirty-four members, only four of these were Seniors, including the President, Eleanor Marsh, but as eight of the Choir were Seniors, this does not imply a lack of musical activity in the Senior Class.

The Walking Club had twenty members, four of them Seniors and a Senior President, Pauline Gaut.

The achievements of the Athletic Association, Eleanor Hayden, President, have been so many and so varied, and are so fully recorded in the Cupola that instead of recording them here, we print the following article on School Athletics, by Mary Cunningham, who has won the athletic medal, the past two years, for greatest proficiency in sports. It will give the readers of the ANNUAL a clear understanding of the important place of Athletics in M. V. S. today—

“The present system by which the Athletic department has been run for the past three years was installed, mainly, by Miss Frances Davis, the head of that department. To her, we students, owe three years of splendid training and happiness in this part of our school life.

“We are, very fortunately, offered the following sports: horseback riding, swimming, archery, baseball, basket-ball, tennis, and golf. When we are not too pressed for time hockey and track are enjoyed, too. There is, also, organized each year, a Walking Club, which affords great pleasure to those girls not especially inclined towards exercise of a more strenuous type.

“Each March, an exciting swimming meet is held. In May, an inter-class golf tournament goes on, while double and single tennis tournaments are being held at the same time. Thanksgiving morning, the Championship inter-class basket-ball game is played; and some time in March, for the last two years, we have been able to play, also, one varsity game. Due to Miss Davis' excellent coaching, M. V. S. has triumphed over her opponents, the Friends' School, and the Madeira School, both years.

“Cups are given to the winners of the singles and doubles tennis tournaments, the golf tournament, and to the girl who has shown the most progress in swimming during the season. Swimming chevrons are given the girls who made their class teams, and numerals to those who made their class basket-ball teams. The varsity basket-ball girls receive small gold basket balls. Miss Stuart, our able swimming instructor, made it possible for about twenty-five girls to pass their National Red Cross Life Saving tests, last year.

“There is an Athletic medal, also, to be presented at the end of each year, to the girl receiving the greatest amount of stars in all sports. As a girl perfects a stroke, for example, in swimming, she receives a yellow star for it. As she perfects a stroke in tennis, she receives one for that, and so on. When she has received yellow stars for each division under one sport, she is given a gold star in that sport.

"An Athletic banner is awarded to the class with the greatest number of points at the end of the year. Points are given to the class of which any member has won a tournament, or won in any meet, or holds the highest average, or has won any athletic medal. Class spirit is thus thoroughly awakened to increasing work toward these goals and, although there is a great deal of rivalry, two hours each day are spent most enjoyably by every member of M. V. S."

On "Senior Day," April 30, class work was suspended, and Faculty and Students met in the Gymnasium to hear the Seniors read their essays, a series of papers on "Some Aspects of the Effect of the French Revolution on English History and Literature."

Eight of the essays were read and the ninth, "Shelley and the Revolution," by the Class President, Eleanore Haigh, was read on School Day, May 21. The program was as follows:

1. The Significance of the French Revolution
Mary Louise Gaut
2. Wordsworth, Poetic Interpreter . . . Helen Raynor
3. England, Contemporaneous with the Revolution
Anne Young
4. Charles James Fox, Statesman and Advocate
Renate Zimmers
5. William Pitt, Statesman and Opponent . Alice Campbell
6. William Godwin, Philosophical Advocate
Eleanor Hayden
7. Mary Wollstancraft, Radical and Advocate
Elizabeth Bennett
8. Shelley, its last exponent Pauline Gaut
9. Shelley and the Revolution Eleanore Haigh

On the evening of Thursday, May 6, the Junior Class entertained the Seniors at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. Tables in the form of a square were laid in the Great Hall and were beautifully decorated in Ward roses and delphinium. A delicious menu was served and there was a clever program of toasts.

The very interesting number of the Roll Call of last November (we hope all our readers are subscribers) was edited by one of our Alumnae Association, Mary Isabel Potter, '85. Miss Potter, was a very welcome guest at the school for the month of October while at work on the Roll Call. She proved herself not only an experienced and able editor, but also a most delightful guest who fitted into our school-life as easily as if she had stepped back again into her own school days—to quote from her article in the Roll Call: “When I arrived to be at home in the guest room for four weeks I found it hard to settle down to the typewriter because a true school girl thrill was upon me. Most editors are garrulous on the subject of their hobbies, mine is ‘the Old, the New, the Greater M. V. S.’ and I could fill many columns in its praise.”

We hope that the rumor is true that Miss Potter is coming to Washington next winter. M. V. S. is eager to welcome her and hopes to see much of her, next year.

The Cupola Staff for the past year was an especially able one, including six Seniors, Alice Campbell, Editor-in-Chief; Florence Birch, Advertising Manager; Caroline Sweeney, Business Manager; Elizabeth Bennett, Assistant Athletic Editor; Mary Louise Gaut, Dramatic Editor, and Helen Raynor, Photographic Editor. Faculty advisers were Miss Barber, Miss Carpenter, and Miss Churchyard.

The following article by Alice Campbell, '26, will tell our Alumnae something of the work and aims of this newest of our school publications.

“To those members of the Alumnae whose school days date back no further than four years ago, the Cupola is a familiar memory, but to the majority of those who graduated before 1922 it is, I believe, unknown. The Cupola, which is Mount Vernon's year book, originated four years ago with a small group of interested and enthusiastic students. The idea of the book was conceived, the material gathered and printed, and the finished copies distributed all in the space of six weeks.

"The work thus efficiently begun has prospered, and the Cupola has come to fill a very important place in the life of M. V. S. It answers the need that every school has for a record of the year's events; a record made and compiled by the students, themselves, for their own satisfaction—one which proves a pleasure as well as an education in the doing.

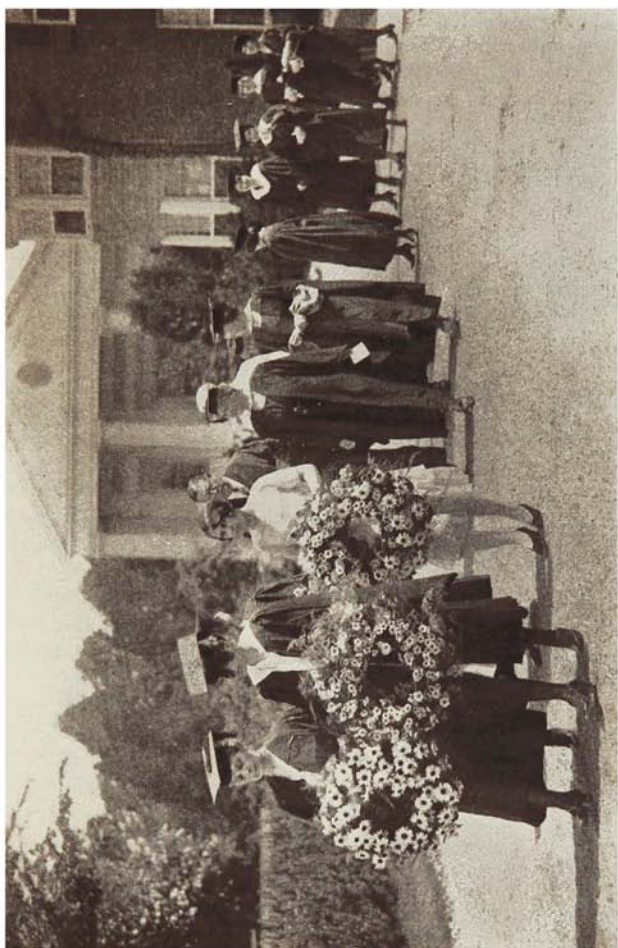

"It has been the chief aim of the 1926 staff to create a real interest in the book among the entire student body. In order to further this idea, a short story contest was instituted and every opportunity was taken to gain contributions, either literary, artistic, or executive, from each member of the school. Material for publication was selected with a view to maintaining a definite standard which aspires to make the Cupola clever, interesting, and reflective of the year's activities without being cheap, as many student publications are apt to become.

"The financial condition of the Cupola has at last ceased to be a source of worry. For the past two years, there has been a large surplus remaining and, in case troublesome times do come, there will be sufficient capital to tide over without raising the price of the book, which has been greatly reduced this year.

"Having been a member of the Cupola staff for two years, I have watched its development closely and, while it is far from perfection, it has advanced remarkably during the short period of its publication. We, who have been connected with it, have great hopes for its future and look forward to the day when the Cupola will take its place among the achievements of M. V. S."

COMMENCEMENT WEEK—

On Friday, May 21, "School Day" began the program of closing exercises of the school year. An interesting program was given, representing the year's work in the various departments of the school. This included one of the Senior Essays, not read on Senior Day, "Shelley and the French Revolution," by Eleanore Haigh, and two other numbers by Seniors—Reading by Eleanor Hayden—"A Game of Billiards," by Daudet, and a song by Eleanor Marsh, "I Can Sing You a Song of Springtime," by Fay Foster. The program concluded with the reading of the school records for the year, the awarding of Athletic Honors and the announcement of the winning of Flag Honor for the year by the Senior Class.

In the afternoon, in the Studio, the work of the Art classes was on exhibition, a display of great interest including drawings and sketches in color, designs for Interior Decoration, etc.

In the evening at 8:30 o'clock, a Student Recital was given in Great Hall. Five of the numbers were given by members of the Senior Class: Pauline Gaut played a Nocturne, by Brahms, and Esther Myers played the Prize Song from Die Meistersinger—Wagner-Wilhelmj. Eleanor Marsh sang "What's in the Air Today," by Eden, "The Rose Enslaves the Nightingale," by Rimsky-Korsakoff, "Lullaby," by Cyril Scott, "La Colomba," by Schindler, and "The Time for Making Songs Has Come," by Rogers. On Saturday, May 22, the Alumnae Reunion took place, an interesting business meeting, in the Gymnasium, followed by luncheon, and at 3 o'clock, an Organ Recital, in the Chapel, by Dr. William Hammond, of Mt. Holyoke. The program was as follows:

After the service, the guests of the Seniors remained to supper and the evening program of Class Songs, in the Great Hall.

On Monday evening, May 24, the School Play was presented—"Molière," by Philip Moeller. The play was very well given and was unusually beautiful in costumes and setting. The first represented Molière's study, in his theater, in Paris, a handsome apartment hung in green brocade with furniture covered in rich deep red. A large writing table occupied the center of the stage before a great window. Across one corner of the room, a curtain was hung before a small stage where actors from the theater came to give scenes from the play. The royal arms of Louis XIV were in evidence on the hangings and the two large tapestries on the walls. The second act revealed the apartment of Madame de Montespan, and was done in ivory with panels and hangings of rose color.

The cast is given below, members of the Senior Class being starred:

On Tuesday, May 25, at 11 o'clock, Senior Class exercises took place in the Gymnasium. It is always a matter of regret that lack of space prevents a full account of this program. It would be interesting to preserve in the pages of the Annual a complete account of each Senior Day, with its Class History, Lamentation, Statistics, Prophecy, and Last Will and Testament. The Class History, this year, was given by Eleanore Haigh, beginning with "Fag Week," of its Junior year, she recounted the experiences and achievements of the class until its final appearance as the graduating Class of 1926. During the reading, the class gave many of the clever songs of both Junior and Senior years.

The Class Lamentation, by Elizabeth Bennett, was ingeniously composed on the lines of "Backward, Turn Backward, O Time in Thy Flight," and it recalled the familiar routine of school-life enlivened by the many exploits and achievements of the Senior year, ending with—

"Backward, O time, I repeat and repeat

Though I know all the while that those school days so sweet

Have been closed to me now for many a year,
The School, and the Chapel, and all I hold dear,
That I'll never again be a school girl, no never
Is my one lamentation forever and ever!"

The Class Statistics, also in rhyme, were given by Alice Campbell, and began

"There is something very serious
About this talk of mine,
And yet, as all of you must know,
Humor is my line.
Before I sat me down to write
A jingle that's statistic
I took a vote of '26
To make my points all realistic."

She then went on to find that "out of all the Class, Miss Bennett is the Beauty," and "poise and intellectuality are qualities of Florence Birch." While Blanche Daggett is the "most fastidious." Lack of space forbids following throughout the line, but it ended with Renate Zimmers—

"We feel she stands convicted
Of being the most charming one
In all our famous class,
And now with her, we end this rhyme
As you agree—it is high time!"

The Class Prophecy by Caroline Sweeney began with an original touch, when with great ceremony, a crystal bowl was produced, and the Prophetess, gazing within, described the future of her classmates as she saw it revealed. Dorothy Koenig was about to address an eager crowded audience on the subject of "Vandalism," Blanche Daggett had become the President of the World's "Lend a Hand" society, Caroline Sweeney and Alice Campbell had "got them to a nunnery," joining the order a short two years after their graduation. Florence Woodard had distinguished herself as an interior decorator, and three of the number had found fame as musicians: Pauline Gaut, as a rival to Paderewski, Eleanor Marsh as a great Prima Donna, and Elizabeth Davison, as a harpist. Eleanor Hayden had become an actress of note. Two others had found rather original careers, Anne Young as a manufacturer of lavender dyes, and Renate Zimmer as a lawyer, but having "such an alert mind" that she manufactures, as a side issue, the famous "lorgnettes for stylish women." We have not space to follow the entire class. Most of the others were married, and the only matrimonial venture that seemed unusually exciting was that of Catherine De Armond who, as the wife of an officer, was achieving great renown for the wonderful things she was doing for West Point.

The Last Will and Testament, by Florence Birch, caused great amusement, as many bequests were not only mentioned, but presented in bulk to various surprised members of the audience, one member of the Faculty receiving a large reading lamp.

Several musical numbers were included in the Senior Day program: Pauline Gaut sang "If I But Knew," by Wilson Smith, and later played "Temple Bells at Sunset," by Repper. Esther Myers played the "Sea Cave," by Barnes, and Eleanor Marsh sang "What's in the Air Today," by Eden. Another number on the program was a group of compositions for the Harp played by Elizabeth Davison: "Clouds," "Sunset on the Lake," and "Lazy Lane," by Haberg.

At the conclusion of the program, Eleanore Haigh presented to Miss Cole, for the school, a very beautiful School Banner, as a gift from the Class of 1926. Miss Cole replied with a beautiful tribute to the Class and its wonderful record.

The program was brought to an end with the abdication of the Senior Seats, which were taken by the Juniors, the Class of 1927, led by their President, Genevieve Stuart.

On the evening of May 25, at 8:30 o'clock, The Choral Club, under its new name, "The Treble Cleff Club," gave a very delightful concert under the direction of Mrs. Payne with Miss Chickering at the piano. Several members of the Senior Class took part in the program: Pauline Gaut sang "I Send My Heart Up to Thee," by Gena Brauscome, and was one of a trio who sang "Little Blue Bird," by Grey; and Eleanor Marsh sang "The Spirit Flower," by Campbell-Tipton.

On Wednesday, May 26, at 10:30, Graduation Exercises began with the beautiful and impressive ceremony of placing memorial wreaths on the Adelia Gates Hensley Gateway, and at the Elizabeth Somers Chapel Entrance. The procession was headed by Miss Cole with the Rev. Dr. Stone, the speaker of the day, and Rev. Dr. C. Ernest Smith, who assisted in the service. They were followed by the Faculty, and the graduates in cap and gown. Behind them came the student body and guests. The procession passed out of the main entrance and down to the gateway, then across to the Chapel. They entered to the strains of Elgar's beautiful march "Pomp and Circumstance," played on the organ by Mr. Torovsky. After the singing of the Doxology, the National String Quartette of Washington played "Agnus Dei," by Bizet. Then followed a prayer by the Rev. C. Ernest Smith, Rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Church. This was followed by Handel's Largo played by the Quartette and organ.

The address was delivered by Rev. John Timothy Stone, D. D., of Chicago, well known as a Presbyterian clergyman and also as lecturer and author. The address was an earnest exhortation to the class to put its best efforts into the great opportunities of the day, the theme being "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." The address was followed by two beautiful numbers by the Quartette, "Album Leaf" and "Canon," both by Greig.

The diplomas were then presented to the class by Miss Cole assisted by Miss Messenger.

After the Benediction, pronounced by Dr. Stone, Faculty, graduates, and school marched out of the Chapel to the music of Miss Ball's Grand Jubilee March played by the Quartette with Miss Ball at the piano.

The Class of 1926 is a welcome and valued addition to our Alumnae Association and what it has meant to the school is expressed by Miss Cole in the following tribute to the Class of 1926.

"The faculty and administration wish publicly to express their appreciation of the unusually high record and the distinguished achievement of the fifty-first graduating class of the school. This Class has the honor of being the only one to win the Flag Honor for the year in their Junior Year and the only class to hold it every month of the Senior Year. No little credit for this unusual record is due to the able leadership of their president, Eleanore Haigh. She was gifted with vision, with courage, with unusual powers of expression and with such nobility of character that she not only led her class but the entire student body. Happy any Head Mistress with such a President of the Senior Class and the Student Council."

THE ELIZABETH SOMERS

(Editor's Note.)—The following article, quoted from the Capital Outlook, a Y. W. C. A. publication, was written by two of the Y. W. C. A. girls now living at the "Elizabeth Somers," our well remembered and beloved "1100 M." When Mrs. Somers sold the old school to the Y. W. C. A., it was with the earnest wish that the buildings might continue as a happy home for girls. Her wish seems to have come true for not one of her own girls could have felt and expressed more perfectly the spirit and influence of Elizabeth Somers.

"Why call it 'The Elizabeth Somers'?" is a question frequently asked by the visitor who happens to enter this old dwelling house, typical of Washington architecture of the last century, but at present remodeled and adapted to fit the needs and contribute to the comfort of the one-hundred-fifty girls who find within it a home—and which at present constitutes the residence portion of the Young Women's Christian Association in the nation's capital.

But how simple the answer! The very atmosphere radiates the personality of Elizabeth Somers, because it was that wonderful woman who created there fifty years ago a center of learning and refinement for the splendid young women of our country. Today, the marks of the influence of Mt. Vernon Seminary and Mrs. Somers, its founder, may be traced in the lives of many of the cultured women in every one of our United States. And as a memorial the alumnae of Mt. Vernon Seminary, at their reunion in celebration of its "golden jubilee" during the summer of 1925, hung a portrait of Mrs. Somers in the Music Room where all may see her as they knew her. Isn't it fitting for those of us who were not permitted to enjoy the benefit of this great personality directly, to thus honor that gracious lady in this humble manner?

The time came when this house no longer had the capacity to accommodate those young girls eager to enter and receive their training under the guidance of Mrs. Somers; and it was the good fortune of the young women who crowded the homes of Washington during the war to find available for their needs this house which was being vacated for larger and newer quarters. But they were doubly fortunate in finding the house just as she left it—not with the conventional arrangements and furnishings which modern standards have adopted as most convenient for the young woman in business or profession, but with the same pictures adorning the walls still in their original places; the same collection of pottery, works of art and exquisite furnishings—especially in the music room, library and ball room. Besides those things, all unconsciously she left an atmosphere of refinement which still clings to the place and which the business girls living there now do not fail to appreciate.

It is proper for us to emphasize the word "home" when we speak of the comforts of The Elizabeth Somers, because there is no privilege which a girl may enjoy in her own home that is not graciously extended to her there. Every possible thought is given to providing for her good health and welfare; there is always to be found good companionship; and the social and religious sides of her life are foremost in the minds of the secretaries. And for those who are traveling and seek the protection and comfort which they are sure to find in any organization under the direction of the Y. W. C. A., they are given advantage of every available convenience; and they are welcomed heartily, as is manifested by the motto on its walls:

"Benediction"

May' every one who comes in this house be Stronger, Richer, Better, Happier the longer

He remain.

Counting life more worth the Living.

Friendship more than worth the Giving.

Then again

Remembering gladly how he dwelt here.

Treasuring what he Thought and Felt here.

When he parts,

May he leave Sweet Thoughts behind him

Memories, that e'er will bind him

PAULINE MYERS AND LODUTH LARAW.

The Faculty

Changes necessarily invade the ranks of the staff. Although girls who graduated in 1905 or earlier will still recognize Miss Brouse, Miss Hill, Miss Walker, Miss Guard, Miss Edwards, Mrs. Payne and Miss Cole. A larger group will be familiar to those who have graduated since 1910—Mme. Peltier, Miss Trippett, Miss Hopkins, Mrs. McAllister, Miss Martin, Miss Carroll, while the rest must be classed as comparatively new.

Our Academic Head, Miss Messenger, has completed her second year and already made an indelible impression upon the scholastic life of the school. Miss Messenger received her earlier college education at the University of London, taking her Bachelor's and Master's degrees at Columbia University. She achieved her early success in the teaching of Latin but has made an exhaustive study of Psychology and modern methods of education, so that she brought to her task at M. V. S. constructive scholarship and educational vision that we have been very grateful to receive.

Miss Cook's mantle fell upon Margaret Barber, A.B., Vassar, whose outstanding executive qualities were so marked, that they deprived us of a fine mathematics teacher to give Miss Cook an assistant. Catherine S. Blakeslee, A.B., Mount Holyoke College, has graduated from being Miss Cole's private secretary to the office of Registrar which she fills most successfully. She remains through the summer in charge of the correspondence and registration.

The English department is particularly happy in the leadership of two gifted teachers. Scholars and artists in their chosen branch, Constance Churchyard, a graduate of Smith and a graduate student at Oxford University, England, and Beulah Carpenter, whose study at Syracuse University has been greatly enriched by constant foreign study and travel.

Our Music department has never been so strong as it is. Nothing more need be said of the Vocal department than that Mrs. Payne still is its head and wins constant praise for us for our superior vocal work. Mrs. Alys M. Rickett, a pupil of Viggo Kihl and of Healy Willan of London, and Miss Frances de Villa Ball, a pupil of Leschetitsky and Herr Labor of Vienna have brought our piano department real distinction. Edythe Brosius, a pupil of Caroso Salzedo, and Elsa Raner, a pupil of Leopold Auer, have proved inspiring teachers of the harp and violin respectively. Adolf Torovsky, a graduate of Peabody Conservatory of Music and organist of the Church of the Epiphany, presides at the organ on Sundays and trains the Choir.

For several years our physical work has been growing tremendously under the direction of Frances Davis, ably assisted by Miss Stuart. Unhappily for us Miss Davis has resigned from teaching to devote herself exclusively to her camp. We are looking forward with pleasure, however, to the coming of Louise Wallace, a graduate of the Sargent School and for five years in charge of the physical work at Havergal College. She will be assisted by Miss Blanche McAuley, a graduate of Dr. Arnold's College, New Haven, and assistant in the physical department at Winthrop College.

Miss Walker's colleague in the History department next year will be Dora Faulkner of Dalhousie University, an English woman of ripe scholarship and successful experience in teaching.

For the past two years Mildred Hanna, A. B. and M. A. of Stanford University, has met with gratifying success in the Department of Latin, Miss Maude Frances of the Curry School of Expression also a student at Emerson and Harvard Colleges, has maintained the high standard in the Expression department, and Miss Elizabeth Hillyar, a student of Fine Arts at Columbia University in the Art department. Marian Kleps, A. B. Bryn Mawr, also graduate work at Bryn Mawr and the University of London, has presided over the Mathematics department, and Rebekah Elting, a graduate of Vassar and a student at Wood's Hole Biological Laboratory, the Science. The growth of interest in Science has necessitated the enlarging of our science room and its re-equipment with the Lincoln type of laboratory desk. Spanish and German are now taught by Margaret Slauson, A.B., Smith College and graduate student at Columbia College, La Residencia de Estudiantes, Madrid, and the American School for Classical Study at Rome.

The French department retains its unchallenged record under Mme. Peltier who will next year have as her colleague Mlle. Moulé.

Our delightful home is under the supervision of Mrs. Murphey who began her work in the last year of the old school, while the traditionally good table has been for the last year under the care of Mrs. Bayliss.

And so the work is being carried on with ripe scholarship and progressive methods but with the same spirit of cordial relationship between faculty and students.

Recognition by the Universities

Each year a certain number of the graduates of Mount Vernon Seminary go on to the universities to take their degree. It is most gratifying to note that nearly all the important universities are willing to give advanced standing to those who have completed the Collegiate Course. The amount of credit given varies with the type of work done and the university, and, as a rule, no credit is given until after the satisfactory completion of a semester's work.

The University of Wisconsin usually gives sufficient advanced standing for a student to take her degree in two years and a summer session. The University of California last year gave a full two years credit to one student and a year and two-thirds to another, the University of Southern California a year and a half, Leland Stanford about a year. This spring, Mills College and the University of Minneapolis have consented to the same arrangement. In each case, however, the privilege accorded is dependent upon the good work of the students accepted, and would undoubtedly be withdrawn if many failed to show earnestness or ability to do good work. It is, therefore, with the keenest interest and eagerness that the Faculty follow the progress of their graduates in the larger field of the university, knowing that whenever they succeed they make the way easier for those who may wish to follow.

The Chevron

The order of the Chevron instituted in 1919 has proved very helpful in raising student morale. The chevron is awarded twice a year as a badge of citizenship. The first award in March is an honor award, while the second at the end of the school year is equivalent to an invitation to return, for all old girls must wear the chevron.

The requirements are simple and easily met by any student who really cares for the privilege of attending the school. A girl to be adjudged worthy to receive the M. V. S. chevron,

- A. Should exhibit a desire to observe the school regulations even though sometimes she may fail to meet them.
- B. Should manifest a feeling of loyalty to the school, its standards, traditions and customs:
 1. this means, primarily, uprightness.
 - a. truthfulness in word and deed.
 - b. honesty in classroom work.
 - c. appreciation by the student of the fact that she is on her honor.
 - (1) with regard to all school regulations,
 - (2) with regard to all permissions.
 2. this means a desire to grow in all the womanly graces—courtesy and gentleness of manner and of speech,—this excludes
 - (1) the use of profanity,
 - (2) chronic grumbling.

Method of Selection.

- A. All girls who shall receive not more than five negative votes from the girls already wearing the chevron, shall become candidates for the honor.

- B. All candidates receiving not more than two negative votes from the members of the Faculty shall be recommended to the Headmistresses for the honor.
- C. All candidates thus recommended who receive the unqualified approval of the Headmistresses shall receive the chevron.

The student body themselves this year asked for a new feature which has received faculty approval. It occasionally happens that a girl who has won the chevron does not maintain the standard of citizenship required of the new girls although she does nothing to merit suspension. The student body felt that if a girl showed a tendency unworthy of the chevron she should be warned by the Student Council and, if that failed, she should have her chevron veiled until she should have again proved herself worthy of the honor.

The active cooperation of the Student body in this institution is but one of many signs of their high morale and fine womanhood.

IN MEMORIAM

DORIS JENKINS JAMIESON

Died July 28, 1926.

It is with the deepest regret that the Class of 1923 records the untimely death of Doris Jenkins Jamieson. She was always a loved and valued member of our class, and her death came as a great shock and sorrow to all who knew her. She has now truly gone "upward and onward." To her parents and husband we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

PERSONALS

A cable from Miss Cole, dated July 11, states "Safe arrival, delightful voyage, rested." A long intent is at last realized. Miss Cole's stay in the Emerald Isle will be determined by her liking of it, now she is there.

Practically half of the Faculty is abroad this summer. Of course, Mme. Peltier returned to Paris. Miss Messenger and Miss Carpenter are in Europe. Mrs. Rickett sailed for England soon after school closed on the same boat with Miss Hanna and Miss Slauson, who are going over to study and travel.

Miss Hillyar is in charge of the school party traveling abroad. Three members of the Senior Class are with her, Eleanore Haigh, Caroline Sweeney and Helen Raynor.

Miss Fletcher and Miss Colgan are again at their camp in the Adirondacks situated at Saranac Lake. They are within thirteen miles of the camp of President Coolidge on Lake Osgood. Miss Fletcher writes: "I think we shall feel as though we were back in Washington when he comes up and the White House cars and motorcycles dash along the roads."

Miss Brouse and Miss Trippett visited Mr. and Mrs. Kaspar at their summer home near Bluemont, Virginia, during June and July.

Miss Katherine Hill was absent from the office for several weeks due to a severe attack of grippe and bronchitis. Miss Hill is spending the summer at Mt. Tabor, N. J., where she has taken a cottage. Miss Klotz is also at Mt. Tabor.

Miss Alice E. Edwards is planning to visit Mrs. Edith Cooke Durant, and later Mrs. Grace Wright Capen. She and Anna Hassellmann are looking forward to a month's enjoyment with their paint brushes and palettes at Marblehead, Mass. In addition to all her other activities, Miss Edwards has assumed the duties of Director of Music of the Children's Department of the Sunday School of the Church of the Covenant, the church where, it will be remembered, our beloved Mrs. Somers attended.

White roses from the M. V. S. gardens were sent to the Church of the Covenant on June 5 in memory of Mrs. Somers. They are sent every year on the Sunday nearest the date of her passing.

On Miss Cole's return, Miss Guard is planning to find a "spot in the 4,500-ft. high mountains of Southern Virginia."

Miss Ames writes that she and Miss Morgan are having a delightful time at Chautauqua this summer.

Can it be that there is some strange influence lingering about the Business Department of M. V. S.? Miss Cook left us last year to become Mrs. Durand, and now Miss Schmitthenner has announced her engagement to Dr. Charles Mantel, her wedding to take place in the fall.

Miss Maude Francis gave an interesting course of talks at the Wardman Park Theater last winter. Her subject was "The Art of the One-Act Play," analyzed and discussed in the reading of two plays, "A Marriage Has Been Arranged," by Sutro, and "The Finger of God," by Percival Wild. Miss Francis was assisted by Mr. Patrick Gallagher, chairman of the Drama Section of the Women's City Club, Mr. Dennis Connell of the Arts Club Players, and Mr. Mortimer Morehouse of the Shakespeare Society.

Miss Grace Warren, a loved and valued member of our Faculty, was married to Mr. Edward Pease Sturge on June 5 at four o'clock at the Friends Meeting House, Purchase, New York. She will live in England, where her address will be 2 Gayton Crescent, Hampstead, N.W. 3, London.

Miss Jane Clark, daughter of Mrs. John C. Clark (Addie Burr), spent a part of the winter in Washington. Miss Clark is secretary of the International Migration Society.

Mrs. Buehler (Roberta Wolf) and her daughter

Barbara went to Europe this past winter and are still abroad.

Phila Calder Nye spent a few days in town the last of June as the guest of Elsie Edwards. Mrs. Nye was on her way to North Carolina to visit her aunt, Mrs. Calder, at Wrightsville, near Wilmington.

We have come to the conclusion that Italy is "the home of the soul" to Mrs. MacAllister, for she again sailed for its sunny shores, accompanied by her brother, Mr. Guard. Marguerite MacAllister Taneyhill, wife of Dr. Taneyhill, makes her home in Baltimore.

We note with pleasure that Colonel and Mrs. Francis H. Pope (Blanche Wilson Hampson) have returned to Washington from Fort Hayes, Ohio, not just on one of those flying visits Army folks make, but to be stationed here.

Mrs. J. Barrett Carter (Mabel Walker) enjoyed a visit last fall from her sister, Mrs. Francis L. Hayes (Cora Walker) of Oak Park, Ill. Mabel is a charming hostess and numerous M. V. S. girls have enjoyed her luncheons and bridge parties. The old friends of Mrs. Hayes will be very sorry to learn of the death of her husband on April 2, 1926.

Mrs. Henry Fenno Sawtelle (Marian Trimble) has just moved into her lovely new home at the corner of Connecticut Avenue and Bradley Lane, opposite the Chevy Chase Club. Major Sawtelle is detailed at Walter Reed Hospital at present. Elizabeth Sawtelle, who is well remembered at M. V. S., where she was a student, anticipates a happy summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Fairfax, who left Wardman Park Hotel early in June, spent two weeks in Boston, and are now at Bass Rocks, Mass., for a stay of three months. They had their son, Mr. Wilbur Bowen Fairfax, and Miss Helen Hart of Montreal, as their guests for the month of July.

Ora Joe Hemphill spent the past winter and spring at the Highlands. We catch glimpses of her, either driving or walking, always accompanying her father, to whom she is very devoted. Admiral Hemphill has been quite ill, but is much better now.

Blanche Polkinhorn spent three months in Europe last summer, completing her stay with two weeks in London, where she was most enthusiastic over three interesting events which happened there. She had the great pleasure of meeting the wonderful English pianist-teacher-composer, Mr. Tobias Matthay, and in being presented with his autographed photograph. Mr. Matthay has revolutionized the principles of piano technique, and has given to the musical world a clear and understanding knowledge of the laws of musical interpretation. She also had several interviews and lessons with York Bowen who is the greatest pianist, representative of the Matthay principles, in the British Isles. Another delightful feature in London musical life, were three evenings spent with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Read in their charming studio-residence in Clarence Gate Gardens, the latter being the author of many well-known books on music and music teaching.

Mrs. Roscoe C. Gwilliam (Ruth Wattis) had an interesting time last winter in California studying French and sculpture.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Menke (Mary Kingsbury) who were married January 2, 1926, spent five months in Sydney, Australia, where Mr. Menke had charge of the Sunday edition of one of the Sydney newspapers.

Mrs. Kenneth Wilson (Dorothy Davidson), 1917, has recently appeared successfully as leading lady in "Mary the Third" given at the Community Playhouse, Omaha, Nebraska.

Mrs. Fred J. Petty (Margaret Ball), 1918, was an exhibitor at a Chicago exhibition of paintings during the past winter.

Mrs. S. Davidson Herron (Louise Johnston), 1918, visited the school in January. We were delighted to see her.

Mrs. Charles L. Doughty (Helen Yeatman), 1918, with her baby girls spent the spring in Washington with her mother, Mrs. Fanny Walker Yeatman and her aunt, Harriet Belle Walker. The older child, Frances Harriet, is well known to this year's Psychology Classes, her responses, bodily and mental, have formed the center of much discussion in child study. Frances Harriet accepted Miss Cole's invitation to attend the Alumnae luncheon and, undismayed by the size of the party, wandered happily around between courses. She enjoyed especially the songs and the flower parade which gave such an unexpected and charming picture at the close. Cornelia Anne, six months old, is the namesake of Cornelia Morgan and Anne Ames, of the Class of '81. She is a serene type with big black eyes and well-shaped head covered with silky dark hair—quite a contrast to her blonde and very alert sister. Mr. Doughty joined his family in May and after a visit of three weeks, took them back to their home on Lookout Mountain. Miss Walker will spend the month of August in Washington. In September she will visit Spring Lake, N. J., where she expects to see the various members of the Krueger Clan, Margaretta and Katherine Meyer Rice, Kathryn Nokes, Murphy and other M. V. S. friends.

Mrs. Jean Josef Labat (Marie Stewart), 1909, sailed with her husband, Lieut. Labat, and young son, for a summer in France.

Elsie Foerderer, 1909, stopped at the school in January, upon her return from abroad, where she remained two years.

Mrs. Richard W. Hynson, 1908, has received a fascinating letter from Mrs. Henry A. Adams (Bess Gorton), 1909, who writes from Srinagar, India: "Greetings from the Vale of Kashmir! With two friends, I left the heat of the plains April 8, and came to spend six months in this delightful valley.

"Two days' journey from Calcutta we encountered the cold and have nearly frozen since. It's two days' train journey and two days' motor trip to reach Srinagar, the capital of the Maharajah's domain. * * * When we reached here the fruit trees were all in blossom. Even now a few late apple trees are still pink and white. Then field after field of mustard appeared on the landscape, vivid yellow sometimes stretching way to the distant blue-hazed hills, with the snow-capped ranges behind. Now the lilacs and wild iris are gorgeous.

"In a short time strawberries and cherries will be ripe and luscious (we are told). Each week brings new joys in Kashmir. We are living in a houseboat, a delightful and unique manner of life. Have anchored in the Dal Lake, just out of Srinagar. A fruit orchard surrounds us on three sides, sheltered by a hill of boulders. We look out over the quiet water to an old Kashmiri fort, across rushes and mustard blooms to the distant hills. Brilliant skies, birds chirping, and life is all that it's pictured.

"The Mogul emperors used to love this valley and spent their summers here. They made various gardens, beautifully landscaped, trees and flowers almost like fairyland, fountains galore! 'Pale hands I loved beside the Shalimar'—the Shalimar is one of the Persian gardens just near where our houseboat lies anchored."

The Arts Club of Washington gave a beautiful Bal Bohème in January at the New Willard. M. V. S. was ably represented by four members on its executive committee: Mrs. Charles Fairfax (Lillie Bowen), Mrs. Willoughby Chesley (Marie Holtzman), Mrs. Fulton Lewis, and last, but far from least, Miss Alice E. Edwards. Miss Edwards' wonderful artistry in the staging and costuming of plays is well known at M. V. S.

Miss Ostrander, formerly a member of our Faculty, is a valued member of the Arts Club. She has coached a number of interesting plays presented by the Arts Club Players. Miss Ostrander will not be at the Colonial School next winter, but expects to open a School of Expression in her Washington studio.

As usual, Mrs. Coolidge received the Senior Class this spring. Dancing in the East Room of the White House proved a thrilling feature of the reception.

Senior privilege this year was a trip to Winchester, Virginia, at the time of the Apple Blossom Festival—the event of the year in the Shenandoah Valley.

Jane Campbell, 1921, stopped over to visit Josephine Carle, 1921, en route to the wedding of Martha Ormerod, 1922. She was maid of honor.

Josephine Carle's engagement "to the most wonderful boy in the world" was announced during Madison Homecoming Week, October 17. The lucky man is Mr. Earl Wheeler of Chicago.

Mrs. Frank Phelps (Bettie Thompson), 1921, has a fine boy ten months old, a perfect darling, of course, but promises "to be something to handle when he gets a little older."

Mrs. John S. Wilkinson (Sarah Smith), 1921, lives at present in Coconomowoc, Wis. She writes that she is "keeping up with her music," and that while looking out on the frozen north, she loves to dream of her sunny southern home and the tall pine trees."

Mrs. L. M. Woodruff (Katherine Powers), 1921, visited California during the late winter and upon her return home, left immediately for Birmingham, Ala., to visit her husband's sister. "Bill", as her classmates know her, has a cunning little boy, "Charlie."

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Moore (Martha Ormerod), 1922, visited Washington on their honeymoon.

Pauline Schroder, 1924, is interested in the Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, and has been appointed corresponding secretary of that institution.

Addison Pelletier, 1924, sailed in January for a trip around the world. She contemplates studying in Paris.

Catherine Howell, 1924, made her debut on Christmas Day at her home on Sunset Drive, Kansas City, Mo.

Margaret Martin, 1924, now abroad with her mother, made a short visit to Washington during December.

Mrs. B. F. Harris (May Mellish) was a freshman at the American University of Arts and Sciences this past year. As her three sons are all college boys, they suggested that she should follow in their footsteps! It was inspiring, both for her and M. V. S., to have her so near, and needless to say we are very proud of Mrs. Mellish. She has taken a cottage at Sherwood Forest, Md., for the summer, we hear.

We are very sorry to record the serious illness of Louise Duvall, who has been critically ill for the past two months. Louise is endowed to the nth degree with that indomitable M. V. S. spirit, and has done valuable work as Librarian at the Bureau of Chemistry, Department of Agriculture.

Marguerite Mesny, daughter of Mrs. A. B. LeP. Mesny (Mazie Brown) went abroad in February with her uncle, Rev. P. S. Mesny of Guernsey, Channel Islands, England. She visited first in London with her aunt, Mrs. Philip Paddon, of East Lodge, Kitlands, Holmwood, Surrey, and had a very gay time, seeing all the new plays and dancing at all the famous restaurants. She did not meet the Prince of Wales, but did meet his best friend, also the amateur golf champion, Algy Pierson, and all sorts of interesting people. She was the guest at Oxford of two cousins. At present she is in Guernsey and still having thrills, as there is a regiment stationed there and a constant stream of cruisers from various nations. Later she will go to Paris as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. M. Atterbury Mesny, widow of the late Rev. H. W. G. Mesny, of the American Church of the Holy Trinity, Avenue de l'Alma.

Mrs. Barry Mohun (Nora Michener) is spending the summer abroad, accompanied by her daughter, Elizabeth, who enters Vassar this fall, and her son. Mr. Mohun will join them in September and bring them home.

Mrs. Frank H. Towner (Frances Marsh) has been in town lately. Lieut. Commander Towner has left Portsmouth, Va., and is now stationed at Haiti. Frances had her attractive daughter with her, and they were constantly entertained by their many friends.

The School Granddaughters in 1925-26 were: Eugenie Bournique, daughter of Suzanne Petit; Mary Boyd, daughter of Mary Day; Miranda Boyd, daughter of Mary Boyd; Marjorie Evatt, daughter of Evelyn Miller; Jean Hammer, daughter of Jenette Hamlin; Eleanor Hayden, stepdaughter of Josephine Eddy; Georgia Hencken, daughter of Georgia Gray; Constance Jones, daughter of Isabel Birch; Beatrice Pier, daughter of Adelaide Wilson; Mary Pope, daughter of Harriet Ankeny; Eleanor Rowe, daughter of Sally Huston; Laurene Walker, daughter of Laurene Porter. In 1926-27, they were: Eugenie Bournique, daughter of Suzanne Petit; Mary Boyd, daughter of Mary Day; Catherine Evatt, daughter of Evelyn Miller; Marjorie Evatt, daughter of Evelyn Miller; Louise Glancy, daughter of Lenora Courts; Nora Glancy, daughter of Lenora Courts; Eleanor Hammer, daughter of Jennette Hamlin; Georgia Hencken, daughter of Georgia Gray; Constance Jones, daughter of Isabel Birch; Beatrice Pier, daughter of Adelaide Wilson; Emily Pope, daughter of Helen Haskin; Mary Pope, daughter of Harriet Ankeny; Margaretta Rice, daughter of Margaretta Meyer; Jean Syminton, daughter of Inez Louise Hollet; Laurene Walker, daughter of Laurene Porter. We hope to find a place for Martha Louise Seabury, daughter of Louise Lovett, whose application came in after the lists were closed. We shall of course give preference, if a vacancy occur, to the daughter of an old girl.

"Henry Hardy, who for years has opened wide the front door to many an old girl upon her return to M. V. S., died on November 21. Through forty years Henry's dignity, loyalty, unswerving interest and love, have been felt in our household. Older M. V. S. girls will recall that Henry was Mrs. Somers' coachman, the driver of one horse and later of two, when Mrs. Somers took her daily outings. Henry Hardy, truly 'a gentleman of the Old School,' has passed on his way, leaving one of those intangible things,—a gentle memory." (Courtesy of The Roll Call.)

Elizabeth Fletcher Slaughter, 1924, spent the winter in Los Angeles with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Fletcher.

As we go to press the following engagements are broadcasted to us on our special M. V. S. wire: Esther Koenig, '22, to Mr. Max von Schraeder; Roxena Hassett, '20, to Mr. W. Ward Darrell; Helen Louise Curtis, '25, to Mr. Edwin Charles Gamble.

Dorothy Schmidt writes that Mary Lillian Kranz has been "having a whirl in Honolulu." Virginia Fryberger took the Mediterranean cruise last winter. She particularly "adored Cairo."

Mary Strachan, president of the Class of 1925, the golden class, visited the school in January before she sailed for a year in Europe. We missed her at reunion. Her remembrance of M. V. S. at this time was beautiful—two gorgeous baskets of flowers, one to the Class of '25 and one to this year's class.

Eleven of the Class of 1925 returned for Commencement: Gwendolyn Atwood, Elizabeth Burgoyne, Hortense Coyle, Emma Carter, Dorothy Davidson, Elizabeth Burdell, Julia Hase, Patricia Healy, Betty Paxton, Marian Gaffney, and Harriet Snider. Reunion was the glorious finale to Harriet's trip around the world.

Editor's Note—Next year we hope to have so many Personals that we shall have to divide them into categories, such as M. V. S. Abroad, M. V. S. at College, M. V. S. in Business, and M. V. S. at Home. By M. V. S. we mean you. Won't you sit down at your desk and think over what you've been doing—it may seem commonplace to you, but it won't to the girls who were your schoolmates—then write a letter to the Editor, M. V. S. Alumnae Annual, Mt. Vernon Seminary, Washington, D. C., and tell about yourself not later than July 1, 1927?

CREED OF M. V. S.

I believe in the school of my choice,
I believe in its works and its ways;
In the charm of its beauty serene I rejoice,
And its youth—after proud length of days.

I am glad its traditions are mine,
Through them I inherit my chance,
For a dignified place in that unbroken line
That measures the span of advance.

I am proud that its laws are severe,
Though rebellion springs quick to my tongue;
I am secretly glad of the strength I revere
As protection and guard for the young.

I believe that its teachings ring true
On the spirit as well as the mind;
And since in my heart I believe as I do,
My duty stands clearly defined.

My allegiance I'm bound to avow,
For my school's reputation is mine;
I will never by word or by action allow
Its honor and fame to decline.

MARY E. COLGAN.

TO THE M. V. S. ALUMNAE

Dear Daughters of M. V. S.:

Another Senior Class has passed into history, and by their fine citizenship enriched our M. V. S. tradition. It has been a good year with much accomplishment to record. A growing maturity and willingness to take responsibility is encouraging us to give greater privileges to girls in the Collegiate Form. We have been gratified with the response to the freedom already granted, and are planning to increase both freedom and responsibility for the college girls.

The students have been gone a fortnight and already painters and carpenters and other workmen swarm the house as the work of cleaning, repairing, and improving goes on. The swimming pool is in the process of being tiled—a long felt need. But we are most happy in the building of a greenhouse, which is now under way. It is to be in the place where the cutting garden has been, near the power house, and will do much toward the beautifying of our home during the coming year. We have an excellent gardener who, with this added resource, will supply us with flowers in abundance.

Another factor in our present happiness lies in the enrollment next year of twenty-six granddaughters and sixteen little sisters. What greater expression of confidence could our Alumnae give us than this? Practically one-third of the school, thus closely bound to the past, is a great help in keeping alive memories of our beloved leaders who have gone, and of the traditions of which we are so jealous.

In April, it was my great good fortune to be the guest of the Chicago M. V. S. Chapter. How can I describe the warmth of my welcome, the delightful plans made for my entertainment by the gracious president, Mrs. Ethelwyn Hinckley Mayo, and others of the association. You can imagine my joy in being the house guest of Mrs. Morris Eddy during my stay, but I doubt if you will half realize what it meant to me to be there, where Mrs. Somers had so often stayed and so loved to be. The crowning event of the visit was in the luncheon at The Drake, where sixty-nine "old girls" renewed their M. V. S. ties. They represented the earlier days of the School, and all the way down the vista of years, to the class of 1926. I showed them the moving pictures of the Golden Jubilee and told them our story up to date, while they, in turn, gave me glimpses of how life had unfolded to them. It was a very glad reunion and one I shall long remember. The four days of my visit were crowded with never-to-be-forgotten experiences.

I am hoping, next year, to go to Boston and to Pittsburgh to visit the chapters and am anticipating with great delight the renewing of friendly ties, as well as the new acquaintances such a visit must mean.

I felt very proud of that group of Chicago women who bear the name of M. V. S. daughters. They were an earnest group in whom Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley would have felt great satisfaction. They are bearing the world's burdens, and making the world a better place for the next generation. We expect our girls to be leaders wherever they may go. Freely they have received, freely they must give. Blessed to be blessing.

Neither complacency nor cynicism, which a recent writer defines as the "twin perils" of our civilization, has a place in their lives. Complacency and cynicism are the lot of the on-lookers, not of those who enter the strife and fight the battles of life. Complacency will flee at the mere touch of reality; and cynicism will vanish with a glimpse into the real heart of humanity.

What the world needs most in its women is faith—belief in man—belief in his inherent goodness and the courage to trust in his goodness. That above all else was the teaching of the great Master of the Art of Living. It often requires courage to go on the assumption of man's goodness, but only so will he enter into his rightful inheritance.

Remember we are always happy to see you, but if you can't come at least write us occasionally, and let us know what is interesting you.

With the greetings of the staff,

Faithfully yours,

JEAN DEAN COLE

I walked along an ugly road
And could not joyful be Until I saw a dandelion
Beneath a scraggly tree
Look golden-eyed at me.

ANNA THOMPSON

Our love is like a blue moth's wing
So shimmering and gay;
Perhaps too bright; perhaps too swift;
It cannot last you say?
Why care? It lasts today.

ELIZABETH ROBERTS

If I were to go to Heaven tonight
And sail in a gold canoe
In the ocean of murky immensity—
Who'd sail with me into the blue?
I wonder and wonder—would you?

ESTHER GOETZ

An orange moon with wispy breath
Kindled an orange flame,
To tip the stunted cypress tree
And light you as you came;
I never knew your name.

BETH SHERWOOD

I want to sit upon a cloud
And whittle away all day
And throw down little bits of star
Upon the folks and say,—
"This is the game I play."

BETH SHERWOOD

"HE HATH A DAILY BEAUTY IN HIS LIFE."

MY CONCERN is not primarily with the meaning of this characterization of Cassio, nor the psychology of Iago's words "He hath a daily beauty in his life that makes me ugly." Neither do I wish to spend these moments in trying to prove that there are people who have a daily beauty in their lives. You would be unfortunate, indeed, if you could not honestly say that you know such human beings. May their tribe increase! It is easy to talk about them; it is not so easy to be numbered among them.

It would be a mistake to think of this as a superficial acquirement. "Beauty is that quality or combination of qualities which affords keen pleasure to other senses, or which charms the intellectual or moral faculties, through inherent grace or fitness to a desired end." That is not a definition of the superficial; it has to do with the depths of human nature, the intellectual and the moral deeps.

To have a daily beauty in life, what connection has that with education? Has college or school any relation to this conception or is it something entirely outside the sphere of education? It would be far from the truth to say that only the educated can show a daily beauty in their lives, but it is not an exaggeration to say that that kind of living ought to be the result of education. There are many avenues of approach; I hardly know which one to follow first. The working of the human mind is in itself a thing of beauty. What a pity that we do not more frequently make our contribution to that kind of beauty! The use of the mind, even in school and college, is too often regarded as a necessity, not a joy,—and yet there is nothing more wonderful in the existence of a human being than the mental processes. It is not always true that we regard mental effort only as a necessary evil, a means to an end.

We have our great moments in intellectual life, when we thrill with the joy of making the effort as well as with the achievements—but to realize a daily beauty in our lives in mental effort and to be conscious of it, that is a different matter.

There is a second avenue of approach. The student has a daily beauty in his life in the fields of knowledge opened to him. "Required work,"—I often wish we might dispense with that expression and with its implications. Even more gladly would I part with, "I want to get my required work out of the way as soon as possible." "He hath a daily beauty in his life" as a student, if he will but open his eyes to see it. There is no day which dawns in a school year that does not give this opportunity. "A daily beauty, yes, in certain fields," I can hear you admit; but there is no range of study to which this does not apply. Did you ever see the "shine" in the eyes of the mathematician over a "beautiful demonstration" in higher mathematics? I have! It is there, the beauty; the trouble is with us, we are blind. In countless ways, we have this wealth of daily beauty spread before us; the beauty of form and color as our eyes are opened by the artist; the beauty of harmony, as our ears are unstopped by the musician; the beauty of poetic vision as we learn the art of literary appreciation. Truly the student hath a daily beauty in his life.

But I would not stop with what is only half an interpretation. To have a daily beauty in life is something more than receiving and hoarding; it is rather appropriating, making a part of oneself, so that the daily receiving is also a daily giving. In other words, he that hath a daily beauty in his life, shows it in the conduct of that life.

We have lost somewhat the significance of the word "conduct." The way a life is conducted, led along, expressed, is not a slight thing, one to be considered of little moment. He that hath a daily beauty in his life, has poise, self-control, restraint, not forgetting that "he that ruleth his spirit is greater than he that taketh a city." The use of our reason, taken for granted in education, ought to make us judicial, fair-minded, ready to see the other person's point of view. There is no excuse for pettiness, unreason, lack of self-control, on the part of the educated person. We should include in our daily litany, "From ill-temper, uncharitable judgments, censorious speech and all littleness of mind and heart and soul, good Lord, deliver us."

A real culture, not a shoddy one, has much to do with daily beauty in the life. It was said of Milton that the large but ordered beauty of form characteristic of him he had drunk in from the literature of Greece and Rome. Conduct as well as speech and writing is shaped in no slight degree by the kind of reading and amusement in which we indulge. Trashy music, trashy so-called literature, trashy "shows" and movies do not conduce to a daily beauty of life. The relation between the inner life and its expression is too close and intimate for us to disregard that by which the inner life is nourished.

He hath a daily beauty in his life. Not an occasional beauty—that is easy for most of us—but an habitual beauty of attitude and character, not so easy.

I have said nothing about religion, but what is religion, at least in its expression, except a daily beauty in the life? The figure of the Bible, the life that is at the heart of Christianity, is a figure, a life, of surpassing beauty and His Way is the way of beauty.

MARY E. WOOLLEY, President
Mount Holyoke College
South Hadley, Mass.

EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT

The final Chapel Report is in the nature of a retrospect and a Te Deum. In the light of successful achievement, these eight years seem easy enough, but in the circle of that small potential Incorporation known as the Elizabeth Somers Chapel Committee, there have been difficulties requiring the greatest patience, faith, and undaunted courage. Nevertheless I doubt whether that faithful band of women would surrender for one moment the joy of such service.

The time, eight years ago, seemed most unpropitious. Following the dark years of war, there were unleashed innumerable drives, almost all of them being of the highest importance in charity and patriotism. We had a flood of letters rebuking us for launching such an individual project in the light of wider humanity. But to us, one figure alone was in our heart: the frail body and the intrepid soul of the one whose far-reaching influence for good is embodied in our Chapel. It will always be a bitter sorrow that for our beautiful Dedication the Chapel was a Memorial and the rare spirits of Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley were in the better country, but, oh, the unspeakable joy that they knew in their lifetime, what we were striving to do!

Indeed, for us no other hour of destiny would have been possible, for in those years only could we have had our beautiful trinity of Elizabeth J. Somers, Adelia Gates Hensley, and Jean Dean Cole, our Alpha and Omega of past, present and future.

In making so momentous a report, I wish to pay tribute, first, to the fine team work of all M. V. S. girls, in and out of classes, throughout the breadth and length of this country and abroad. Literally, hundreds and hundreds of loyal representatives of our Alma Mater made contributions, some names not having been heard from for years.

In the "List of Contributors" in our beautiful Book of Remembrance there is a goodly representation of each class and every year. There were four Founders giving $5,000 apiece. There were also thirteen Life Benefactors who sent $1,000 each. Eleven daughters of M. V. S. contributed $500.00, or more. In our Chapel there are twenty-one Memorial pews, and four individual pews. Twenty-six classes have gone "Over the Top." As for Memorials and special gifts, beginning with our wonderful organ, like the memorial of Robert Louis Stevenson, it is literally the sacred place of "loving hearts." The Chapel Committee, Incorporated, solemnly pledged itself, in your behalf, for the staggering sum of $81,600, exclusive of the splendid gifts of the organ and the bell, which bring up the total of more than $100,000. I say that the Chapel Committee pledged $81,600 on what we thought to be an inviolable "guaranteed cost." This last year has been the hardest of the eight, because the contractors contended so sharply that the Chapel cost more, in materials and labor, that we were forced to put our case in the able hands of a Washington lawyer, Mr. Frederic D. McKenney, Miss Walker's nephew, who served us one whole year entirely without compensation, "In memory of Mrs. Somers and in honor of Mount Vernon Seminary." By a series of patient but brilliant compromises, made by all contracting parties, the Chapel committee agreed to pay $2,500 more, or $84,100.

Of course, the first estimated excess sent us by the contractors, was for a much larger sum. But the Te Deum comes in here, and it is a glorious song of praise, for every penny of the whole $84,100 is paid for and our beautiful Chapel is entirely out of debt! When we were struggling to make our last payment, Katharine Higgins Riley stopped over in Washington to see the school. Miss Cole showed her everything, Katharine becoming more and more enthusiastic. "Is it all paid for, Miss Cole?" "No," said

Miss Cole, "we lack $500." "I will give you a check at once," said Katharine, "in honor of the three Headmistresses, Elizabeth J. Somers, Adelia Gates Hensley, and Jean Dean Cole." So that is the reason the Chapel is quite ours. As a matter of interest, the very first pledge was made by Anna Saunders Klotz. The first gift was made by Helen Blodgett Erwin, the class of 1915, while the last payment was made by a non-graduate, Katharine Higgins Riley.

Surely then our task is done. But what about the cushions? All pews, guiltless of upholstery, are bare and hard, but Colonial pews are the barest and hardest of all. And $2,500 stretch between the need and the coveted supply. A Macedonian cry for generosity is very much in order. Is there not somebody who would be simply charmed to give this sorely desired luxury and even necessity? Then there is one more ambition for the Chairman of the Chapel committee, namely nothing short of a hundred per cent in pledges. Do you know that sixty per cent of redeemed pledges is a high estimate? But with hundreds of pledges from all over this country every single one has been redeemed except six. It is marvelous and we must make it perfect. Two classes are still striving to go over the top, and four individual pledgers. How can we stop short of such splendid achievement?

In closing, we wish to speak gratefully, of the memorials and gifts of this year. Four classes have gone "Over the top"; the class of 1901, the class of 1911, the class of 1913, and the class of 1917. The Sara Amelia Scull Chapter completed the sum for the memorial pew for Miss Scull, and the pew is now beautifully marked. There are two new pews: one given by Katharine Higgins Riley, "In honor of the Three Headmistresses"; the other a memorial one, the money being quietly slipped into Miss Cole's hands, at the time of the Chicago meeting, by Lois Linthicum Hawley. Then last summer Emeline Spry Keyes sent a lovely letter and most generous check. Then came the splendid gift of $500, pledged and paid by Miss Mollie Knapp, of the class of 1897. One of the beautiful gifts of this year is a memorial pew for Dorothy Campbell, of the class of 1914, who died November 14, 1918, given by some of her classmates and personal friends, through the untiring devotion of Emily Wiggin, of 1914.

This ends the final report, but lest the valedictory should be too harrowing, remember at any time, when gifts are sent, "New occasions teach new duties." To dear Miss Cole, deep and abiding gratitude wells up in our hearts, for without Miss Cole's potential cooperation, we would be struggling yet for final payment. Also may we voice sincerest appreciation to our honored oldest living graduate, Mary Stewart Carey, who celebrates her Alumna Golden Jubilee, and who not only sent us $1,000 in those dark days when the money seemed doubly worth while, but also links us, through her closeness to Mrs. Somers in the past, to the Elizabeth Somers Chapel in the future. For our Chapel is not a completion but a spiritual aspiration for nobler living.

ANNE SEYMOUR AMES

Dearest Miss Walker:

It seems an endless time since my May Days in Washington and all the "old girls" but what a host of memories it left. The milestones past were joys to remember. The thought has come to me, how much—, how very much the girls of today have missed and I think of the wonderful personal touch She has left with so many of us. Even her chidings awoke the desire to be more worthy of her.

Somehow when we were all together in the Maytime, I feel she was satisfied, don't you?

My love to you, of the "old régime"—it seems a closer link. King Arthur's knights and the Table Round aren't in it with Saint Elizabeth and her own girls.

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1927:

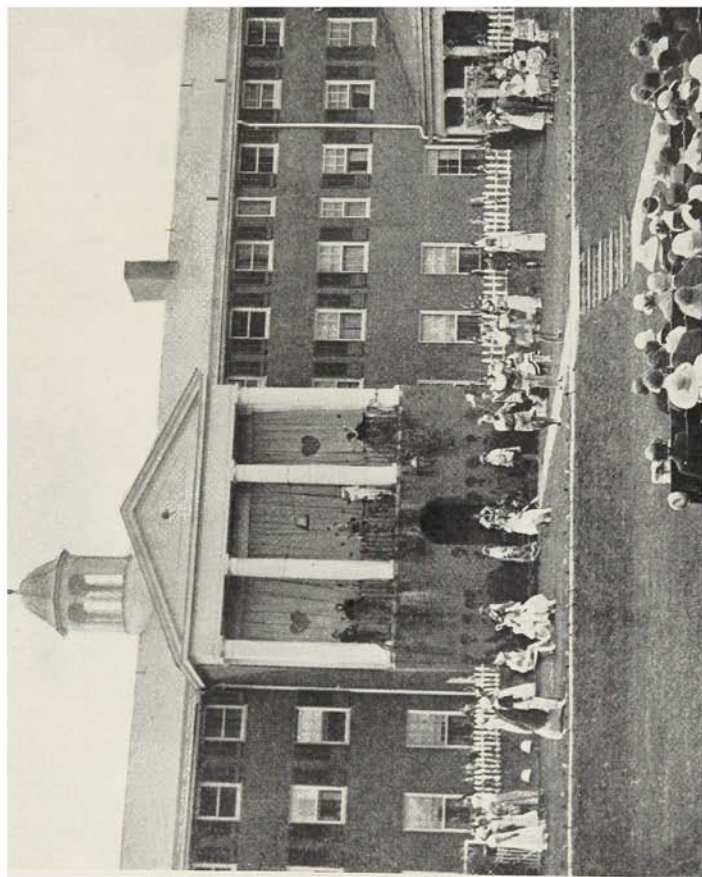

Each year it becomes a greater joy for the Alumnae Association to welcome the graduating class. Each year our number is augmented by a group of girls representing the best result of educational effort. High standards, high aims and aspirations and greater achievement have ever been the watchwords of Mount Vernon Seminary.

We of the Alumnae during our school life were under its influence just as you have been, and, in our several ways, have endeavored to carry on its traditions. Some of us have succeeded marvelously, some just in a mediocre manner,—but we have tried. Now opportunity has come to you. The torch, lighted by our beloved Mrs. Somers, and passed from hand to hand by Mrs. Hensley, Miss Cole and our dear teachers, is yours to carry and to make a beacon light—a light so beautiful that all who see it may wish to share its golden beams.

For after all, that is perhaps the one way that many of us can pay our debt to Mount Vernon Seminary. We cannot all give personal service, but we can so order our lives that all who know us may say: "That is the kind of woman I wish my daughter to be, her ideals are the ones I wish for my daughter." Years ago, before I was in school, people in Washington used to say: "One can always know when a girl has been to Mrs. Somer's School." I have heard the same thing said since then,—may it always be so!

The Alumnae Association of your School welcomes you with joy and sincere fellowship. May you share our responsibilities and our pleasures. May you never fail to do your best—always!

MINUTES

Mrs. Labat, president of the Alumnae Association, called the fifty-second reunion meeting to order at eleven o'clock, Saturday morning, May 28th, in the Great Hall of the School. Immediately after the call to order the Senior Class of 1927 was presented by Miss Guard to the Association. In true M. V. S. fashion, the president welcomed the twenty-three new members to the Association, and Miss Kathryn Ferguson, president of the Class of 1927, responded most graciously. In all there were ninety odd members present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Treasurer presented the following report:

In response to the President's request for reports from M. V. S. Chapters, Mrs. Pope, of the Chicago Chapter, brought greetings from that chapter, and gave an oral outline of the work that the members of that very active organization have been, and are, doing. She spoke particularly of the Lingerie Shop that had been conducted by the members for five years, but had now been discontinued because of the discontentment among the young women who were employed as saleswomen—young women who had come through the Juvenile Courts. Mrs. Pope told of the clinic at the Northwestern University, which is being conducted for the benefit of babies, and which is being aided by the Chicago Chapter. In closing she spoke of the lovely social time the members of the chapter enjoyed when Miss Cole visited them in April of this year.

Miss Anne Young of the Omaha Chapter brought greetings from that body of M. V. S. girls and stated that they were sewing on baby things for the Christ Child Society.

The Harriet Belle Walker Chapter was represented by the president of the chapter, Florence Birch, who brought greetings from the former students of the school.

The following reports were read by the Secretary from the Adelia Gates Hensley Chapter and the Jean Dean Cole Chapter, respectively:

New York, N. Y.,
May 19, 1927.

My dear Miss Myers,

I have your nice note asking if the Adelia Gates Hensley Chapter of the M. V. S. Association can send a delegate to the Alumnae Reunion this year. Unfortunately it seems that there is no one free to leave home just now, so I am afraid will not be represented.

Our chapter is going through a reorganization and at present there is nothing definite to report in addition to the statement we sent last fall. When we get our up-to-date revised list from the school, we are going to launch an active campaign for members and then use it as a foundation to build up an active and interested group. Conditions in New York make it difficult to keep in touch with each other, but we have faith that energy will surmount all handicaps.

I would like to have a report of the reunion, and would particularly welcome suggestions from chapter regents as to ways and means they have used successfully to build up and maintain interest in the various chapters.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

(Signed) ELSIE SCOTT,

Secretary, Adelia Gates Hensley Chapter.

Pasadena, California,

The Jean Dean Cole Chapter, having been founded only a year and a half ago and having its members scattered over a radius of more than 75 miles, has not as yet become a very closely knit organization.

We try to make our annual meeting in the fall, more than just a business meeting and have an entertainment which will interest all our members and induce them to come from their respective communities. Last year the attendance was far too small, so this year we are making a special effort to swell our numbers.

We are now looking into something in the line of social service work such as placing a bed in a Children's Hospital, feeling that this will stimulate a wider interest among the girls.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) HARRIET B. SNIDER,

Secretary

The Corresponding Secretary, Miss Grace V. Edwards, having arrived, was asked to give her report. She stated that she had sent out postals for the meeting in Washington in April, and also the invitations to the Reunion.

Miss Williamson, editor of the Alumnae Annual, announced that pencils and paper would be on each of the tables at luncheon, and she would appreciate it if the members present would write out any items of interest they might have to contribute and hand them to her before leaving the school.

In accordance with the action taken at the previous meeting, Miss Morgan moved: "That Article I, Section 7, of the

By-Laws which defines the duties of the Assistant Treasurer be placed in Section 2, Article III, of the Constitution following the statement of the duties of the Treasurer."

Adopted.

Mrs. Labat then asked Miss Cole to call the roll by Classes. Upon its completion, Miss Cole announced that the Class of 1926 was entitled to the loving cup for the largest attendance at the Reunion this year.

Upon the request of the President, Miss Cole addressed the Association. Her remarks took the form of a report, referring particularly to the recent arrival of the beautiful rugs which had been woven in the hills of India and which took the place of the blue carpet that formerly covered the floors of Great Hall; the addition of a guest room on the first floor of the school; the improvement to the Science room; the educational exhibits for this year, including special work in psychology, history and home economics, art and Red Cross work; the high standard of students of Mount Vernon Seminary, and the number who were entering the colleges each year; the future improvements to the school which are to include the tiling of the swimming pool and the erection of a greenhouse this year; and the registration of twenty-two little granddaughters for next year. Miss Cole further expressed her deep appreciation of the cooperation of the Alumnae; of its gift to the School in the form of the Chapel which meant so much to the daily life of the student body as well as the faculty of M. V. S. In concluding her remarks, she expressed her hopes for the future of the school and the continued interest of the Alumnae.

There being no further business before the Association, the meeting adjourned for luncheon, and entertainment given by the students of M. V. S. in the afternoon; also a visit to 1100 M Street and tea with the young ladies of The Elizabeth Somers.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN K. MYERS,

A YEARLY GIFT*

The M. V. S. Society, composed of pupils past and present of the Mt. Vernon Seminary, has again made plans for a donation to the Children's Hospital. The first help from this source came in 1923, when the Society presented a first-class operating table at a cost of $500. In 1924, six orthopedic beds were given, followed the next year by six bed-side tables and a much needed wheelchair. In 1926 two incubator rooms were completely equipped. The last gift was ten adjustable cribs with rubber wheels.

At the meeting of the Society held on May 4, 1927, at the school, an appropriation of $372 was made—$72 to install four-inch rubber wheels on twelve beds and $300 or as much of it as needed to screen completely with copper wire the Medical Porch which, owing to its arches, is more difficult and therefore more expensive to screen than the Surgical Porch. A committee of five was also appointed, composed of the President of the Lend-a-Hand Society of the school and four other members, for the purpose of maintaining a closer relation with the Hospital and to report at the May meeting its needs and interests.

Mount Vernon Seminary comes naturally by its inspiration to good works, for it was founded by the beneficent Elizabeth J. Somers; her successor, the late Adelia Gates Hensley of honored memory, who erected the modern school located at 3801 Nebraska Avenue, maintained the fine traditions and these seem to be losing none of their force and beauty under the present Headmistress, Jean Dean Cole. The Children's Hospital counts itself fortunate in being the chosen recipient of such benefactions.

STRONG LINK WITH VOLUNTEER SERVICE*

An Example In The Mt. Vernon Seminary Sewing Division

BY MABEL T. BOARDMAN

The future of the American Red Cross with all its numerous opportunities for service to humanity must be of the utmost importance to all loyal Red Cross members. Today there are still many of the faithful war workers carrying on their services with great devotion, but what of tomorrow?

Is the younger generation taking hold of Red Cross work? I do not mean the Junior Red Cross, nor those of the high school group, but the young men and women who have left the high school or who are in our colleges. What affiliation have they with the Red Cross and its services?

In the District of Columbia one of the large private boarding schools for girls, Mt. Vernon Seminary, has inaugurated a Red Cross service that may well spread to other schools of this class. At the time of the Roll Call the presidents of the school classes, each in a different uniform of Volunteer Service loaned by the Chapter, enrolled her class 100 per cent. This was followed by the organization of a voluntary Red Cross sewing division to make layettes for the Chapter. In their school publication Miss Alice M. Trippett reports on the sewing division as follows:

"There is no happier hour in the week than the hour between 8.30 and 9.30 on Saturday morning. It is then that the voluntary Red Cross sewing division, almost 100 strong, meets to sew on layettes for needy babies in distressed districts. A layette consists of 15 tiny garments, each set arranged in its own box and marked with the names of the girls who have made themselves responsible for the making. The division is now working on 50 layettes.

* Reprinted from The Red Cross Courier of March 1, 1927.

"The workers are divided into eight groups. The work of each group is directed by a student counselor, especially chosen for the task. Counselors wear the blue veils of the Red Cross workers, that they may be easily recognized. These counselors with their officers constitute the student council of the Red Cross sewing division of Mt. Vernon Seminary.

"There is a machine squad in charge of the electric sewing machines and one girl is kept busy with the electric iron. This work was started in 1925 and in May 296 garments were turned in to the Red Cross so well made that some were sent to the Florida section, while others were used by the Red Cross as models. This year 650 finished pieces were turned over to the Red Cross.

"The sewing division has built a firm foundation. Its keystone is service, cemented with devotion. On this foundation is being erected a permanent structure to stand through the years, in the life of M. V. S. as a channel, consecrated to the aiding of suffering infant humanity."

This group of young volunteers on return to their homes expect to continue their work with the local Chapters. This is an excellent way of connecting the younger life with the senior organization.

SCHOOL EVENTS

A brief sketch of the events of the past school year may be of interest to those who depend upon this publication for an idea of what's ado at M. V. S. I might say at the first that no better year could be imagined or hoped for, and that all was well on the Potomac from October 6 till June 1.

The students today and the Class of 1927 are glad of this opportunity to express to every member of the Alumnae the deepest appreciation for our beloved chapel which is not only a vital part of the school, but of the life of everyone who enters there. The organ recitals after services on Sunday afternoons were restful, inspiring, and a cherished pleasure. Thanks for these recitals as well as for the excellent direction of the choir are due to Mr. Torovsky, of the Church of the Epiphany.

We certainly went over the top in our quota of lectures, which came as often as twice a week. We heard of everything from strange far-off lands to the Browning Settlement. Miss Drew, an especial favorite, spoke to us one evening about "The Brontës" and again about "Jane Welsh Carlyle." We also had the pleasure of hearing Prof. Baumgardt's lecture on "Volcanoes," and Norman Angell on "The State of Affairs in Europe."

The musical programs given by the pupils of Miss Ball, Mrs. Rickett and Mrs. Payne were always looked forward to and immensely enjoyed. In fact we had so much local talent that visiting artists were almost de trop. Special mention must be made of Mr. Grove, brother of our Miss Grove, well-known New York organist, whose personality and talent won immediately the admiration of all those who heard him.

Dramatics flourished once more this year under Miss Francis and Miss Edwards. The Season was opened by an amateur production, however, which was known as the Junior Vaudeville. Next came the Senior Play, presented December 11, "Fanny and the Servant Problem." We heard from reliable sources that this was one of the best plays put on in years. The cast of characters was as follows:

Fanny	LOUISE WENDE
Vernon-Lord Bautock	GENEVIEVE STEWART
Martin Bennet	ELIZABETH COUNCIL
Susannah Bennet	MARY LILLIAN ADAMS
Jane Bennet	MARY CUNNINGHAM
Honoraria Bennet	KATHRYN FERGUSON
Earnest Bennet	BEATRICE MASTERSON
Dr. Freemantle	JANET GARDNER

SCENE: The living room at Bantock Hall.

The Nativity Play, given at the Annual Christmas Party, was indeed a charming performance. Lois Christman made an exquisite "Mary." The singing and costuming were very beautiful. As Santa Claus was suddenly called out of Washington that evening, his part was taken by Rowena Thom, and I hardly think the old gentleman himself could have given the kiddies more fun and happiness.

The Junior Class presented "The School for Scandal." The parts were chosen and interpreted exceedingly well, and we congratulate the Juniors for the success they achieved in producing this very difficult play.

The White Class gave "Aria da Capa," a futuristic fantasy, by Edna St. Vincent Millay. "The Turtle Dove" by Margaret Scott Oliver was given by the Yellow Class. Both of these one act plays were triumphs for the respective classes.

The gymnasium was transformed incredibly more than once during the year. First came the Hallowe'en Party, which called for the proper atmosphere of pumpkins, corn stalks and black cats. The Valentine Fancy Dress Party was given in a "colorful banner-hung and ribbon-festooned square before an awninged café in dear, delightful, wicked, old Paris." The Sports Ball, something new in our social activities, was a riot of fun. We wore sport costumes of every kind and the gym was transformed into the M. V. S. Country Club, the stage being the veranda, and several tees and polo ponies being in evidence.

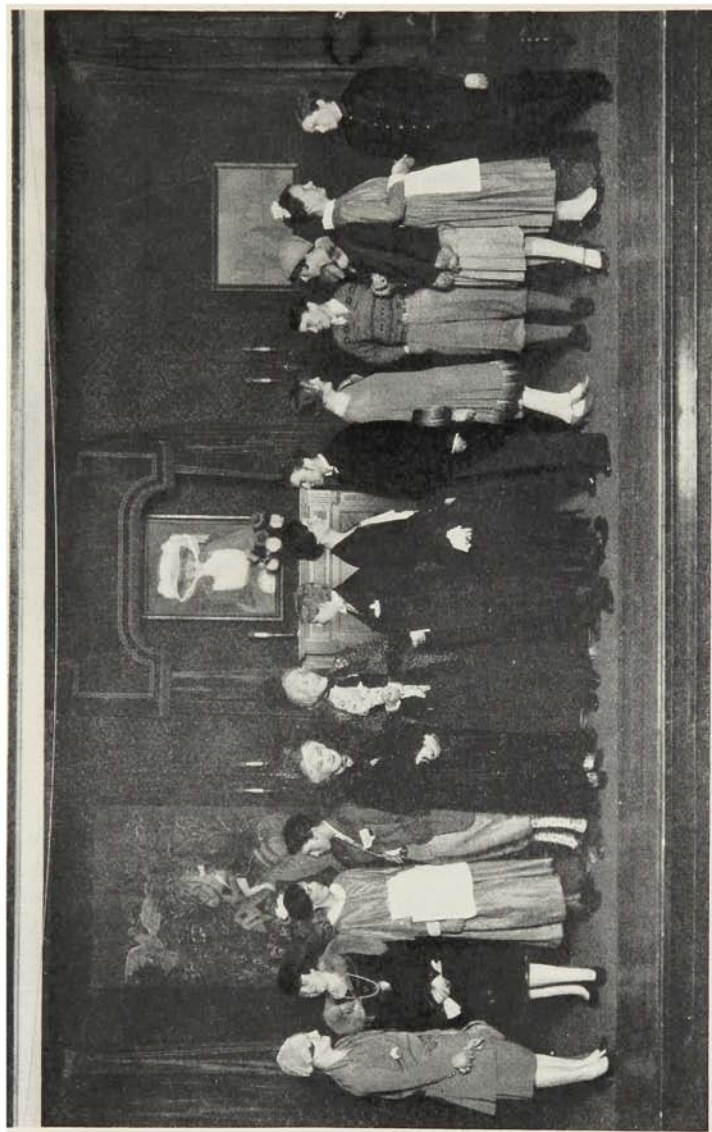

The Seniors were victorious in the ingenuity contests, and the Juniors when requested to show their colors, revealed a most gorgeous banner of purple and gold, and sang a magnificent class song, the music of which was the composition of Eleanor Miller, and the words by Beth Sherwood.

Founder's Day, or the School birthday, was celebrated on November 5. The traditional meeting of the M. V. S. Society was followed by the cutting of the enormous cake made for the occasion by Zimmer, the school baker. His work of art was soon demolished by M. V. S. girls old and new.

Optima had, by the end of the year, over fifty members, which certainly reveals something of the scholastic achievements and deportment of the girls during this last year. The officers were: President, Genevieve Stewart; Vice-President, Margaret Meyer; Secretary, Georgia Henken; Treasurer, Dorothy Thomson.

The French Club flourished with Mary Cunningham as President. There were sixteen members. Flora Hollingsworth was President of the Choral Club, and Kathleen Sheldon—of Walking Club. The latter, by the way, changed its tactics this year, and went picknicking almost entirely, instead of to its former haunts, the Purple Iris and Wardman Park.

The new athletic instructors, Miss Wallace and Miss MacAuley, spared no pains to make that line of our work both profitable and pleasurable, and they surely succeeded. The sports offered in the three terms were as follows: Fall Term—basketball, golf, tennis, hikes, hockey, horseback; Winter Term—swimming, gymnasium work, hikes; Spring Terms—tennis, golf, hockey, horseback, track, and baseball. The outside game played by the Varsity Basketball Team was with Miss Madeira's School, and M. V. S. won, as is her custom. The athletic banner for the year was awarded to the Juniors.

April 29 was Senior Day, and the school assembled in the gymnasium to listen to the reading of a series of essays on "Some Aspects of Post-War Europe and the Relation of the United States to Various International Problems." The program was as follows:

1. A General Analysis of the International Situation
Genevieve Stewart
2. The Relation of the United States to Europe
Wilma McFarland
3. France and the United States K. Hawkes
(Read by Elizabeth Council)
4. Germany and The United States . . . Odessa Erhard
5. Social Conditions in Post-War England
Jane Armstrong
6. Austria and the League of Nations . . Margaret Meyer
7. Italy and Mussolini Madge Farratt
8. Russia Gretchen Dishong

The banquet given the Seniors by the Juniors was a delightful affair. The idea of M. V. S. as a garden was carried out in every possible way, including the songs, speeches, toasts, and decorations. The usual tinge of sadness was present, for that banquet is always a vivid reminder that the Seniors have reached the beginning of the end.

The year's "Roll Call" was an unusually creditable number. Its accounts of the doings at M. V. S., and its other articles are always welcome, as is the list of names and addresses. The work and time expended in its publication have been greatly appreciated.

The Cupola, Volume V, was delivered to subscribers May 30. Far be it from us to advertise, but just confidentially we think it is the most attractive year book in the land. It is the sincere hope of the Board of 1928 that more of the Alumnae will be interested in it, because it is such a vital expression of the life and atmosphere of M. V. S.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

"School Day" exercises were held in the gymnasium Friday morning, May 29. The program represented achievements of which any school might well be proud. Every department offered a sample, as it were, of its work. There were readings of essays and poetry, piano and vocal selections, recitations, and even a dramatic and colorfully costumed French dialogue. One poem should be mentioned especially—"Impressions of Carl Sandburg" by Beth Sherwood. A copy of this was sent to Mr. Sandburg, and the letter with which he acknowledged it was a tribute to Beth's genius and likewise a betrayal of the man's beautiful nature. This was read to the student body by Miss Cole on School Day. The athletic awards were given, the medal for the year going to Mary Cunningham for the third time, and also to Dorothea Sigel. The Flag Honor for the year was given to the Seniors.

The Studio Tea that afternoon gave the guests an opportunity to see the charming display of prints, sketches, modelling, and painting from Miss Hillyar's Art Department.

Friday evening a Student Recital was given in Great Hall, and many beautiful selections were enjoyed. There were some exquisite trios sung.

On Saturday, May 29, the morning was occupied by an Alumnae meeting in Great Hall, when business matters were discussed, and the Senior Class was welcomed into the organization very graciously by Mrs. Labat, President of the Alumnae Association. After the Alumnae Luncheon a most delightful pageant was given in the quadrangle. It was called "Tale of the Tarts," and was entirely the work of the dancing classes under the excellent direction of Miss Wallace. The pageant was put on in such a picturesque and entertaining way that we are hoping for a repetition of the idea next year. At 4.30 that afternoon the household repaired to a tea at the Elizabeth Somers home, "the old school," having been invited by the girls of the Y. W. C. A. who live there. It was a great pleasure to all who went to see the surroundings of early M. V. S., and to accept the hospitality of those who are so grateful for its use now.

The Baccalaureate Service was an exceptionally lovely one this year. The sermon, by Rev. Z. B. Phillips of the Church of the Epiphany, was inspired as well as inspiring. Music was rendered by the choir, with Mr. Torovsky at the organ, and Handel's "Largo" was played on the harp by Flora Hollingsworth, with Violin Obbligato by Kathryn Bovingor. After the service the guests of the Seniors remained to supper and the evening program of class songs in Great Hall.

The School play, "She Stoops to Conquer," by Oliver Goldsmith, was presented on Monday evening, May 30. Miss Edwards, as usual, wrought wonders with our tiny stage, the setting being "an old fashioned house resembling an inn." It would seem that Miss Francis had received special information from The Fates as to which girls in school had been made for the parts, for no one could hope for better interpretations of Goldsmith's characters. The cast was as follows:

Mr. Hardcastle	C. EVATT
Mrs. Hardcastle	J. GARDNER
Kate Hardcastle	L. WENDE
Tony Lumpkin	B. SHERWOOD
Constance Neville	R. CRABBS
Charles Harlow	E. SHERMAN

George Hastings	M. SEALBURY
Sir Charles Marlow	D. SIGEL

The lamentation was an ingenious piece of verse, by our class poet. The Statistics were given out in the form of weights in the scale of attributes, each quality being cleverly introduced and expounded upon by the Statisticians.

The prophecy was written after the manner of Lloyd Mayer, who does "Just Between us Girls" in "Life." A copy of this will appear in the 1928 Cupola. The Will caused the usual panic of mirth when the ridiculed victims were forced to come forward and accept their heritages.

The Seniors presented as a parting gift to the school a beautiful Lalique Vase, of an opalescent bluish hue, and of the grasshopper design.

Wednesday, June 1, was an unusually clear and beautiful day for the crowning event of Commencement Week. The program began as usual at half past ten with the ceremony of hanging memorial wreaths on the Adelia Gates Hensley

Gates, and the entrance of the Elizabeth Somers Chapel. The procession was headed by members of the Faculty and School carrying wreaths of yellow roses and daises, then came Miss Cole and Miss Messenger with Dr. Earl Barnes and Rev. Frederick Harris, followed by the Faculty and Senior Class in cap and gown. Following them came the School in classes, a rainbow of color in their dresses of pale pink, yellow, blue and green.

The procession entered the Chapel to the strains of Meyerbeer's march "The Prophet," played by the Washington National String Quartet with Mr. Adolf Torovsky at the organ. After the singing of the Doxology the quartet played two lovely selections from McDowell, "At an Old Trysting Place," and "To a Wild Rose." This was followed by a prayer by Rev. Frederick Brown Harris of Foundry Methodist Church, after which the quartet played Handel's "Largo," without which no M. V. S. Commencement is ever complete. The Address to the graduating Class was delivered by Dr. Earl Barnes, of New Hartford, Conn., and was followed by the quartet's playing of "Scherzo," by French. After the presentation of the diplomas the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Harris, and Miss Ball's "Golden Jubilee March" concluded the service.

The address by Dr. Barnes on "What Is Worth While?" was most inspiring and we regret that it cannot be printed here in full, but hope that the following quotations may give some idea of its character:

"What is most worth while in life should be first in education; and I should say the most fundamental thing in either is knowledge, knowledge which may later ripen into wisdom.

"Knowledge we must have as a guide to conduct and to give us the happiness that comes with discovery. But we constantly find that the most learned of men and women may be selfish, immoral and most unhappy.

"What more, then, does this school seek to give and what is really worth while? I should say the second aim is a cultivated nature. We must learn self-restraint and self-direction. Here the arts must be our guides. Music, poetry, literature and art represent the visions of excellence which noble souls have held and which they have passed on to us.

"We must add to knowledge and culture the spirit of service and the ability to render it.

"The noblest of all service seems to me that of the teacher. He adds to the necessities of life all the higher values. Whether he teaches through the pulpit, the press, the home or the school, his work is equally important.

"These three things—knowledge, a cultivated nature, with a burning desire to serve and ability to do it—seem to me the foundations of a good life.

"A friend is one with whom you are more yourself than when you are alone.

"So I must have a religion to give setting to my life and to fill in the spaces where I can neither know nor act.

"All day we shall have to make choices. Character is formed from the choices we make. What shall we choose? What is worth while? I answer: knowledge, culture, service, friendship, love and religion."

JANET GARDNER, '27.

NOTES FROM "THE GREATER M. V. S."

When the results of the usual intelligence tests were tabulated last October it was found that the scores ran much higher than in previous years. This indication of a higher level of intelligence has been proved correct throughout the year by the delightful spirit of intelligent cooperation manifested throughout the whole student body. More interest than usual has been shown in creative work of all kinds, and the results were evident in the exhibitions at the end of the year. An unusual number have found pleasure in expressing themselves through poetry, some of which has been of high order and will, it is hoped, eventually be collected into a small volume of Mount Vernon Seminary Verse. Now that the summer has come it is hoped that this sort of work will not stop but that, when October comes again, there will be something worth while to show for the leisure months. It is with this idea that credit has been offered during the last two years for any worth while sustained piece of work. In the past two years valuable collections of shells and sea-weed native to the Coast of Panama have been made and mounted by Marguerite Herrick and presented to the Science Department. In 1926 Frances Cocroft brought back a lovely collection of butterflies which have been of the greatest value to the Biology classes and mean much more to everyone because they are the work of a former student. The same summer Helen Raynor undertook the entire housekeeping for her family, bringing back with her samples of the menus she had prepared, time schedules she had made out, and a signed statement from her family as to the satisfaction her conduct of the house had given them.

At the end of this summer it is hoped that a number of girls will be ready to give a short recital composed of music which they have worked up themselves during the long vacation. In addition to this elective work, every girl is given a list of interesting books which she is required to read in English, French and German. These lists are sent also to all new girls so that when the classes reassemble there will be a common background of experience from which to work and so help to bridge the gap between the new and old, between play and work.

The Elizabeth Somers

We welcome every opportunity that makes possible a contact of our present student body with the Old School. Accordingly, we were very pleased when we learned that the girls of the Home very much wanted a silk American flag for the Music Room. The Lend-a-Hand Society lost no time in securing the best silk flag of the dimensions required, and one Saturday afternoon a committee of five, four of whom were school granddaughters, went to the Elizabeth Somers to make the presentation. The flag was presented by Miss Gretchen Dishong, President of the Lend-a-Hand Society, and was received by Mrs. Woodbury Pulsifer, the Chairman of the House Committee.

Mrs. Pulsifer very kindly showed us about the house and we noted, with pleasure, that it was being well kept up. Among the improvements, of which they are justly proud, is the installation of frigid air. They are moving the book-cases from the old Reading Room into Mrs. Somers' private dining room, and will turn the Reading Room into a dormitory.

Mrs. Somers looked approvingly from her lovely portrait which hangs on the wall in the Music Room as the girls gave this mark of their interest in the work of her hands.

Senior Privileges

The very high morale of the student body in recent years has deepened our confidence in the power of the modern girl to control her own conduct wisely. We have had such splendid cooperation, for the past few years, from the Senior Class, in our community government, that it has seemed only just to recognize their willingness to take responsibility, and the wisdom with which they have controlled matters delegated to them, by increase of privileges. It seems very certain that our girls have learned that increase of privilege means increase of responsibility.

During the past year we have given the members of the Senior Class several additional privileges to which they have responded in such a way as to justify our confidence. We have permitted them to have an open calling list, if their parents consent, and also to shop on any Saturday which they may elect. We have also granted them the privilege of going to the theatre or a moving picture on Friday evening or Saturday afternoon once a month, under proper chaperonage. The last term, we permitted them to keep their lights on until eleven o'clock, if they so desired, but stipulated, of course, that there must be absolute quiet and no visiting in each other's rooms after the ten o'clock "lights out bell." We are happy to record that the Seniors have used this privilege sparingly, wisely and to no one's discomfort.

Feeling that girls of college age ought to have more responsibility and more privileges than the girls in college preparatory years, we are hoping next year to grant increase of privileges to the members of the Junior Class also. With this end in view, we are asking Juniors to room together on the Senior side of the house.

Mount Vernon Seminary Plays Hostess

During the Christmas holidays, we entertained, at school, seventy Mount Holyoke girls who came to sing Christmas carols in the Church of the Epiphany on Sunday evening. President Woolley had given her consent to have the Glee Club sing in Washington, provided they were entertained in homes. As the Mount Holyoke Alumnae Association in Washington is very small, it became our privilege to open the doors of the school to the entire group.

Seated on the floor in the Great Hall in front of the grate fire, after the service at the church, they looked up into Mrs. Somers' face and felt something of the inspiration of her wonderful personality. Eager expressions of pleasure in the beauty of the school, as they wended their ways to their rooms, after light refreshment, were heard on every side. After breakfast, the next morning, they assembled in the Great Hall and sang a few selections for the members of the faculty before they started off on a sight-seeing expedition which ended their stay in Washington.

The visit of the Mount Holyoke College Glee Club was regarded as a musical treat in the minds of Washington's foremost musicians. An invitation has been extended to them to repeat their visit this coming season.

New M. V. S. Chapters

Great interest is expressed in the forming of new chapters. Miss Cole has promised to go to Michigan and Georgia next year if the girls there shall decide to form M. V. S. Chapters.

New Members of Faculty

The Art History course this year has been under the able direction of Miss Dora Guille Faulkner, a graduate of Dalhousie University, and a teacher of varied and successful experience. Miss Faulkner has maintained a high standard of work in her department and carried her classes in history, as well, with enthusiasm.

Another happy addition to our faculty was in Mlle. Jeanne Moulé de la Raitrie, Brevet d'Institutrice (Académie de Besançon). Mlle. Moulé's work has been scholarly and thorough, and greatly enjoyed by her students.

Both of these teachers have been delightful acquisitions to the faculty.

We are looking eagerly forward to the return of Miss Grace Carroll, as assistant to Miss Martin, next year. Although her work has been very ably carried by Miss Hall, this year, we have missed Miss Carroll sorely and are greatly rejoiced in the thought of her return. Miss Carroll has spent a delightful year in Europe with her little sister, and returns to this country in August.

The Library is growing apace—which fact bespeaks the continued pressure of the teachers for broader reference work and individual effort on the part of the student. Some of the books recently acquired are the following: Pijoan—Volumes I and II—"An Outline History of Art"; Crow and Cavalcaselles—"History of Painting in Italy"; Sandburg—"Life of Lincoln"; Sullivan's—"Our Times"; "The Letters of Charles and Mary Lamb"; "The Letters of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning"; "The Letters of Jane Welch Carlyle," and "Recollections and Letters of Robert E. Lee;" seven volumes of "The Pageant of America," published by the Yale University Press, to be used in conjunction with the fifty volumes of "The Chronicles of America"; the latest volume of the still unfinished Oxford Dictionary (a treasured tome!); Robinson's "Ordeal of Civilization"; Breasted's "The Conquest of Civilization"; Bryan's "History of the National Capital."

Miss Anna H. Chase, daughter of the late Senator Jonathan Chase of Rhode Island, in honor of her father, has presented to our Library ten volumes of recent publications dealing with The League of Nations and other International topics. They lent themselves a happy service in furnishing up-to-date reference material for the Senior Essays.

The Poems of Masefield, Sandburg and Edna St. Vincent Millay are valued additions, not to mention many volumes in interest of the Science, Economics, and Music Departments.

Come and see and like my Library.

The Genevieve Stewart Scholarship Cup

As we all know Honor Roll and membership in Optima have been for many years the much coveted rewards for high scholarship and unceasing watchfulness over the "little things." However, beyond the reading of her name on School Day, we have had no special recognition for the girl who made the highest record for the year. This year, Genevieve Stewart, 1927, of Flint, Michigan, a girl who has been in the school for five years, was President of the Junior Class, and of Optima in her Senior year, graciously presented to the School a silver loving cup of exquisite design to be known as the Scholarship Cup. It is to be awarded each year to the girl who has the highest academic standing. This year six girls had thirty-five honor points, the maximum number, meaning that they "made" Star Honor Roll every month. To award the cup it was necessary to study carefully each girl's record. We congratulate Eileen Lafferty, of the Junior Class, on being first to win the honor of having her name placed on the Genevieve Stewart Scholarship Cup.

AFTER HEARING CARL SANDBURG, 25TH APRIL, 1927

Impressions written in thirty-five minutes in class without preparation and without revision, on the third day following Mr. Sandburg's lecture at Mount Vernon Seminary.

They tell me he was once a waiter Slinging cheap plates of pork and beans, corned beef and cabbage
To a hungry crowd.

They tell me he was once a farm hand
Feeding pigs with mangy corn,
Tossing hay with a long pitchfork.
They tell me he has worked his way up—
Up from the river bottoms—
Up from the brown dirt of the backyards of the Middle West.

And today he is here
Reaching up to the stars
To pull down words;
Words that sing themselves
Words that he bites off like Red Star chewing tobacco;
Words that flow off his tongue like western honey.
And he plays with these words
As he stands before us
Gaunt and rugged,
With a shock of silver straw for hair
And two blue cornflowers for eyes,
And a smile that he might have gotten
From the sunshine on a mill pond.
And his voice is mellow
And roughly sweet
As he plays with these words

And of them makes music—
Music such as moonlit rivers
And music such as the clashing of dishpans.
Music—
And we listen
And because we are very modern
And today's poetry means to us
The notes of a golden saxophone Played on the harps of the wind—or—
A drop of silver moonshine
In a teacup of Delft blue
We are pleased, and we clap,
And he brings out his old guitar
And with the tank-a-tank—tank-a-tank
He sings.
And his voice is sky—and earth
And a vein of silver
In a red rock,
Like the voice of corn huskers at twilight.
And he sings
Songs of the river,
And the darkies shuffling,
And the corn moon smiling
Down the low purple hills;
Songs of the river,
And the fish boats sliding
And the watched sun sneering
From the pastel sky.
And then he reads of Jazzmen
And his voice goes up and down
Like the bucket in the old well by the barn;
And you feel as you ought to be dancing
Instead of sitting there, listening—
Quiet like.
And the Jazzmen
Croon and go hush-a-hush

With the slippery sandpaper.
And the red moon
Winks with huge right eye
From the top of the low river hills.
And then he reads of Chick Lorimer
And we wonder
Who was Chick Lorimer?
And if he had ever known her—
If he had ever seen her on the street
And tipped his hat, and said,
"Hello, Chick!"
If his heart was one of the five—or fifty—
That she broke
When she went away.
And he goes on and on
And we wish he would never stop;
And we listen
And our ears are alive
For we are listening to a man
Who has pulled himself up—
Up from the river bottoms—
Up from the brown dirt of the backyards of the Middle West
To reach up into the murky, sooty skies above Chicago
And other cities thereabouts—
To reach up—and up—and up.
And pull down a star.

IN MEMORIAM

Miss Helen Froeligh, Died April 8, 1927

All who knew Miss Helen Froeligh, teacher of Mathematics and Commercial Geography at Mount Vernon Seminary from 1920-1925, will hear with sadness of her untimely death which occurred Friday, April eighth, at Waverley Sanatorium, Rockville, Maryland.

Although for nearly two years ill health had prevented her from teaching, Miss Froeligh never lost her interest in the school, nor did she cease to think of herself as associated with it. Her mental activity in spite of illness, her fortitude in time of suffering, and her ever generous thought of others will always be remembered by those who came in contact with her. Not by its length, but by its breadth and depth must her life be measured.

The sympathy of all is extended to her aunt, Miss E. W. Froeligh, of Hampton Institute, Virginia, who may find some consolation still in the mere recollection of a relationship so marked by unflinching devotion and affection.

IN MEMORIAM

Louise Duvall, Died August 8, 1926

In the death of Louise Duvall, the class of 1894 has suffered a severe blow. That M. V. S. was dear to her heart Louise showed in many ways, and her life and work give ample proof that M. V. S. may well be proud of her daughter.

Comparatively few of the Alumnae Association realize how Louise had progressed in her professional capacity as Chief Librarian of the Bureau of Chemistry, Department of Agriculture, and we may be justly proud of a graduate who, without supplementary college education, was able to fill so brilliantly her responsible position.

She entered the Library of Chemistry in September, 1906, following the passage of the famous Food and Drugs Act, and during all these intervening years took a keen interest in making the Chemical Library of the greatest possible use to members of the scientific staff.

Louise was recognized as a force, and through her vivid personality—"created an atmosphere," being exceedingly just and fair in all her relations. Not content with directing the circulation of books and periodicals, Louise carried on continual research work in the Main Department Library and has, herself, contributed to the literature of the Bureau. Someone has aptly said, "A hundred years ago chemistry was a toy—today it is a tool." Louise demonstrated this by writing an extremely interesting booklet, called "Books to Humanize Chemistry for the Layman." Lack of appropriating funds, on the part of the Government has delayed the publication, but the work is constantly used for reference in the Library.

Louise is also the author of "References for the Study of the Chemistry of the Cotton Plant and its Products" published in Agricultural Notes by the Library of Chemistry, and also in The Food and Drug Review and used in agricultural colleges throughout the United States.

This is enough concerning her splendid life-work which will live on through the years. That work in no way deprived her family of her loving companionship and they had daily evidence of her devotion and loyalty. To her bereaved family, whose loss is so great, the Class of 1894 extends sincere sympathy and condolence.

A chemist in charge of one of the laboratories asked that a few lines by Stanley on "What is Success?" be published in connection with the notice of Louise Duvall's death, and we heartily agree with his opinion that the lines are most applicable.

He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much;

Who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children;

Who has left the world better than he found it; whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul;

Who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it;

Who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had;

Whose life was an inspiration;

PERSONALS

If you had a wonderful experience last year or are going to have a simply marvelous time this year—why didn't you share it with us?

Please send us personals addressed to the Editor of the Annual in care of M. V. S., up to June 1, 1928.

Please remember we wish especially news of the Alumnae since this is the Alumnae Annual, and please, please write names very legibly giving maiden as well as married names and class years as well.

THE PERSONALS EDITOR.

Faculty personals.

Miss Cole, Miss Guard and Mrs. Payne motored to New York for the Spring vacation and happily met their many "M. V. Sers," including Miss Kuttz and Miss Klotz and Estelle Rodgers Hewlett with her delightful "Little David."

In the course of a trip through the White Mountains, Miss Cole had the pleasure of a call on Edith Cook Durand; also, she stopped to see Miss Davis, who, it will be remembered, has a charming camp for girls.

In mid-July, Miss Cole and Miss Guard start their motor trip through Canada, Nova Scotia, the coast of Maine and Cape Cod. Miss Guard is looking forward to what promises to be a delightful vacation, and even before it commences Miss Cole reports herself as feeling "wonderfully well."

Miss Slausson is hard at work at Columbia this summer, finishing the requirements for her M.A., and going on for her Ph.D.

Miss Elting and Miss Faulkner have taken an apartment in New York and are reveling in being students instead of teachers this summer, each working along her chosen line.

Miss Churchyard is traveling in Spain, having thereby, a complete change of sight and sound and circumstance.

Mrs. Payne refuses to be personal except to say that she is "Just living and getting crosser every moment," which is so manifestly absurd that we give her exact words!

Miss Kletz is working away at her beloved mathematics at Pennsylvania University. We haven't learned whether she feels the need of any other recreation during the summer.

Mrs. McAllister is going to motor up to Prim's Point, Nova Scotia, and for two months live the simple life in a little bungalow.

Miss Hill responds to the call of the sea if not the call of the wild by her usual trip to Atlantic City.

Miss Barber is to be "Here, there and everywhere in New England," than which, many of us think, nothing could be more delightful.

Miss Blakeslee will be at M. V. S. until mid-August when she will start her vacation in the mountains. She is as yet undecided as to whether her choice will be the White mountains or those of North Carolina.

Mrs. Murphy plans for nothing more definite than "New York," with the qualifying, "In August, somewhere, where it is cool"— which is not likely to be New York, Mrs. Murphy!

Miss Trippett and Miss Brouse have a cottage on the coast of Maine, the very one that Miss Cole and Miss Guard first thought of securing.

Mme. Peltier is abroad enjoying the months of her vacation with her daughter and grandchild.

Mlle. Moulé has this year been a delightful and valuable addition to our French department. We hope that she will grow as fond of us as we already are of her.

Miss Martin is spending the summer in her cottage near St. John's.

Miss Grace Carroll after a year's leave of absence will come back to us and continue her work as second nurse.

Mrs. Rickett and Miss Elsie Edwards have chosen each other and August for the best results in vacationing.

Miss Hanna is keeping her plans to herself but we strongly suspect her of working at something somewhere in some university!

Miss Hillyar at our time of going to press was still in Washington, and we defy anyone to produce a better summer resort than Washington, D. C., in June, 1927.

"Miss Hoppie," is taking her vacation in her dearly loved hills of old Virginia.

Miss Ball, who was with us at M. V. S. for seven years and who has recently opened a Summer school for piano students in historic Cooperstown, N. Y., has been obliged to go to Arizona for her health. We hope the wonderful air will speedily do its healing work.

Mrs. Rickett visited her son at Columbia, Missouri, in June and spent July with her daughter in Madison, Wisconsin.

Miscellanea.

"Old girls," will be interested to learn that M. V. S. hears frequently from Miss Harbaugh's sisters who live in New York.

This year our M. V. S. girls voted to leave all their books that could be spared to the Caney Creek children, and perhaps more than two hundred were sent to gladden the hearts and enrich the minds of those eager and earnest boys and girls.

We wish that all of you and us could see the beautiful effect of the new green shutters on the Chapel. It is as if one were in the beautiful cool silent aisle of some deep forest.

M. V. S. has a special interest in the graduation of Mabel Grosvenor from Mt. Holyoke this year, for Mabel was an honor girl at our school as well as at Mt. Holyoke. It comes to us as a gratification but not a surprise to learn that she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She represents the fourth successive generation of her family to win that high honor. What next? An M. D.!

Many an M. V. S. girl remembers Reba J. Taylor, for years a much loved nurse at School. At the time of the World War she was among the first to answer the Red Cross call for volunteer nurses, and we know she took with her into the service a serene and helpful cheerfulness and an idealism that never faltered under the dreadful ordeal of war. She served until fatal illness brought her back home to die in the Homeopathic Hospital of Washington, D. C.

The nurses of the Alumnae association of that hospital have completely furnished and equipped a class room for nurses in training in her memory and have placed a memorial tablet honoring their comrade who was also the founder of their Association and for eight years its President. Her picture in Red Cross uniform is also there, a mute reminder of duty and devotion and sacrifice.

No M. V. S. "personals" are quite complete without mention of—have you guessed? In the kind and competent care of Martha, Junior and Nixie lead their doggish and cattish lives in safety and serenity and happiness. Perhaps in their own ways they know why so many times the hands that stroke them have an added tenderness.

Spring brought the M. V. S. faculty a very great pleasure in a Faculty tea given by Helen Blodgett Erwin in her beautiful new home. The spacious colonial house, crowning a hill, commands a wonderful view of Washington over the trees of Rock Creek Park. A wide walk of flagstones leads to the entrance between rows of box transplanted from an old Maryland estate. Within, the house is beautiful in every detail and is furnished in charming style. Helen was ably assisted in her duties as hostess by her two precious babies, Aileen and Hope. The members of the faculty were those who were at M. V. S. during Helen's school years; Miss Cole, Miss Walker, Mme. Peltier, Miss Guard, Miss Ames with Miss Morgan, and Miss Edwards. They had a delightful time exploring every corner of the new home. An unexpected and wholly delightful treat was Helen's singing of two selections in a charming manner. She has a lovely soprano voice and has been studying for some time with Mrs. Butterworth, of Washington.

In the long list of old girls who were welcomed at M. V. S. during the past year appear the names of the following alumnæ:

Helen Palmer Pinkham, 1899; May Prince Zimmerman, 1916; Florence Ingram Howard, 1902; Josephine Foster Leich, 1907; Emeline ("Lovie") Spry Keyes, 1906; Phila Milbank McFie, 1908; Anna Foss Jewett, 1909; Alice Kehnen Zittell, 1897; Esther Bender Hibbard, 1919; Mary Belle Hudson, 1903; Edith Cook Durand, 1890; Gretchen Steele, 1922; Elizabeth Duncan Mallan, 1896; Gertrude Hegardt Halsey, 1916; Eleanore Brush Hempstead, 1891; Anne Kelsey Robinson, 1918; Lucy Ball Owsley, 1916; Marian A. Gaffney, 1925; Mary C. Woolfolk, 1926; Ruth Janet Martin, 1925; Charlotte Spencer, 1924; Pauline Gates Heely, 1915; Anne Young, Blanch E. Daggett, Alice V. Campbell, Renate Zimmers, Caroline Sweeney, Esther Nash Myers, all of 1926; Bess Van Buskirk Hamilton, 1906; Cornelia Baum Burke, 1923; Hermeda Hartje Wiley, 1915; Elizabeth Fleming Boardman, 1922; Eleanor Sowers Faison, 1896; Franceska Kaspar Lawson, 1900; Estelle Rodgers Hewlett, 1909.

Class of 1877

It was a great disappointment to the Alumnae Association that Mrs. Martha Stewart Carey was not able to attend her golden reunion. It had been expected that her gracious presence and charming wit that were such features of our Jubilee would be memorable additions to the pleasure of the 1927 Reunion. However, we can and do, wish her a happy summer abroad.

Class of 1879

Adalyn Smith Holden has been spending six months in California where she visited her daughter, Mrs. R. H.

Hornidge. On her way home she visited her son, Randall, in Chattanooga.

Class of 1880

Anna Kennedy who has lately suffered from a broken ankle made a special effort to attend the 1927 Reunion, and although she felt a bit lonely in representing her class—there is but one other surviving member—she enjoyed the meeting greatly and was quite wildly enthusiastic over the charming pageant.

Class of 1881

Anne Ames and Cornelia Morgan are planning their fifth consecutive Chautauqua season—it looks as though the Inseparables had formed the Chautauqua habit! In March they spent two weeks at Locust Grove, a Virginia home two hundred and fifty years in the same family—hearken unto that all ye dwellers-by-the-year in apartment houses! Spring was on its way in March and Locust Grove overflowed with young life, kittens, puppies, lambs, hundreds of downy chicks and, dearest of all, six children, among them, the precious namesake of Cornelia and her sister, little Mary Cornelia.

Anne Ames' new typewriter is one of the most beloved machines in Washington. Every day brings her increasing skill in its use and greater joy in its possession.

Some years ago in the early days of her teaching, Harriet Belle Walker had as a pupil a small boy named Alfred F. Glancy, who afterwards became President of the Pontiac-Oakland automobile company and, incidentally, husband of one of Harriet Belle's M. V. S. pupils, Lenora Courts. This year two daughters, Lenora and Louise are members of the school. This little tale of two generations of pupils is told to explain the recent appearance of Alfred Glancy in the rôle of Fairy Prince, bestowing on the beloved teacher a beautiful Pontiac car, a gift so thoughtful and so spontaneous, so unexpected and so appreciated that its story was an event of the school year. It would warm the donor's generous heart could he see the "Blue Belle" rolling along Nebraska Avenue with Harriet Belle's shining eyes fixed on the road and her firm hand grasping the wheel.

Class of 1882

Elizabeth Leech reports that she has nothing exciting to offer as news. She is a member of that most useful and valuable government bureau, the U. S. Forest Service, and at home is the loving and loyal daughter of a ninety year old mother.

Class of 1884

Louise Prentiss True has sold her charming house and gone into an apartment, the latter sharing honors with her bungalow on Chesapeake Bay.

Frances Scoville Wishard spent part of the winter in Mobile, Alabama. She went to Pottsville, Pennsylvania, in April to attend the wedding of her son Scoville to Miss Helen Rickert. Soon after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Scoville Wishard sailed for England where he will complete his theological studies at Oxford.

Class of 1885

Agnes Inch writes, "I live quietly alone with a lovely Pussy in a cozy little apartment with the windows open to the sea, spend most of my time in church work with the children—Sunday school and Junior Christian Endeavor. Now and then I slip over to New York where "Rob," my brother, is now Federal judge with a dear wife and a son on the football team of St. John's."

Class of 1886

Nettie Steinmetz Baines is contemplating a motor trip through Maine. We hope the weather will be a little warmer than it was in Washintgon in May!

Class of 1887

Augusta Elghmey is wandering over the earth somewhere between Europe and the storied land of Egypt.

Grace, Willis, indefatigable Treasurer of the Alumnae Association, refuses to be interviewed but we suspect her of intending to spend the summer gloating over the ever increasing roll of those who have paid their Alumnae dues in full, and holding Ways and Means sessions with herself on inducements for backsliders.

Class of 1888

Mary Bradford Stone and her husband are motoring this June to New England to attend the graduation of their son, Bradford Winchester, from Dartmouth College. Their younger son is completing his first year there.

At the dedication of the Washington Y. W. C. A. building this spring, Mary, assisted by Elsie Edwards and others, presented the history of the Association in an unique way. The Incorporators (of whom Mary was one) dressed in the actual garments worn twenty-two years ago and seated in an improvised airplane, told the story of the growth of the Association as pictures illustrating it were flashed on a screen.

Clara Ford Nesbit whose husband has been slowly recovering from a long illness will spend July at Swampscott and August and September in the White Mountains.

Ada Steinmetz had a very interesting trip to the West Indies last March.

Class of 1889

Anna King Bean made her usual Christmas visit to her sister, Mrs. William K. Butler, mother of Eleanor Butler Wales, 1918.

Class of 1890

Naomi Taylor is now engaged in most interesting but very strenuous work with the Y. W. C. A. The delightful new building is the scene of her activities and her life rivals a doctor's in its demands upon her time.

Class of 1891

Marion Lilley Taylor has been much occupied with family affairs this year, having celebrated the marriages of two daughters, Mary and Lucy, one wedding taking place in February and one in May.

Clara Seipp Bartholomay, her husband and daughter, are spending the summer in southern Germany.

Phila Calder Nye is in Europe doing research work for Princeton University. It is believed she is pursuing an elusive sign of the zodiac cunningly located to gladden the heart of an archæologist.

Eleanor Brush Hempstead and her husband spent a few days in Washington in May on their return from several weeks at Hot Springs, Va. They expect to spend the summer in Arizona.

Class of 1893

Blanche Swope Mirick went to Princeton for June Week to attend the graduation of her eldest son.

Alice E. Edwards studied for some weeks this summer with her former teacher of singing, Mrs. Robinson Duff, in New York. She expects to spend the month of August in Boothbay Harbor, Maine, with her niece Miss Alice L. Edwards. Mrs. Rickett and her daughter, Miss Peggy Rickett, will be with them.

Class of 1894

Mazie Brown Mesny's daughter, Marguerite, recently returned from a stay abroad of a year and a half, visiting her father's relatives in England, France, and the Channel Islands. She arrived just in time for the thrill of June Week at West Point.

Ivy Green Chase returned to Washington recently and will, we hope, make her home near the city at Lyon Village, Va.

Elise Dufour Pinchon's daughter, Frances Ryan Cody (herself a former M. V. S. pupil) whose home is now in Paris, has been visiting in Washington with her small son, Peter Malcolm Cody.

Grace Wright Capen's husband, Dr. Samuel P. Capen, Chancellor of Buffalo University, on June 8, 1927, delivered the Graduation address to the Class of 1927 of George Washington University. His general subject was the open mind, and his plea was for personal conviction rather than party following in all lines of thought and endeavor. The University conferred upon Dr. Capen the degree of Doctor of Science.

Class of 1895

Nora Michener Mohun's daughter Elizabeth evidently loves Barnard too well to be parted from it for three months. She is taking a summer course there this year.

Class of 1896

Eleanor Sowers Faison came down to Washington to see the reception given to Lindbergh by the Washingtonians. She was not able to get out to the School but Miss Guard saw her for a little while on "Lindbergh Day."

Bertha Ellis Palmer and her husband, Dr. T. S. Palmer of the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey, enjoyed a combination of business and pleasure last October when they attended the meeting of the Ornithologists' Union in Ottawa, Canada.

Florence Miller has just returned from an unusual trip. She went to California overland and came back by water, touching Central America. At Corinto, Nicaragua, a revolution was in progress and the streets were full of fascinating "Chocolate Soldiers," giving the town a delightful air of light opera. At Havana signs of the great storm were very evident. At one place Florence saw an automobile that had been blown completely through a wall!

Bertha Ellis Palmer and her father will spend the summer on the New Jersey coast. Dr. Palmer is engaged in doing scientific work in California.

Class of 1897

Norinne Sanders Anderson cannot rest from club life and its responsibilities. She had just finished serving her term as regent of the Chickamauga chapter of the D. A. R. when she was elected President of the Chattanooga Woman's Club.

Class of 1898

Helen Slater Mallory tells us of her regret that the call of her farm prevents her attendance at the Reunion almost every year. When Helen says "farm," she means, "farm," not a week-end cottage in a garden but a real Virginia farm way up near Harper's Ferry. Recently a misguided dog killed ten of her sheep, selecting, alas! the most valuable of the flock. But all is not tragedy. The brighter side of the picture shows the young tenant farmer's family, the great blond young man himself, his dark eyed energetic and capable little wife and the sixteen months old boy. Wherever the father goes Boy is with him, pink cheeked, blue eyed, with his golden curls crowned with a miniature farmer's hat. Hay field or potato patch are alike to the little chap who takes life as he finds it (and he finds it good!) curling up anywhere for his naps and eating ("believe it or not") anything and everything the farm table offers. You who count the calories for Junior need read no farther. Boy has a rather special fondness for pickles and has never known illness in his happy little life!

Stella Ford Schlotman and her husband had planned to take their children on a tour of schools in and about New York and Washington, giving them a chance to observe and perhaps choose for themselves where they wanted to go. Plans were changed because of a death in the family and the illness of another member. Greatly to Stella's regret she was not able, therefore, to visit Washington and her beloved M. V. S. this spring.

Class of 1899

Lillian Lake Chance is learning what it means to have "grown-up" sons. Her younger boy is with the U. S. Forest Service and is now located in New Hampshire, and her older son has a very advantageous position in the Packard motor company.

Class of 1900

Theda Buck is having quite an extensive vacation abroad. After taking the Mediterranean trip she went to Paris for six weeks and for the last month has been in England. In July she expects to be joined by her sister, Katharine Buck Sherman and Katharine's daughter, Theda, and the three of them will spend the summer in England, Scotland and Wales.

Jessie Dimmick Van Deusen is having a lovely time with her sons, her husband and her garden, enough entertainment for any woman, she assures us. Church work and (she did not tell us this but we know it) kind hands stretched out to lift and ease another's burdens keep her life sane and wholesome as well as happy.

Grace Janney's enthusiasm over her school charges grows apace. The Rotary Club sends a bus to the Italian and other foreign sections of Washington and makes a collection of mothers and babies which it deposits at the Webster School. Lack of space forbids details but of such is Americanization.

Helen Michener Halstead who has always regretted having to miss the Jubilee was fortunate enough to be present on Founder's Day last year.

Class of 1903

Mateel Howe Farnham has achieved notable distinction in the literary world by having won the $10,000 prize offered by Dodd Mead and Co., the Pictorial Review and First National Pictures, Inc., for the best "first novel." Her book "Rebellion" will appear in serial form beginning in the August Pictorial Review. It is reported that Mateel is even now well into another novel and all M. V. S. will be interested to follow her career.

Miriam Prince Peyser's husband, Major Julius I. Peyser, has been elected Member-at-large of the National Social Science Honor Society of Pi Gamma Mu of the National chapter located at Williamsburg, Virginia. This honor was conferred upon him because of his activities in legal research in questions involving social science.

Class of 1907

Helen Meyers has this year become Miss Cole's secretary and in congratulating her on that privilege we are also able to congratulate Miss Cole on her good fortune in acquiring the loyal, enthusiastic and able Helen.

Class of 1909

Elsie Foederer who sailed for Europe March last had an unusual and particularly interesting trip—eight weeks in Italy, the coast of Dalmatia, fascinating with its many islands—enchanted Ragusa, and finally a motor trip over the mountains into Herzegovina and Bosnia with two nights in that town of terrible fame, Sarajevo.

Kathleen Scott Catts has been in Washington this past winter since her husband has been detailed to the Army War College.

Marie Stewart Labat is looking forward to a motor trip of peculiar interest. She and her husband and a group from Georgetown University are going to Vienna and through Rumania on a return visit to certain foreign students. It is expected that their experiences will be quite out of the ordinary.

Class of 1914

Alma Schmidt Petersen is reported by Helen Blodgett Erwin as being the mother of "three fine boys, Edward, Conrad and William, the last named being a sturdy baby of six months."

Class of 1915

Ruth Orton Camp is too busy or too modest (or both) to tell us that she has two splendid children, little dark eyed Caroline, and Nicholas a curly headed blonde.

Pauline Gates Heely was the guest of Helen Blodgett Erwin for a short time following Commencement.

Naomi Hoffman who has been studying singing in New York for several years made her debut in New York at Steinway Hall on May 6. She has a lovely soprano voice and gave a most interesting and successful program.

Class of 1916

Lois Mayer is keeping busy with French in college and with her singing. This year she sang at two nurses' commencements, her own at college and at several amateur productions. She had also a pleasant experience in a musicale given at her home by a coloratura soprano recently of the Chicago Opera Company, who was also her guest.

Class of 1917

Naomi Wilson Hayward writes that they have a lovely new home in Johannesburg, South Africa and a wonderful baby!

Class of 1918

Helen Yeatman Doughty and her babies have wonderful days on Lookout Mountain. Perhaps one of the most unusual was last Easter. The old hen that had hidden her nest brought out ten fluffy chicks, little wild rabbits flicked their cotton tails true to Easter tradition, but the wonder and the glory was the sight the morning brought—the whole field covered with wild canaries as though the dandelions had come to life and song. Think of the joy of Harriet aged three and a half! Think of the thrill of baby Cornelia Anne looking on with those black eyes that Grandfather said, "Would look the bottom out of a tin cup!"

Mary Elizabeth Payne Chance is mentioned by a certain member of the faculty as having two fascinating little sons—the italics are part of the quotation.

Class of 1919

Mary Louise Allen writes, "...I leave in June for the west coast, taking the Canadian Rockies trip and will visit Virginia Houston Cherry for a while, sailing from San Francisco on July 20 for Hawaii where I visit my sister Mrs. Raymond H. Coombs at Schofield Barracks. I expect to be gone a year and hope to attend the University of Hawaii."

Class of 1921

"Mary Cunningham Hoard seems very happy," writes a classmate, "She wrote me about being Chairman of some Study Club to which she belongs. They apparently study a different subject each year, next year it will be the modern drama."

Katherine Powers Woodruff combines domesticity and drama. She has two small boys and yet finds time for such side issues as the Junior League play in which she recently took part—took two parts, in fact, one of a scrubwoman and one the responsible part of prompter.

Sarah Smith Wilkinson claims to be the worst housekeeper in the world "for the most wonderful man in the world." Oh, Totsie!

Dorothy Schmidt writes, "My 'job' this year has been to run the Junior League children's plays. Fascinating work as I adore the stage. It has been glorious, but strenuous!"

Class of 1922

Phyllis Shaw visited Sally Hawkes at Daytona Beach last winter.

Grace Jeremy writes of her preparations for marriage and life in Long Beach, California, where she hopes to be able to keep in touch with many "M. V. Sers".

Christine Schonblom was a guest of Grace Jeremy at the time of Grace's wedding in Salt Lake City in June.

Florence Williams has been attending a kindergarten school and expects to start teaching next year.

Class of 1924.

Class of 1925

Rosemary Ames has been studying at Mills College, California.

Dorothy Davidson wrote in late May, "I wish I could be at School for Commencement this year but I enjoyed my short visit there a few weeks ago and I loved seeing the school, the faculty and the girls again. We have moved from our apartment to a very lovely house and are so happy to have a real home with a nice garden and all the room we need."

Florence Birch visited Eleanor Marsh at her home in South Dartmouth, Massachusetts, after Commencement, later attending with her the wedding of Eleanore Haigh.

Marion Gaffney stopped at School for a day on her way to New York. She sailed from there on May 29th for a trip

Mary Strachan visited Elizabeth Bennett in San Antonio for about three weeks last January.

Class of 1926.

Elizabeth Bennett was a Duchess in the Annual Coronation in San Antonio. She was also one of the season's loveliest and most popular buds.

Alice Campbell and Renate Zimmers, after attending the closing exercises at School, left for Boston to take part in the wedding of Eleanore Haigh.

Pauline Gaut will spend the summer in Europe.

Anne Young made herself very useful in occupational therapy work at the University Hospital last winter.

Class of 1927.

The story is told that a certain high school senior, on receiving her diploma, waved it wildly, crying out to the world at large, "Hurrah, I'm educated!" The M. V. S. Class of 1927 evidently does not feel quite like that.

Kathryn Ferguson, President, plans to attend school in Pittsburgh next winter; Jane Armstrong goes on to Leland Stanford; Elizabeth Council expects to attend a dramatic school or to take a summer business course and assist her father for a time; Lois Lasater is to enter Texas University, Evaline Thompson goes to Washington University and Mary Adams has chosen the University of California.

Genevieve Stewart will study for six weeks with Miss Frances de Villa Ball at her summer school of music and then continue her musical education next winter at the Conservatory of Music in Detroit.

Jane Oliver will visit in the East before going home and will probably enter college in the fall. Odessa Erhard expects to go on with her schooling next fall, and Kathryn Hawkes, although yet undecided, may do the same; Mary Cunningham, without definite plans, inclines toward the fascinating study of interior decoration.

Frances Price will spend the summer in California and in visits to classmates in San Antonio. Wilma McFarland will have several of her classmastes as guests at some time during the summer and will sail for Europe in January. Beatrice Masterson will go home by boat with her parents the last of June and later in the summer will have Jane Oliver and Frances Price as her guests.

Margaret Meyer expects to travel with her family until fall, and Louise Wende will spend the summer in Europe.

The coming season's debutantes will include Madge Jarratt in San Antonio, Janet McKinney in Pittsburgh, Kathleen Sheldon and Janet Gardner in St. Louis.

Dorothy Thomson, Gretchen Dishong and Palmer Dallis have not made plans for immediate future—or are not revealing them!
